

GAMBLERS PLAN TO MOVE IN ON SOME COUNTY COMMUNITIES

Expect Little Interference in Certain Areas That Do Not Sign Contracts With New Police Department.

St. Louis area gamblers expect to be able to operate with little police interference after July 1 in some St. Louis county communities which do not sign contracts for police protection with the new county police department, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Police operators and bookmakers think some of the 96 incorporated villages, towns and cities in the county will not ask the new police department to assist in keeping law and order. It was said, and gamblers are preparing to move into those municipalities.

The new police department will begin functioning July 1 in all unincorporated areas of the county and in incorporated areas which have signed contracts for police protection. In addition it will have the power to enforce state laws, including gambling laws, throughout the county. It will operate under the direction of Superintendent Albert E. DuBois and a five-man board of police commissioners.

It was learned that some of the smaller communities, which have minimum police protection of their own, thus far have shown no interest in signing a contract with the county department.

Against 'Islands of Lawlessness.' James W. Connor, operating director of the St. Louis Crime Commission, who is serving as an advisor to DuBois in setting up the new police department, said the county ordinance authorizing the department does not "allow for islands of lawlessness in any municipal area."

"Organized mobsters seeking to entrench themselves in St. Louis county during the transition period of law enforcement duties from the sheriff to the new department are in for a rude awakening," he said.

Bookmakers in their constant effort to avoid police detection have adopted a new system, discovered recently by Maj. James Thompson, head of the St. Louis police gambling squad.

The bookmaker operates a cigar store or a fruit stand where money passes over the counter in legitimate trade. A better, buying a package of cigarettes, gives the clerk the amount of money he wishes to place on a horse and in turn is given a telephone number.

The number is for a telephone in a residential area. When the better calls he tells the person answering that horse he wishes to bet on and then says the clerk (naming him) has the money. The payoff is just as simple. The original clerk in the cigar store pays off, sometimes by placing the money in a cigar box, which is wrapped as a gift, or sometimes just over the counter as though returning change from a large bill.

Hard to Detect. Maj. Thompson said such an operation is very difficult for police to detect, and when it is detected the difficulty is in bringing the bookmaker and his telephone answerer together for prosecution.

Members of the Wortman gang, headed by Frank (Buster) Wortman, notorious East Side hoodlum, are in Las Vegas, Nev., the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Purpose of the trip was to avoid the "heat" generated by the bombing last Saturday of the automobile of East St. Louis Police Commissioner Russell T. Beebe, who recently raided one of Wortman's gambling establishments in East St. Louis.

North Side Rubbish Incinerator In Proposition 14 of Bond Issue

New Garbage Grinding Plant and Garage in Same Proposal for May 26 Vote.

By ROBERT A. DUNLAP
 Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.
 A new $2,000,000 rubbish incinerator for the north side is the principal proposal in proposition No. 14 of the $110,639,000 bond issue which will be before the voters next May 26. A favorable two-thirds majority of those voting on each of the 23 propositions is required for passage.

Like the new incinerator now operating on the south side at the foot of Gasconade street, the proposed new rubbish burner would replace the land fill method of trash disposal. City officials say the incinerator is needed to eliminate odors and smoke that accompany the landfill operation, and point out that the city is rapidly running out of land for this purpose.

The facility would be erected at the foot of East Grand avenue, although this site is tentative.

Also included in Proposition No. 14 are a new garbage grinding plant as an addition to the present plant at Fifteenth and Gratiot streets, and a new garage and office for the garbage section. Two old garbage grinders are operating in the city garage at Forest Park boulevard and Vandeventer avenue, but unlike the newer installation at Fifteenth and Gratiot, they are not located directly over the huge Mill Creek sewer for better disposal of the wastes.

The grinders have required extensive repairs in the last few years at a time when the new state law forbidding sale of untreated garbage as hog feed has imposed a heavier load on the city's facilities. It is planned to use parts from the old grinders to make any needed repairs on the more modern equipment at Fifteenth and Gratiot if the proposition passes. The new plant would cost $250,000.

The proposed new garage and office for the garbage section, costing an estimated $150,000, would be erected on city-owned land, if possible, and would house the garbage equipment repair shop and offices. While Gratiot streets, and a new garage

RED JETS BUZZ U.S. PLANE OVER DANISH ISLAND

COPENHAGEN, May 12 (UP)—Communist MIG jet fighters flew over Danish territory and started to intercept a United States Air Force training plane today, but did not open fire.

The American plane was a two-place jet trainer being delivered to Denmark's air force from a United States base in West Germany.

The two Americans in the plane, whose names were not released immediately, told Danish air force authorities that the Red fighters buzzed their plane over the Danish island of Lolland. The island lies 40 miles across the Baltic sea from Communist East Germany.

An official in the control tower of Copenhagen's Kastrup airport said the trainer landed at 10:34 a.m. It left its base at Landstus, Germany at 9:04 a.m.

3 KILLED WHEN CAR IS BLASTED TO BITS IN MILITARY CAMP

VALCARTIER, Que., May 12 (UP)—Three of four persons in an automobile were killed and the car was blasted to pieces early today when it was driven without permission into a restricted part of the sprawling Valcartier military camp.

Killed were Paul Odillon Daigle, 25 years old, father of two children; Adrienne Labranché, 22, and Marie Claire Daigle, 16. Paul Daigle and Marie Daigle were not related. Mrs. Paul Daigle was seriously injured.

Col. Harold Cathcart, camp commandant, said the party had invaded a firing range last night despite numerous "no trespassing" signs in English and French.

Cathcart said the party had loaded 40 or 50 shell and rocket cases and some grenades into their car parked in a stretch of sand. The load apparently was too heavy and the car bogged down. It was believed the grenades exploded when they started to unload some of the cargo.

The grenades had been marked to be destroyed today after they had failed to explode when thrown during an exercise.

MINER, PRINCESS DANCE; HE FINDS HER 'SMASHING'

LONDON, May 12 (INS)—A young English miner was properly impressed last night after a dance with Princess Margaret but all the same he kept his perspective.

The miner, Jack Taoduff, was a partner with the Princess in a square dance when she visited an English folk song society dancing exhibition.

After the dance, Taoduff commented: "She's smashing. So easy to talk to. It was the biggest thrill of my life."

"Oh well, back to the pit on Monday."

Navy Decides What It Will Do With Its Hamburger---Eat It

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Navy has found something to do with all that hamburger which has figured in the news lately: Eat it.

Orders to do exactly that were issued about three months ago, before all the publicity about the 886,020 pounds of canned hamburger in the Navy's larder.

R. M. R. J. Arnold, Navy supply chief, told of the eat-it-up order yesterday.

President Eisenhower remarked at his press conference that all the meat probably could be eaten up in five days.

REASSIGNMENT PLAN FOR POLICE IS STEPPED UP

Department Heads Move to Fight Crime by Transfers—Hopes Dim for Larger Force.

With the city administration and the police board opposing efforts by St. Louis members of the Legislature to increase the size of the police department, heads of the department today stepped up their program of reassigning men to cope more effectively with the rising crime rate.

Chief of Detectives James Chapman, given approval by the Police Board yesterday, began putting into effect his plan of reassigning to the detective division plainclothesmen now working as special officers under command of district captains.

Little Chance for Bill. Meanwhile, a bill which would increase the department's size by 95 men appeared to have little chance for passage at Jefferson City. It was approved last week by the House, but met strong opposition yesterday and a Senate committee deferred action on it until next week. The Legislature will adjourn the end of this month.

A resolution for appointment of a seven-man committee to study state laws pertaining to the metropolitan police department in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph was introduced today in the Senate by Senator William E. Hilsman (Dem.), St. Louis.

The committee would be empowered to make a full study of the police departments and report findings and recommendations to the next General Assembly, in 1957.

Hilsman's resolution declared that newspapers and national magazines have pointed out the increase in crime in St. Louis "far exceeds that of any city of its population in the United States."

The resolution also stated that the St. Louis average of 20 policemen per 10,000 population is "too low for an urban area, with the result that St. Louis pays the penalty of 1300 robberies and nearly 5000 burglaries a year."

The Senate, which has authority to confirm appointments of police commissioners, "has an obligation to be fully informed about the department," the resolution observed. Hilsman added that St. Louis women now are fearful of being on the streets after dark, even in the early evening.

If Chapman can obtain approval of all transfers he has requested of Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell, he will add

FRANCE AGREES TO JOIN U.S. IN BACKING DIEM IN SOUTH VIET NAM

Dulles, Faure Announce 'Complete' Accord on Indochina—No Definite Action Taken on Status of Bao Dai.

PARIS, May 12 (UP)—Secretary of State Dulles and Premier Faure announced today they had reached "complete agreement" on the Indochina crisis that brought a dangerous diplomatic rift between the United States and France.

In what appeared to be a major victory for American foreign policy, France agreed to join the United States in supporting Premier Ngo Dinh Diem in his battle to save South Viet Nam from Communism. Emperor Bao Dai would remain as head of state.

(The Associated Press reported from Saigon that Diem was asking France either to withdraw all of its troops from Viet Nam or to group them at the seventeenth parallel, the border between the southern and Communist-held northern parts of the country.)

The French-American agreement on Indochina came in a meeting that ended shortly after midnight. It was not a contractual agreement but set out what Faure called the "complete harmony of views" between France and the United States.

Faure, who recently called Diem "incapable" of doing his job, agreed reluctantly to back him. The two nations agreed on the need for early elections in Viet Nam—the French want them in July and that Diem's France should be "strengthened" or "broadened."

Both France and the United States agreed to remove officials who cannot carry out their nation's policies. The United States also promised to use its influence to try to get Diem to tone down anti-French sentiments and propaganda.

The subject of Bao Dai was tactfully skirted over, but the lack of definite action on him left him in his place as legal chief of state.

By the Associated Press. The United States, France and Britain were reported agreed that the French troops should be brought home as the training of the Viet Namese national army progressed.

The three-nation accord was reported following a conference of Dulles, Faure and British Foreign Minister Harold Macmillan.

American officials refused to confirm or deny the reports that Bao Dai would be kept on. The French have sought to maintain him as chief of state, although many of Diem's supporters have called for his ouster.

Bao Dai's tenure appeared limited. It was believed that any legislature elected in South Viet Nam would call for his removal.

DIEM ASKS FRANCE TO MOVE ITS ARMY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, May 12 (UP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem is asking France to withdraw its army in South Viet Nam to the seventeenth parallel or pull completely out of the country, a government spokesman said today.

The spokesman said Diem had instructed his brother, roving ambassador Ngo Dinh Luyen, to present the request to the French in Paris. The seventeenth parallel separates South Viet Nam and Communist-ruled North Viet Nam.

The French expeditionary corps, numbering between 70,000 and 80,000 men, now is based chiefly in the Saigon area, at Tourane in central Viet Nam, and at Cap St. Jacques, on the coast southeast of the capital.

French compliance with such a request appear slim. The bulk of Viet Nam's French population and of French commercial holdings.

NAUTILUS SAILS AGAIN AFTER PIPE LEAK IS REPAIRED

GROTON, Conn., May 12 (AP)—The atomic submarine Nautilus left today on a second try at starting on its first long shake-down cruise.

The Nautilus returned to its berth here yesterday after a steam pipe burst off Block Island, R.I. It had started out on the cruise Tuesday with Adm. Robert Carney, Chief of Naval Operations, on board.

A spokesman said the break in the steam pipe occurred after Carney was transferred to another ship off Long Island for a flight back to Washington.

The break was so small, the Navy said, that the submarine could have continued on its journey. But it was closed to its base at the electric boat division of the General Dynamics Corp. and Comdr. Eugene P. Wilkinson decided to take it back for the repairs.

The ship says the Nautilus' first long sea journey would take it to Puerto Rico by Sunday. Then the ship would head for the Virgin Islands.

RUSSIA AGREES TO SIGN AUSTRIAN TREATY, ACCORD REACHED ON REPARATIONS

Welfare Chief Visits President

MRS. OVETA CULP HOBBY, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, with PRESIDENT EISENHOWER at the White House yesterday. Discussing the Salk polio vaccine as they posed for photographers, the President told Mrs. Hobby he "couldn't be happier that my grandchildren have had it."

DEMOCRATS HIT AT MRS. HOBBY VACCINE POLICY

Two in House Demand President Order Her to Answer Charges of Premature Action.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (UP)—Two Democratic House members demanded today that the President order Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby to answer congressional charges that she approved the polio vaccination program "without adequate testing" of the Salk vaccine.

They urged the House Banking Committee to request President Eisenhower to direct the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to appear and "answer all pertinent questions" about the temporarily stalled vaccination program.

The request was contained in a resolution drafted by Representative Abraham J. Multer (Dem.), New York. He said he would call for a vote on it at a committee meeting today because Mrs. Hobby has turned down three invitations to testify.

Representative Charles A. Vanik (Dem.), Ohio, whose daughter already has received her first Salk vaccine shot, said he would support Multer's resolution.

Accuses Mrs. Hobby. "Mrs. Hobby licensed the vaccine without adequate testing and should be brought before the committee to explain her actions," Vanik told a reporter.

"The whole program has been mishandled," Multer told the Associated Press, "and the fault lies at the door of the secretary, Mrs. Hobby. This is her problem, not the problem of the surgeon general."

Representative Richard Bolling (Dem.), Missouri, told the House she appears to be ducking her responsibilities by disappearing "into the background" and shoving Dr. Scheele out front "when there is really a tough problem."

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, United States surgeon general, has agreed to appear before the committee for questioning at a public hearing tomorrow. He is head of the Public Health Service, an agency of Mrs. Hobby's department.

The drive in Congress for legislation to control distribution of vaccine also gained momentum. Chairman Lister Hill (Dem.), Alabama, of the Senate Welfare Committee, introduced a bill yesterday to give the President broad discretionary powers to fix prices and regulate distribution of the vaccine.

Democrats critical of the handling of the program centered their fire on Mrs. Hobby. They questioned her contention that compulsory controls are not needed to assure fair distribution of the vaccine, as well as whether adequate safety controls were established in advance of the mass inoculation.

Morse Criticism. Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, said President Eisenhower should "get on the job" of protecting public health. "The people can expect nothing from Mrs. Hobby in view of her power pull program to date," he said.

Aids said they believed Mrs. Hobby would accept an invitation to testify on the vaccine distribution problem before the

ONE EISENHOWER GRANDCHILD HAS HAD SALK VACCINE

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, says only one of President Eisenhower's three grandchildren has had a Salk polio vaccine inoculation.

In response to a question, he said yesterday that David Eisenhower, 7 years old, has received the first shot in a series of three, but that his sisters, Barbara, who will be 6 May 30, and Susan, 3, have not.

The matter came up after White House reporters understood the President to remark with respect to the vaccine:

"I couldn't be happier that my grandchildren have had it." Only the inoculation of David had been announced.

Hagerty said yesterday reporters would be barred from Mr. Eisenhower's office because they overheard the conversation between the President and Secretary of Welfare Hobby. The reporters had been let into the office while photographers were taking pictures of the two.

However, today Hagerty lifted the bar, saying: "Yesterday I apparently blew my top. I am entitled to blow my top once in a while, but let's forget it."

COONSKIN CAP TO LEGISLATURE'S 'DAVY CROCKETT'

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12 (AP)—The Missouri House said "thanks" to its officers yesterday by presenting the legislature with gifts.

It's usual ceremony in the Missouri Legislature. Speaker Roy Hamlin (Dem.), Marion county, got his third watch. Other House or party officers got electric shavers, luggage or pen and pencil sets.

Members had fun burlesquing the operations of the speaker and the floor leaders. They even decided to honor a freshman lawmaker, Representative Lee C. Sutton (Dem.), Monroe county. His hero is Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Sutton is a rebel of the old school and folks in these parts have started calling him Davy Crockett. So yesterday they gave him a coonskin cap.

He thanked the other members and donned the hairy headgear as if he had worn one all his life. The rest of the day he bobbed his head often just to show the others what a tricky waggle the coontail had.

Red Chinese Medicine Men

Pupils Reported Taught to Read in 48 Days; Writing Drill First

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 11 (AP)—UNESCO claims to have taught first graders how to read in 48 days by first teaching them how to write.

The agency—The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—says this has been accomplished in Bolivia, at the Miraflores experimental primary school in La Paz.

A UNESCO booklet credits the method to two educators sent there for technical assistance work—Dr. Omar Albarracín of the University of Chile, in Santiago, and Dr. Roberto Velasco Zaplana of the Mexican Ministry of Education.

First-year pupils in the Spanish-speaking school first practice drawing lines, circles, curves and pethooks on graph paper. Their teacher writes a

CHINA PLEDGES TO AID RUSSIA IN A WAR IN EUROPE

Peiping Official Makes Declaration at Warsaw Parley on Red Alliance.

WARSAW, Poland, May 12 (AP)—Communist China pledged today that it will fight alongside the Soviet Union and its allies if war is unleashed in Europe.

Pen Teh-hui, Red China's defense minister and deputy prime minister, made that declaration in the name of the Peiping Government at a session of a Warsaw conference called to establish an eastern defense organization to rival the North Atlantic Treaty Organization set up by the West.

Peng also declared Peiping stands firmly for peaceful co-existence. He said his government is ready to negotiate on any international differences—including Formosa. But he warned that "to sober military adventures" it should be firmly understood that the current balance of forces hangs in favor of the "camp of peace and socialism."

Present as Observer. Peng attends the Warsaw conference as an observer. The eight conference nations are the U.S.S.R., Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Albania and East Germany.

Their prime ministers, defense ministers and foreign ministers are meeting here to set up a military grouping as their answer to West Germany's admission to the western alliance.

Peng, according to an unofficial translation of his speech, told the delegates:

"On behalf of the government of the Chinese People's Republic I declare our government and people will co-operate with you and with all their strength support the decisions accepted at the Warsaw conference."

"Peace is indivisible. If peace in Europe be encroached upon and if the imperialist aggressors unleash war against peaceful European countries then our government and our 600,000,000 heroic peoples will, together with the governments and peoples of our fraternal countries, conduct a struggle against aggression until ultimate victory is achieved."

Peng said that since World

DECISION PAVES WAY FOR SETTING UP TOP LEVEL BIG 4 PARLEY

Pact 'Will Be Signed Sunday,' U.S. Official Says—Break Comes After Deadlock Lasting 11 Days.

VIENNA, May 12 (UP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to sign an Austrian state treaty after settling outstanding differences following an extended deadlock.

The agreement paved the way for the Big Four foreign ministers to meet in Vienna this weekend to sign the treaty and arrange a later conference of the Big Four heads of government.

United States Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, head of the American treaty delegation, told newsmen at the end of today's crucial session:

"The treaty will be signed Sunday. A joint five-power communiqué issued tonight said the conference had successfully completed its work on the treaty for the re-establishment of an independent and democratic Austria."

"Full unanimity" has been reached on all articles of the treaty draft, it said.

The communiqué added that the five envoys who reached agreement would meet tomorrow morning to work out technical details.

The break in the treaty negotiations came after 11 days of deadlock over the terms of article 36 of the 59-article document. Article 35 governs Austria's reparations to the Soviet Union.

The dispute involved Austrian oil and shipping properties, which the Russians took over as war reparations. The Russians promised Austria last month that these properties would be returned, but until today they had refused to write the concession into the treaty.

West Wins Point. The West insisted, and won its point, that the agreement be put into the treaty.

The deadlock had threatened to break up the conference. The United States had served an ultimatum on the Soviet Union to agree on a completed draft treaty today or call off Sunday's foreign ministers session at which the treaty was to be signed.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had announced in Paris that he would fly home instead of to Vienna if the Russians continued to block agreement on the one remaining key article of the treaty draft.

After the agreement was reached a spokesman for the United States embassy in Paris said Dulles would leave there for Vienna sometime tomorrow morning. British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay will fly there tomorrow afternoon.

It had been announced previously that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov would fly to Vienna from Warsaw Saturday. That night he will play host at dinner to the other foreign ministers.

Envoys of the United States, Britain, France, Russia and Austria will initial the completed treaty draft tomorrow morning, officials said.

Tired . . . but Smiling. Thompson was tired but smiling when he left the showdown session.

"We are satisfied with the results," he said. "The treaty will be signed on Sunday."

Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl was next to leave. "We have finished our work," he said. "The treaty will be signed."

Hundreds of Viennese stood outside and cheered the delegates as they left the conference building.

Austrian ambassadors to the United States, Britain, France and Russia have been called home to attend the Sunday ceremony.

Under the treaty, a neutral Austria will emerge. It will be the first time this nation has enjoyed full freedom since it was overrun and annexed by Germany under Adolf Hitler in 1938.

Since the end of World War II Austria has been occupied by troops of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union. Withdrawal of these troops is expected to start even before the treaty is formally ratified by the Big Four governments.

Final agreement came after the Soviet Union yielded to the West and agreed to rewrite the treaty draft to include the so-

GEORGE WARNS EISENHOWER ON NEGATIVE VIEW TOWARD TALKS

Senator Urges 'Strong Initiative' to Counter Russian Pressures for Immediate Concrete Decisions.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower may find himself involved in harder bargaining than he seems to expect if and when he sits down with Russian Premier Bulganin at Big Four talks.

Bulganin may well press a whole set of basic demands outlined in a new program for disarmament and ending the cold war which Moscow made public Tuesday night.

A word of caution against approaching any heads-of-state talks with "a defeatist attitude" came today from Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. George, who had urged such talks at a time when Mr. Eisenhower was cool to the idea, said the Administration should take the "strong initiative" in its approach.

Promoted by Eisenhower. His comments were obviously prompted by Mr. Eisenhower's statement that his willingness to meet with the heads of state of Britain, France and Russia was based in part on a "vague feeling some good might come out of such a conference."

"One thing that is disturbing to me," George said, "is whether we are moving with any real conviction to take the initiative, rather than just acquiescing. There seems to me to be a lack of enthusiasm and a lack of positive attitude on our part toward a top-level conference which, if we take the strong initiative, might do some good."

"We must recognize all the possibilities of failure in any such conference, but we should have a positive, not a defeatist attitude toward it. If we are going to accomplish anything in the world, we have to have such a positive attitude; and I'm afraid we don't have it now."

(The United Press quoted George as saying the United States has "nothing to lose" by taking a vigorous part in a top-level Big Four meeting "unless we assume that those who represent us will go to sleep on the job. . . . No such assumption is warranted."

(He said "all odds favor gains rather than losses" for the free world. United States participation, he said, is "nothing but what we should do.")

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference yesterday that if the Big Four foreign ministers agree a top-level conference would be "useful," he is willing to go. He made it clear he would expect no decisions, but only a definition of lines along which the foreign ministers subsequently might seek detailed agreements.

Bulganin will not necessarily take the same attitude. The record of wartime conferences indicates the Russians go to such meetings to get something concrete.

While the President tries to maneuver the session toward some future peace settlements, Bulganin may be after something quite different and more immediate with the wily Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at his elbow.

Experts here believe that just as Mr. Eisenhower may urge Bulganin to use his influence to get a cease-fire in the Formosa area to Bulganin may press Mr. Eisenhower to reconsider plans for the arming of West Germany.

In their new disarmament program, the Russians suggested various steps they said could be taken through the United Nations. They may quite as readily try to promote them in four-power talks.

Soviet Aims. While there may be some genuine concessions in the disarmament plan, American officials are taking a hard look at these Soviet aims:

1. To get the bulk of Big Four forces withdrawn from Germany. Soviet troops would be pulled back a few hundred miles at the most. Those of the United States would be pulled back to their "national frontiers"—on this side of the Atlantic.

2. The situation inside Germany thereafter would be handled by "strictly limited contingents of local police forces." This suggests that the Russians are trying to substitute "local police forces" for the 500,000-man military force which West Germany is supposed to contribute to the Allied defense of western Europe.

3. Far East questions would be settled "in conformity with the principles of sovereignty and territorial integrity." As the Communists would read that, it undoubtedly means Formosa should be given to Red China.

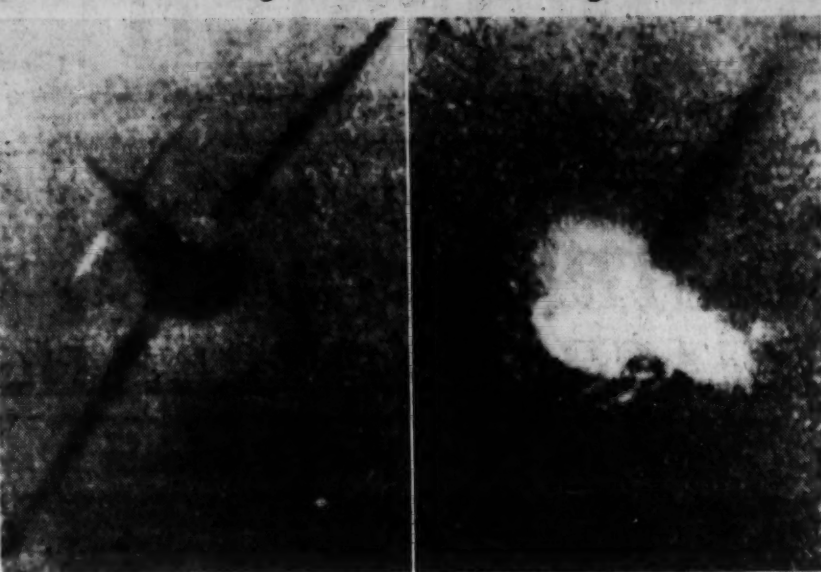

4. All trade discriminations should be eliminated—a point aimed at knocking down the embargoes which sharply limit trade to Red China.

5. The United States would give up the military bases it has developed over a decade in the Far East and Europe to create a barrier against expanding Soviet and Red Chinese power.

By the United Press. Russia is invited to demand that Red China be invited to the proposed Big Four meeting, Administration officials said.

They said there is no prospect, however, that President Eisenhower would sit down at a Big

139 BODIES NOW RECOVERED FROM FERRY COLLISION

TAKAMATSU, Japan, May 12 (AP)—Divers brought up many additional bodies, most of them of school children, from the waters of the Inland sea today to increase to 139 the number recovered from yesterday's ferry collision.

Still missing are 54 persons. A total of 775 was rescued, including 51 injured. Long lines of weeping parents and relatives milled through the halls of a temporary morgue here, attempting to identify the young victims who carried no identity papers.

They died when the Shin Maru sank five minutes after it was hit by a second ferry. At Tokyo, Sonosuke Nagasaki resigned as president of the National Railway Corp., which operated the ferry. Following Japanese tradition, he took responsibility for the disaster.

The newspaper Asahi said railway investigators reported a navigation mistake and excessive speed in fog caused the collision. Investigators said Capt. Masao Nakamura steered left and stopped engines two minutes before the crash. Navigation rules require a right turn when collision impends.

PLANE ON TRANS-POLAR HOP LEAVES ALASKA FOR TOKYO

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 12 (AP)—A Scandinavian airlines transport carrying 40 European business men from Stockholm, Sweden, to an international Chamber of Commerce meeting at Tokyo, landed here on schedule last night after a 14-hour flight from Bodø, Norway, over the North Pole.

After a one-hour layover in which the passengers and 11 crew members were given a reception by the Fairbanks Chamber of Commerce, the plane—the Erik Viking—left at 7:20 p.m. Alaska time, on the 17-hour flight to Tokyo.

Passengers include 21 from Sweden, 16 Danes, and two from Paris. The plane made a 360-degree turn over the pole and dropped a small flag.

BRAZILIAN PHONE STRIKE ENDS, MINE STRIKE BEGINS

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 12 (AP)—A telephone strike ended and a mine strike began in Brazil today.

Union leaders called off the phone strike in the capital area after a conference with Labor Ministry officials. Only 20 per cent of the workers walked off the job. The company has promised to increase wages if the city council increases rates.

At Belo Horizonte in eastern Brazil, miners in two British-owned gold mines went on strike asking for a 40 per cent pay increase. They claimed the increase under a recent law providing increases in that amount where working conditions are deemed unhealthy.

Five conference with Premier Chou En-lai, chief of the Chinese Red regime. The United States does not recognize the Peiping Government.

Prospects of this demand have caused some concern, but experts do not believe the Russians would insist on Red China's participation as a condition for attending the conference.

Taipei Paper Foresees Nothing Good in Big 4 Talks. TAIPEI, Formosa, May 12 (AP)—An influential Taipei newspaper took the view today that nothing good could come of President Eisenhower's agreement to a Big Four top-level conference.

"We feel sure," said the United Daily News, "that Mr. Eisenhower will get nowhere."

"The President will lose the initiative in world affairs if he appears in the same boat as a bunch of frustrated world statesmen."

The newspaper asserted that when Harry S. Truman was President, he said his government would not meet the Russians "outside the United Nations, and he stuck to his word throughout his term."

32 MIGs in Area of Attack, Commander of U.S. Jets Says

He Denies Americans Started Incident — Asserts 'We Could Have Got Them All if We Struck First.'

KUNSAN, Korea, May 12 (AP)—A United States Air Force squadron commander said today there were at least 32 Communist MIGs in the Yellow sea area where his flight of eight Sabrejets was attacked Tuesday.

Lt. Col. Robert E. Dawson told a news conference that half of the Russian-built jets flew protective cover for the attacking Communist planes.

Dawson related details of the eight-minute air scrap in which United States flyers shot down two Red Chinese MIGs and probably bagged two others.

The Air Force said all Sabres returned without a scratch. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, United Nations commander in chief, ordered a strong protest before the Military Armistice Commission against "the hostile and illegal attack" by the MIGs.

Taylor sent the instructions to Maj. Gen. Harlan C. Parks, senior U.N. member of the joint Military Armistice Commission in Korea.

Reds Far Above. Dawson declared: "It was impossible for us to make a hostile attack towards them. They were far above us. They were the MIG type aircraft—exactly what series could not be established."

"There was no damage sustained at all by us. However, three different pilots said they were fired upon."

The Peiping radio said one Sabre was shot down and two damaged.

(A Peiping broadcast today, reported by the United Press, repeated the assertion that the Sabres "intruded" over the Chinese mainland as part of "a criminal plan of United States aggression to prevent the liberation of Formosa."

Dawson, of Dayton, O., said "throughout this and other missions I followed direct instructions to engage hostile aircraft only if attacked—to defend ourselves."

Dawson estimated his planes were "at least 25 miles off the (Red China) coast." He traced on a map the flight which was off the North Korean and South Manchurian coast.

"Never Over Islands." Asked to comment on Peiping assertions that the planes passed over some islands of Liaoting province in Manchuria, Dawson replied: "We at no time flew over those islands. I would say we were conservatively 15 miles away from them."

The Air Force had credited Capt. Robert J. Fulton, Bernardsville, N.J., and Lt. Burt G. Phythyon, Wadsworth, O., with MIG kills, and Lt. James E. McInerney Jr., Garden City, N.J., with a probable.

Dawson said Lt. Robert M. Donahue of Montgomery, Ala., probably destroyed another.

Dawson said Communist tactics were "identical to those employed during the Korean war."

The colonel said the Japanese pilots of the Pacific war were better than the Reds. "Had the situation been reversed (Sabres attacking MIGs) we would have knocked down all of them."

SCELBA RESIGNS AFTER GRONCHI INAUGURATION

No Word on Acceptance by New Italian President—Political Crisis Threatened.

ROME, May 12 (UP)—Premier Mario Scelba resigned tonight as a formality following the inauguration of Giovanni Gronchi as President of Italy.

Scelba handed in his resignation at the presidential palace and then went into conference with Gronchi. There was no immediate word whether the President accepted or rejected the resignation.

Political observers believed the resignation might touch off a political crisis.

By the Associated Press. At least two small center parties which had been threatening to abandon Scelba's coalition have said they would continue to support him, at least for the present.

The two parties are the Liberals and the right-wing Socialists, which together held 31 of the 590 Chamber of Deputies seats. These votes, with the 262 of his own Christian Democratic party, gave Scelba a narrow 294-286 margin over his combined left and right-wing opposition.

There was no assurance, however, that all the Christian Democrats would stand firm behind the Premier. Many deserted his standard when parliament elected Gronchi to the presidency April 29. Although Gronchi is a Christian Democrat, Scelba asked his supporters to vote for another candidate.

The announcement of continued Liberal and right-wing Socialist support for Scelba was made last night by leaders of the two parties. The Liberal chiefs said they had met to consider the political situation and "confirmed their faith in the present democratic coalition."

But the Socialists, led by Vice Premier Giuseppe Saragat, also urged a "more effective defense of the political, economic and social interests of the working class."

This echoed Gronchi's 30-minute inaugural speech yesterday before a joint session of Parliament. The white-haired, 67-year-old President declared that true progress could not be realized in the internal life and international relations of any nation without the consent and agreement of the world of labor.

Asserting that universal suffrage had taken the mass of workers "to the threshold of government without introducing them effectively where political direction is exercised," Gronchi added: "I believe firmly it is in the fundamental interest of democracy to realize peacefully such an introduction in order to reinforce stability through greater representation."

The President's remarks were widely cheered by Communists and their left-wing Socialist allies. Gronchi has long advocated widening of the government to include representatives of the left parties. Both the Christian Democrats and the right-wing Socialists, however, enjoy wide support among Italian workers. Gronchi succeeded Luigi Einaudi, 81, who was elected first president of Italy in 1948. His job, which pays $20,000 a year, is largely ceremonial except for his role in the formation of new governments.

Atom Shot Delayed Again. LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 12 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today again postponed its final nuclear blast of the 1955 series in Nevada shortly before the shot was to go at 5 a.m. The AEC announced that "unfavorable wind conditions" caused the postponement.

Two G.I.s Face Courts-Martial On Red Collaboration Charges Also Accused of Mistreatment and Informing on Fellow Prisoners While Held in Korea Almost 3 Years.

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Two American soldiers must face courts-martial for alleged pro-Communist activities while Korean war captives.

The two ex-P.O.W.s are Sgt. James C. Gallagher, 23 years old, of Brooklyn, and Cpl. Harold M. Dunn, 26, of Baldwin, N.Y.

The First Army announced yesterday that both men, prisoners in North Korea for almost three years, must answer to charges of collaboration with the enemy and mistreatment and informing on fellow prisoners.

Gallagher is accused of "murder without premeditation of fellow prisoners or war." The number of alleged victims was not listed in the formal charge.

Gallagher and one other soldier, Pfc. Rothwell B. Floyd, Chicago, apparently are the only Korean war veterans ever to face murder charges in the death of fellow prisoners.

Floyd was found not guilty of drowning another prisoner, but convicted of a number of other offenses, during a long court-martial last year. He was sentenced to 40 years in prison.

An Army spokesman said Gallagher and Dunn have been confined in the stockade at Fort Jay, Governors Island. The spokesman gave no details of the alleged crimes. No date has been set for the courts-martial.

King of Fair. About six months before his release, he said, abuse from his fellow prisoners stopped and he had "quite a few buddies" among men who consistently refused to listen to the Communist line.

Dunn was crowned king of the New York state fair at Syracuse on Sept. 5, 1953. Both Syracuse and his home town of Baldwinville are in upstate Onondaga county.

At her Brooklyn home last night, Mrs. Patricia Slee, Gallagher's sister, said her soldier brother "had never told on anybody in his life."

Mrs. Slee said the family—Gallagher's parents and his four sisters and one brother—"cannot believe" the charges.

The Army so far has brought five former P.O.W.s to trial on charges of collaborating with the Communists while in captivity. Four of the five were convicted. The fifth was acquitted. Three of those convicted were given prison terms. The fourth received a dishonorable dismissal. Several of these cases are under review or appeal.

The Army has said it plans to bring charges against several dozen more former P.O.W.s.

CUBA PARENTS URGED TO HEAL RIFT OVER SCHOOL BUILDING HAZARD

'Think First of Children,' State Supervisor Says at Meeting on Charges of 'Fire Trap' Conditions.

By ROBERT H. COLLINS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CUBA, Mo., May 12.—Parents of the Cuba School District were urged last night by Fred Cole, a state educational supervisor, to "put away your personal differences and think first of your children" in matters pertaining to school improvement.

A split exists between two factions of parents on the question of whether immediate action should be taken to erect a new building to replace the combined elementary and high school here, which has been described by Parent-Teacher Association officials as "a fire trap."

Some parents contend that economic conditions now are unfavorable for construction of a new building and other improvements in the rural areas.

Others say that the lives of their children are in danger from fire hazards and structural deficiencies each day they attend the Cuba school. The members of this group say that corrective steps must be taken at once.

275 Attend Meeting.

About 275 persons, a near-capacity crowd, met in the gymnasium to hear Cole and to take preliminary steps toward ironing out their differences.

Cole stressed that state educational officials can only advise in school problems such as the one facing parents in the Cuba area. "But remember the children have to take what we give them," he added.

"The law says you must send your children to school, but the law does not say that the school buildings must meet certain standards," Cole said. "These laws are made by our representatives, yours and mine."

"I am trying to impress upon you the fact that the kind of schools you have in this district will be the kind of schools you want," Cole said.

He suggested that the Cuba district parents visit "some good schools in other communities, and then if you're satisfied with what your children have as compared with children in other districts, then you come back and vote against any bond issue."

In reply to a question, Cole said that if legal approval of a new school were in hand now, "it would be about two years before you could move into it."

"I know we've had a drought," he said in reference to economic conditions, "but remember that the children grow up. If you wait three years, many of the children now in your school will have been graduated."

'Like an Old Car.'

Shortly before adjournment, A. J. Barnett, president of the Peoples Bank of Cuba, said:

"I'm probably the oldest man here, and I'm sorry about all this confusion among our people. This building is like an old car. When an old car wears out, you have to get a new one. If this building is worn out, and we might as well get a new one. Let's all chip in and pay what little taxes it will amount to and have this confusion over."

That was the briefest speech of the evening, but it brought the longest and loudest applause. Mrs. Lyle Armstrong, president of the P.T.A., said the meeting was not called to "agitate for a bond issue" but rather "to show parents and citizens the dangerous and crowded conditions of the school and discuss some possible solution."

"Our purpose at this time is to acquaint you with the very drastic condition of the school building," she added. "The P.T.A. is not blaming anyone for conditions except the general public. All of us are responsible indirectly."

Walter E. Casey, state public health engineer, said that sanitary facilities at the school are inadequate and outmoded. He said the roof of the building leaks, parts of the ceiling are about to fall, walls are cracked, and inside partitions, floors, stairways and ceilings are very dry and would burn rapidly if they ever caught fire.

He added that in the school for first and second graders, which is a small frame building separate from the combined elementary and high school, "the septic tank flows out on the school ground at times, causing a dirty, stinking mess."

P. L. Brenton, superintendent of the Cuba school, said a recent report by the Missouri State Fire Prevention Association which referred to "glaring fire safety violations" was inaccurate and "exaggerated" in some respects.

Very little opposition was expressed to immediate improvement of the schools, although P.T.A. officials estimated that about 25 per cent of those attending the meeting were from rural areas where there are objections to action at this time on the ground that farmers have been hard hit financially by three straight droughts.

Query on Parental Refusal.

Mrs. Maxine Cooke of Cuba asked: "What if we refuse to send our children to school?"

Cole replied that in that event the parent would have to answer to the courts.

Walter Dorf, a business man, asked Casey who in Missouri has authority to condemn a building which is unsafe for occupancy. Casey replied that building codes and fire safety laws usually govern such action on a local basis.

FIRE DESTROYS GRAIN ELEVATOR AT O'FALLON, MO.

Filled to Capacity With Soybeans and Corn—Damage Estimated at $100,000.

Fire destroyed the grain elevator of the Farmers' Cooperative Elevator Association of O'Fallon, St. Charles county, early today. It was filled to capacity with soybeans and corn. Damage was estimated at $100,000 by Fire Chief William Steiner.

Destruction of the elevator further aggravates the shortage of storage space for approximately 250,000 bushels of wheat under the federal price support program, which is now stored on farms in the county, a spokesman for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office said.

The fire was discovered by John Krampe of O'Fallon, who was returning home from a night shift job in St. Louis county. He called the O'Fallon Volunteer Fire Department, which called for help from Wentzville and St. Charles.

When firemen arrived, flames were out of control, Chief Steiner said. About 30 minutes after the fire started, the tower of the elevator, made of steel and wood, toppled to the ground, bringing down electric wires, which fell on Wabash Railroad tracks. Officials of the railroad were informed and trains were ordered delayed until the wires could be removed.

The spokesman for the Agricultural Stabilization office said the soybeans and corn in the elevator were to have been moved to make way for some of the wheat now stored on farms. With the O'Fallon elevator included, there was storage space in St. Charles county for 165,000 bushels of wheat, leaving a shortage of space for the remaining 85,000 bushels, he said.

WARRANTS NAME MAN WHO ADMITS TEN ROBBERIES

Leenoal W. Kidd Was Arrested After Holdup of Filling Station in County.

Warrants charging armed robbery were issued yesterday at Clayton against Leenoal W. Kidd following his admission of five robberies in St. Louis county, four in St. Louis and one in East St. Louis since Feb. 12.

Kidd, who described himself as an airman second class stationed at Lambert-St. Louis Field, was arrested within 30 minutes after his latest holdup—that of a filling station on U.S. Highway 66 at Missouri Bottom road—in which he obtained $172.

The other county holdups included a grocery at 1140 Pennsylvania avenue, University City, $90; St. Louis Motel, U.S. 66 near the airport, $77; Krueger's Market, 11115 Natural Bridge road, $350, and Howard M. Harne, 9406 Sonora avenue, Brentwood, robbed of $85 while giving Kidd a ride near the airport.

St. Louis holdups included the Mound City Liquor Store, 4420 Natural Bridge, twice, for $244 and $150; Peoples-905 Liquor Store, 8029 North Broadway, $72, and a Tomboy Market, 6085 West Florissant avenue, $211. Kidd was unable to identify the East St. Louis victim, 300 feet west of Grand boulevard and follow it under the viaduct to Theresa avenue, where it will re-enter Market street. Westbound traffic will continue to use the detour it has been using for several months. Preliminary phases of construction were under way.

Work on the $1,000,000 grade separation began last December. It is expected to be completed in October. The work is being done by the Missouri State Highway Department as part of the projected Daniel Boone Expressway.

EASTBOUND GRAND-MARKET DETOUR TO OPEN MONDAY

A newly constructed detour for eastbound traffic on Market street while an underpass is being built at Grand boulevard will be opened for traffic on Monday, it was announced today by Director of Streets and Sewers Frank Kriz.

Eastbound traffic will enter the detour about 300 feet west of Grand boulevard and follow it under the viaduct to Theresa avenue, where it will re-enter Market street. Westbound traffic will continue to use the detour it has been using for several months. Preliminary phases of construction were under way.

Work on the $1,000,000 grade separation began last December. It is expected to be completed in October. The work is being done by the Missouri State Highway Department as part of the projected Daniel Boone Expressway.

The cocktail consists of American rum, Russian vodka, French vermouth, British bitters and Austrian white wine.

The radioactivity count this week, Weber said, is one of the highest since the university began testing snow and water in 1946. He added that the radioactivity reflected in his tests, made by boiling off the water and analyzing the precipitate, still was only a minute fraction of the amount considered dangerous to human beings.

HARTMAN FOUND GUILTY ON TAX EVASION CHARGE

Jury Deliberates 50 Minutes in Second Trial—Sentencing Set for June 3.

Milton D. Hartman, a manufacturer, was found guilty today of income tax evasion by a jury in United States District Court, after the jury deliberated only 50 minutes.

It was the second time Hartman was convicted of tax evasion.

Defense counsel was granted 10 days in which to file a motion for a new trial and Judge Roy W. Harper set June 3 for sentencing the defendant. Hartman will remain at liberty under bond.

The defense rested late yesterday after Hartman denied on the witness stand that he issued instructions to bookkeepers relating to entries in accounts testified that bankrupt Hartman Corp. of America, which were in evidence at the trial.

The case went to the jury shortly after noon, following argument of counsel and the court's instructions.

Second Trial.

Hartman was charged with evading payment of $19,671 in income taxes in 1945-46. His previous conviction, on which he was sentenced to six years in prison and fined $20,000, was reversed by the United States Court of Appeals after Hartman served one year and seven months in the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind.

Internal Revenue Service agents testified that Hartman failed to report $12,982 income in 1945, and $12,000 in 1946. Tax on the unreported income would have been $16,045, witnesses testified.

Hartman testified he was not aware that the $12,982 was not included in his 1945 tax return, declaring he had relied on Ray Nolte, a certified public accountant, who had prepared Hartman's tax returns since 1939, "to include all my income."

"I still do not know that I owe a tax on that money," Hartman declared.

Nolte's Testimony.

Nolte, a defense witness, testified he had not included the sums as income to Hartman from the corporation, because he considered the corporation

"dormant, and not returning any income to Mr. Hartman." The accountant said he did not examine the corporation accounts "from an income tax standpoint."

Hartman, on cross-examination, said he followed the advice of bookkeepers, auditors and his attorney in the manner in which his business records were kept. He denied that he instructed his employees in the matter of book entries, or in the preparation of tax returns.

"I know nothing about bookkeeping and did not examine the tax returns," Hartman testified. When the forms were presented to me I signed them, wrote the necessary checks and mailed them."

Penal Reorganization Program Approved by Senate Committee

15 Amendments Adopted — Group Fails to Act on 3 New Members of Parole Board.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12.—A bill proposing comprehensive reorganization of the State Department of Corrections, to improve many conditions which led to the destructive penitentiary riot last Sept. 22, was reported to the Senate today with a committee recommendation for passage.

Before approving the House-passed measure late yesterday, the Senate committee on corrections adopted 15 amendments to the bill. Most of the changes were designed to bring the new law into conformity with existing statutory and constitutional requirements.

Senator J. F. Patterson (Dem.), committee chairman, said the amendments would strengthen the bill, in line with the recommendations of the legislative penal survey committee.

Parole Board.

The committee failed for the third time to take action on Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's appointment of three new members of the state board of probation and parole, the appointments are subject to Senate confirmation.

Patterson, whose attempts to bring up the appointments for approval were blocked twice previously by motions which forced his committee to adjourn, said the committee has no time at its meeting yesterday to consider this matter.

The appointments, he said, will be "discussed" at a meeting of his committee next Monday. At that time, the committee also is expected to take some action on a pending House-approved bill to modernize Missouri's probation and parole system.

It is reported that many Senators are opposed to confirming the Governor's parole board appointments because each is a former member of the State Highway Patrol. They contend it would create unrest among prison inmates if the parole system were under the control of former police officers.

Not Interested, He Says.

Hogan said he had no interest in the appointments and had made no efforts to block the confirmation of the appointees in the committee. He said the question of whether the three should be confirmed was up to the Senators in whose districts they live, and "I don't care whether they are approved or not."

The three appointees, who are now serving on the board under interim appointments, are Lewis M. Means of Fayette, Ben B. Stuart of Cameron and Elwood B. Robinson of Kirksville. Means and Stuart are Democrats and Robinson a Republican.

Several amendments to the bill reorganizing the department of corrections restored provisions of the present law requiring that the prison system employ come under the state merit system. This is required by the state Constitution.

Another change would remove a House provision that the director of prison farms, the director of industries and the director of inmate education be placed under the merit system. The Senate committee decided that these division heads should be subject to appointment and removal by the director of corrections.

The committee also restored a provision in the present law which requires the release of inmates after they have served three fourths of their terms, without being subject to parole supervision.

"dormant, and not returning any income to Mr. Hartman." The accountant said he did not examine the corporation accounts "from an income tax standpoint."

Hartman, on cross-examination, said he followed the advice of bookkeepers, auditors and his attorney in the manner in which his business records were kept. He denied that he instructed his employees in the matter of book entries, or in the preparation of tax returns.

"I know nothing about bookkeeping and did not examine the tax returns," Hartman testified. When the forms were presented to me I signed them, wrote the necessary checks and mailed them."

TUCKER LIKENS CITY TO A HOUSE IN NEED OF REPAIR

Says Visitors, Business Will Stay Away Until St. Louis Can Show It Will Progress.

New business and new residents will not come to St. Louis if the bond issue for municipal improvements is voted May 26, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker yesterday told 150 labor leaders at a rally at Hotel Statler.

Steps to enlist all branches of organized labor in the campaign for passage of the $110,639,000 bond issue were taken at the luncheon, at which the Mayor was the principal speaker. Represented were the AFL, CIO and Railroad Brotherhoods.

"If no repairs are made on your house for 10 years, you can still live in it, but friends will not be happy to visit you under those circumstances," Mayor Tucker told the labor representatives.

"So it is with a city. If we vote the bond issue in May 26, new business and new residents will want to come to St. Louis," the Mayor declared.

He pointed out that in the last 10 years Baltimore has approved $282,000,000 in bond issues and Kansas City $105,500,000. In the same period St. Louis has voted only $5,500,000 in bonds, and has become "a city in disrepair."

Labor leaders who are taking an active part in the drive include Neal J. Capaldo, general chairman of Kansas City $105,500,000 bond issue, and Oscar A. Ehrhardt, executive secretary of the CIO Industrial Union Council; Arthur A. Hunn, president of the AFL Building & Construction Trades Council, and William A. Webb, executive secretary of the AFL Central Trades & Labor Union.

BLOOD OF 3182 SAMPLED IN ANTI-SYPHILIS CAMPAIGN

Samples of blood have been taken from 3182 persons by city and state health divisions in a program which started here last Friday to find and treat previously undiagnosed cases of syphilis, Dr. H. R. Wherritt, of the venereal disease section, City Health Division, reported yesterday.

Six teams of physicians and technicians have been taking samples of blood from persons in an area bounded by Eighth street and Grand boulevard and Market street and Cass avenue between the hours of 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

Dr. Wherritt said response to the program has been excellent, the number of persons appearing for blood tests "far exceeding our expectations." The program will continue until May 28.

MARINE BACKERS HOPE TO BLOCK CUT IN CORPS

Claim Fighting Chance in House—Less Optimistic on Army, Navy Reductions.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Champions of the Marine Corps claimed a fighting chance today in their move to have the House upset President Eisenhower's plans to trim that service's forces. They were less optimistic over the possibility of blocking planned cuts in Army and Navy strength.

The House scheduled votes late today on a series of amendments which would add $409,993,500 to a bill to appropriate $31,488,200,000 to finance the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

As drafted by the House Appropriations Committee, the bill approves the President's program to reduce over-all military manpower by more than 100,000 during the year, with the Army bearing the brunt of the cut—87,000 men.

Leading the fight to prevent the cuts is Representative Daniel J. Flood (Dem.), Pennsylvania, who told reporters, "I don't think it's a good idea to cut military strength a single man below what we planned and financed for the present year."

A spot check of key House members indicated considerable support for Flood's amendment to increase the Marine Corps but less sentiment for his other proposals.

Flood's Proposals. Flood's amendments would give the Army $249,574,000, the Navy $81,940,000 and the Marine Corps $78,479,500 more than the committee recommended. They do not affect the Air Force, which would get a 5000-man personnel increase during the year.

Their effect would be to give the Army 1,114,000 men on June 30, 1956, instead of 1,027,000; the Marines 215,000 instead of 193,000; and the Navy 672,000 instead of 665,000.

In addition, the Navy would have an active fleet of 1066 ships instead of the 1001 provided in the President's program. Representative George H. Mahon (Dem.), Texas, subcommittee chairman, yesterday accused Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson of "a colossal failure" to keep costs in check, and declared: "The taxpayer is losing his shirt and industry is reaping an unreasonably high enrichment."

Mahon said the committee has started a full investigation of contract policies in an effort to "get more defense for our dollars."

The ranking Republican of the subcommittee, Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, replied the Eisenhower Administration has made "great progress" toward correcting an "almost unbelievable" contract situation inherited from the Democrats.

Under Secretary James M. Douglas said the Air Force proposes a $1,173,000,000 world-wide construction program for the year beginning July 1. The program, he told a House Armed Services subcommittee, will complete basic construction for the 137-wing Air Force planned for mid-1957. A wing varies from 30 to 75 planes. In the future, Douglas said, construction work will consist mainly of modernization.

Two Congress members accused government agencies of actively fostering a trend toward monopoly in big business. They made the charge as witnesses before a House Judiciary subcommittee investigating antitrust evils.

Representative Henry S. Reuss (Dem.), Wisconsin, cited it as one of the "biggest threats to free enterprise" outside the traditional field of antitrust law. And Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, declared "the traditional open door" is being closed on free enterprise.

"General Motors Slogan." Under what he described as "the General Motors slogan" of "what's good for General Motors is good for the country," Reuss asserted small independent business for the 18 months up to Jan. 1, 1955, actually received only two-thirds of 1 per cent of military procurement totaling more than $395,000,000.

He also stated that in the 18 months after Secretary Wilson took office, "the net new defense contracts going to General Motors increased by 1.7 billion dollars, while the net new contracts going to all other auto companies combined declined by $395,000,000."

Representative Graham A. Barden (Dem.), North Carolina, demanded to know why the Department of Defense is paying $43,200 more for some textiles than would have been the case if a low-bid had been accepted. He told the House that a Windsor (Conn.) firm bid at 49 and seven-tenths cents a yard, but the contract went to J. P. Stevens Co., at 59 and three-tenths cents a yard. That will cost the government $43,200 more than looks necessary, Barden said.

Secretary of the Army Robert T. B. Stevens stepped out as board chairman of J. P. Stevens, Inc., the firm founded by his father, to take his Government appointment. At Senate insistence, he gave up his stock in the firm before taking office. Barden did not mention Stevens' former connection with the firm involved.

REDS COMPLAIN OF RAID ON TRAIN IN U.S. ZONE

BERLIN, May 12 (UP)—The Communists complained today of a raid on an East German freight train traveling in American zone territory near the border.

The East German radio said Western "hired bandits" forced the train to stop by breaking its couplings at 14 points.

ANGRY JAPANESE 'MILL AROUND U. S. GUNS THIRD DAY

FUJI-YOSHIDA, May 12 (AP)—Irate Japanese villagers squatted in wind and torrential rain near big American guns for the third day today to protest against practice artillery firing on the slopes of revered Mt. Fuji.

The villagers were joined by 100 persons whom Japanese police identified as Communist party members.

The big guns began firing at 12:35 p.m. One hundred and fifty Japanese police stood by to keep villagers from the gun positions.

Villagers scuffled with police yesterday but no incidents were reported today.

The practice firing on the slopes of the sacred, snow-capped cone of Mount Fuji has boiled up into a national issue. The large Japanese newspapers are devoting much space to stories, editorials and letters on the firing, which began Tuesday and will carry spasmodically through June.

The Army says it is authorized to fire artillery in the area under agreement with the Japanese Government. The villagers object that the shells pass over two climbing trails used by pilgrims hiking to the peak.

CIVIL DEFENSE CO-ORDINATING BOARD CREATED

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday signed an order creating a Civil Defense Co-ordinating Board.

The White House had announced, previously that the board would be set up to assist in developing an orderly, integrated plan for participation of all federal agencies in Civil Defense.

The unit also will:
1. Make recommendations to the President regarding specific arrangements for the assumption of Civil Defense responsibilities by the various federal agencies.
2. Aid in development of such arrangements in conjunction with the Defense Department and the Office of Defense Mobilization.

3. Advise the President with respect to integration of Civil Defense activities in the various agencies.

The new board is composed of Val Peterson, head of the Civil Defense Administration, as chairman, and representatives of 17 federal agencies.

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER

The body of Kenneth B. Burkhardt of Staunton, Ill., who jumped from Veterans Memorial Bridge last Friday, was taken from the Mississippi river at the foot of Davis street yesterday. REASSIGNMENT
PLAN FOR POLICE

84 men to his detective division, which now numbers 151 men. He will place the new men in five flying squads which will operate in outlying district stations. In advocating the plan, he told members of the police board he would be able to blanket the city with detectives who would work exclusively to solve crimes.

I. A. Long, president of the board, told the Post-Dispatch he was opposed to adding to the authorized strength of the department at this time because there was a limit to the amount of money the city can pay for police protection.

Cost of Last Pay Rise.

"A police pay increase recently granted by the state will cost St. Louis an additional $1,300,000 a year," Long said. "I believe the best deal for us will be to work with the present complement of adequately compensated men rather than a larger complement which may be underpaid."

Long pointed out that St. Louis has been unable for several years to find enough qualified men to bring the department up to its full authorized strength of 1915 men. The maximum strength probably will not be obtained until late this year, he added.

Members of the Police Board and police division heads yesterday questioned 76 officer applicants who have passed physical and mental tests. From this number a class of probationary patrolmen will be selected and sworn in Monday, but the additions will fall short of filling the 81 current vacancies.

Yesterday, at Jefferson City, St. Louis legislators and Assistant City Counselor Jack Shanahan, speaking for the city administration, clashed before a Senate committee over the bill which would require St. Louis to hire 95 additional patrolmen for beat duty exclusively.

More Protection Called For.
 Representative Joseph W. Martino, who sponsored the bill with the 17 other St. Louis members of the House, declared more police protection is needed because of a sharp increase in crime in the city.

"We're facing a real emergency," Martino told the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee. "My own grocery has been held up twice in the last few months."

But Shanahan opposed the measure on the ground the extra police officers are not needed. He pointed to the number of vacancies which the department has been unable to fill and told of steps taken to increase the number of officers on beat duty.

The lively debate produced no immediate results. The committee took no action on the controversial measure because of a lack of a quorum when the hearing ended.

The chairman, Senator Frank L. Wilkinson (Dem.), Kansas City, said the committee would try to meet next week to act on the bill. It might be too late by then, however, as the Legislature hopes to wind up passage of bills next Wednesday or Thursday.

Martino charged that not a single officer has been walking a beat for years in a 17-square mile area in north St. Louis.

Not Requested by Board.

In opposing the measure, Shanahan said the police board did not request the additional personnel, nor has it taken the matter up with the city's Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The bill also is objectionable, he declared, because it would cost the city $400,000 a year, and because it would attempt "to tell the police board how to run its department."

Burglars were active last night with at least 13 entries reported to police. Most of the offenses involved confectioneries and filling stations, a majority of them on the north side. Largest loss reported was $300 from a tavern at 811 Academy avenue.

In another burglary last night, Heyde Sewing Machine Co., 2763 Gravois avenue, was entered and $212 was taken from a petty cash box, Harvey Heyde, the owner, reported. He said his establishment was the third in the neighborhood to be visited by robbers or burglars in the last week.

ings are concentrated in the area where the French troops are based.

The spokesman for Diem asserted that as long as the French troops remain, their presence will be a source of friction and an object of nationalist resentment.

He added that since the French role in South Viet Nam officially was to insure the south against encroachment from the Communist Vietminh in North Viet Nam, the best means of accomplishing this would be to station the French corps at the seventeenth parallel.

Diem's spokesman indicated that the Premier might ask Britain, France and the United States for a discussion in Saigon of policy toward Viet Nam the three western powers have been working out in Paris conferences this week.

Tongay Goes to Jail

RUSSELL TONGAY entering jail at Miami, Fla., today to start serving 10-year term for manslaughter in the death of his daughter, Kathy. Tongay, a former St. Louisan, was convicted in January 1954 after the 5-year-old girl died of injuries resulting from a dive from a 33-foot tower. Testimony at his trial pictured Tongay as a tough drillmaster in making Kathy and her brother perform difficult aquatic stunts.

"As long as we are not present—despite our persistent demand—at the Paris talks, naturally we will refuse to recognize any action taken by the big powers," the spokesman said.

Gen. Le Van Ty, the army's chief of staff, today described the military situation in South Viet Nam as quiet. He said there had been a brief and unimportant exchange of mortar fire at Long Xuyen, 100 miles west of Saigon, which resulted in the army overrunning a post held by Hoa Hao rebel Gen. Ba Cut.

The Premier's office said today the army inspector general, Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, had been stripped of his rank in the Viet Namese national army and placed at the disposition of the French army, in which he is a captain. Acting on orders of absentee Chief of State Bao Dai, Vy had tried to overthrow Diem on May 1.

The Government added that no action was contemplated against Vy otherwise, even though it considered him an outlaw and a rebel.

Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, ousted army chief of state, also has been stripped of his rank. He was put at the disposition of the French air force, in which he is a major. Both Vy and Hinh are in the Dalat region, 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

The official government news agency described reports published abroad of a resurgence of fighting at Can Tho, My Tho and Vinh Long in the west, as false.

CHINA PLEDGES TO AID RUSSIA IN A WAR IN EUROPE

War II, "a powerful camp of peace has been set up, headed by the Soviet Union. This camp, which embraces 12 countries and a population of 900,000,000 people, represents one entity on the continents of Europe and Asia and this creates good conditions for mutual assistance in any situation."

He said the forces of this camp and its prestige have grown tremendously. At the same time, he warned the "imperialists" not to underestimate the "remarkable progress in economic and political development as well as in defense potential" made by Communist China.

"The aggressive bloc was given an instructive lesson in the Korean war. The decisive factor now is not even our achievements but the fact that we possess enormous potentialities."

"Should there be a war, our countries will deal the imperialists a mortal blow following which the capitalist system will be definitely annihilated."

Peng accused the United States of seeking to dominate the world. He charged that American monopolists, intent on war for gaining world domination, "intensely from day to day their control of the economic and political lives of their country and can any day make an attack and drive the world into war."

Nevertheless, he said, the helping government is convinced peace can be preserved. "We are making a maximum effort to solve by negotiations all international differences including the situation in the Formosa area. But this does not mean that we shall not be ready to face any unexpected action on the part of the enemies of peace."

RUSSIA AGREES

called "Moscow agreements" concluded last month between Austrian Chancellor Raab and Soviet leaders at the Kremlin, conference sources said.

The "Moscow agreements" spell out the economic payments that Austria must make to the Soviet Union over the next 10 years.

(The Associated Press reported from Paris that informed sources said the ambassadors finally decided to make the concessions an annex to the treaty.)

The West had insisted that the agreements be written into the treaty to prevent any possibility that Russia might send back troops to seize Austrian property if a dispute over the payments should arise.

The disputed article of the treaty would give the Russians extensive Austrian oil holdings for 25 to 30 years, assets of the big Danube Steamship Shipping Co. and $150,000,000 in cash for 300 industrial concerns seized after the war. The Russians agreed last month to take instead 10,000,000 tons of oil, the $150,000,000 in goods, not cash, and to give back the shipping company.

Lt. Gen. William H. Arnold, United States commander in Austria, already has ordered his troops to prepare for withdrawal.

First word of the clearing of the last-minute snag that almost wrecked the treaty conference came when an Austrian spokesman said the meeting ended with full and final agreement on a draft document.

Meanwhile, other Big Four diplomats were gathering here from other points in Europe. The latest major figure to arrive was Sir William Hayter, British Ambassador to Moscow. Dulles conferred in Paris today with British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan.

Timetable Clouded.

By the Associated Press.

The Austrian treaty deadlock had clouded the timetable of the proposed meeting of President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, French Premier Faure and British Prime Minister Eden. The Western powers in their notes yesterday suggested the four foreign ministers could discuss the time and place for such a meeting "at the summit" when they gathered in Vienna for the signing of the Austrian treaty.

From the American viewpoint, signature of the treaty was almost a condition for a "meeting at the summit." Mr. Eisenhower has said that an agreement on the Austrian pact would be a test of the Russians' sincerity in considering a top-level meeting with them.

FIRMIN DESLOGE 'HOSPITAL DAY BABY' IS 7-LB., 5-OZ. BOY

Randy Louis Lind, who was born a few seconds after midnight at Firmin Desloge Hospital last night, was declared official "hospital day baby" today, the birthday of Florence Nightingale, Sister Mary Brendan R.S.M., president of the Greater St. Louis Hospital Council, announced.

The infant, 7 pounds and 5 ounces, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Lind, 3832 Cleveland avenue. As hospital day baby, Randy was winner of many prizes which ranged from baby supplies and books on child care to cigars for his father.

The gifts will be presented at 10 a.m. Saturday at the hospital in the room of Mrs. Lind, who was an attendant in the hospital's nursery before her marriage. Lind is a Navy radio man stationed in San Francisco. The contest was part of the observance of hospital week, which ends Saturday.

ENJOINED FROM OPERATING A DUMP IN BRENTWOOD

Henry G. Willing Jr. was enjoined yesterday from operating a dump at 8700 Manchester road, Brentwood, by Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller at Clayton. The decision upheld a complaint by the City of Brentwood in August, 1953.

In his decision, Judge Mueller ruled that evidence showed the dump was a public nuisance and a menace to public health, comfort and safety. Willing was prohibited from depositing collected rubbish or malodorous material at the dump and from leaving refuse exposed.

Willing was given until March 1, 1956, to clean up the dump. The city previously had canceled a dumping permit and a contract with Willing to collect garbage following complaints from residents.

Annual Legislative Session
Amendment Approved by HouseSenate-Approved Proposal to Be Submitted to Voters in 1956 or at Special Election.By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 12—Annual sessions of the Legislature would be held under provisions of a Senate-approved proposal to amend the state constitution, which the House passed today by a vote of 135 to 8.

The amendment will be submitted to the voters at the general election in 1956, or at a special election called before that time by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

The House passed the bill yesterday with an amendment providing for hiring of additional employees in the House. This amendment would have necessitated returning the bill to the Senate for concurrence, but today the House reconsidered, expunged the adoption of the clerk-hire amendment and approved the proposal without it.

The amendment to be submitted to voters proposes six-month sessions of the Legislature in odd years, and two months in even-numbered years.

Approved in the House, 117 to 3, the proposal provides that the Legislature would convene for six months in odd-numbered years and for two months in even-numbered years. Sessions in the even-numbered years would be restricted to consideration of appropriations measures.

Provision of Measure. In addition, it would provide for 15-day "veto" sessions called by both houses three months after final adjournment of a regular session, to give the Legislature an opportunity to override vetoes of bills by the Governor in the closing days of the session, or following adjournment.

It also would authorize the Legislature to fix the salaries of Senators and Representatives and would allow them transportation expenses to and from their homes once each week during a session.

Amendment Is Defeated. An amendment to the proposal suggested by Representative A. Clifford Jones (Rep.), Clayton, which would have eliminated a provision that secret sessions of the Legislature might be held, if required, was defeated, 67 to 26.

Jones contended that, even though the provision is in the present constitution, "whatever we do should be a matter of record."

House members reconsidered and passed a Senate-approved bill which would increase the salary of the Secretary of State from $7,500 to $15,000 a year. The bill, which had been voted down last week, was passed, 81 to 37, and sent to the Governor.

A short time later the Legislature defeated a Senate-approved measure which would have provided a similar increase in salary for the State Treasurer. The vote was 74 in favor of the bill to 46 against it, but 79 votes are required for passage.

Neither of these bills would affect the salaries of incumbents.

Attorney General Measures.

After a sharp debate, the Senate voted today to permit the Attorney General of Missouri to continue to engage in private law practice while holding office.

The issue came up as the Senate re-passed and sent to the Governor a bill which would increase the salary of the Attorney General from $7,500 to $15,000 a year.

The pay increase will not take effect during the present term of Attorney General John M. Dalton. It will become effective when the new term of that office begins in January, 1957, if the bill is signed by Gov. Donnelly.

The Senate re-passed the measure after concurring in a controversial House amendment. The amendment eliminated a provision from the original Senate-passed measure which would have required the Attorney General to devote his full time to the office. Approval of the House change means that the Attorney General may continue to accept private legal employment.

Among the other salary bills finally approved and sent to the Governor was one which would give the director of the Division of Employment Security an increase from $7,500 to $10,000 a year.

Still another bill would increase the salary of the commissioner of agriculture from $6,500 to $10,000 annually.

The chief engineer of the State Highway Department would be paid $15,000 a year, instead of $12,000, under provisions of another measure sent to the Governor.

Another bill which had been defeated earlier this week in the House was reconsidered and passed. It would establish a 40-hour work week for state employees coming under the state merit system. Many of them already are working a 40-hour week. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Tax Evader Fund Bill.

The Senate voted $200,000 yesterday for a one-shot effort to catch Missourians evading the state income tax.

The sum was added to a $1,900,000 catch-all bill approved and sent back to the House with cuts totaling about $550,000 and new items amounting to about $340,000.

The one-shot effort by the Department of Revenue would involve photographing all federal income tax returns filed from Missouri and checking them against state returns.

Tax collectors have estimated it might snare as many as 100,000 evaders and bring in up to $1,500,000 a year in additional revenue.

Bill on Jury Transcripts.

A bill which would have required transcripts of grand jury testimony be furnished persons indicted by the jury was defeated after opponents pointed out the measure would destroy the secrecy of the grand jury system.

A House-approved bill which would provide for the licensing and regulation of nursing homes was passed in the Senate, 30 to 0. However, it will have to go back to the House because of amendments adopted by the Senate.

As approved by the House, the measure would exempt nursing homes operated by religious, fraternal or non-profit organizations from the licensing provisions of the proposed law, but they would be subject to regular inspection. The Senate amended the bill to exempt such institutions from all provisions of the bill.

Another Senate amendment would prevent collection of state inspection or licensing fees in cities or counties which have their own inspection and regulation laws.

Highway Patrol Bill.

The Senate, at a night session, approved a House bill which would increase the authorized personnel of the State Highway Patrol. It was passed, 31 to 0, but it too will have to go back

BROWNELL HAILS WAR
ON LABOR RACKETEERSSays G.O.P. Ended 'Democratic Pampering' of Union Bosses.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 12 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell said last night that 20 years in "Democratic pampering" of labor leaders' racketeering is being ended by the Republican Administration.

He told 1700 Iowa Republicans at a $25-a-plate dinner that the Administration's war on "parasitic labor racketeers" is restoring the foundations of the American political system.

In an earlier press conference, the former Republican national chairman said "I think the President (Eisenhower) will run again" in 1956.

Brownell said in his speech that in the last two years the present Administration has obtained 70 indictments under the anti-racketeering and Taft-Hartley laws as compared to five by the Democratic Administrations in the eight years prior to 1953.

He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation has undertaken 1400 investigations of possible violations of the two laws and are opening new cases at the rate of 50 a month.

"The lack of law enforcement in this great labor racketeering was an open invitation to hoodlums and gangsters to infiltrate and capture control of the business on the one hand or of the labor organization on the other, or of both," the United Press quoted Brownell as saying.

He cited the region around St. Louis as a good example of "ruthless extortions" of business and unions and named Evan Dale as the "most powerful racketeer in southern Illinois" and Orell B. Soucie as the "duke of Indiana." Both men were convicted and sentenced, he said.

Brownell said Dale, president of the Southern Illinois District Council of the Hodcarriers' and Common Laborers' Union at East St. Louis, was convicted for "conspiring and attempting to commit the largest extortion on record" in connection with the Jopka (Ill.) federal power plant.

to the House because of Senate amendments adopted.

The Senate cut the number of additional patrolmen from 130 to 35, which would make the total strength of the organization 355 men. It now is limited to 320 officers.

Senate members devoted nearly an hour to discussion of a House-approved measure which would authorize school boards throughout the state to prohibit grade and high school pupils from becoming members of fraternities or sororities.

Then Senator Hartwell G. Crain (Rep., St. Louis county), who was handling the bill, asked that it be placed on the informal calendar because of the apparent opposition which had developed.

Several of the Senators said they could not see why such legislation is necessary and expressed belief that the problem is, first, a parental one, and secondly one which school authorities already have authority to correct.

The Senate passed a House-approved measure which would give the chief engineer of the State Highway Department a salary increase from $12,000 to $15,000 a year. It also goes back to the House because of Senate amendments.

U.S. REPORTER HURT IN RIOT
IN SINGAPORE BUS STRIKE

SINGAPORE, May 12 (UP)—Gene Symonds, United Press manager for Southeast Asia, was injured seriously when assaulted by rioting bus strikers tonight.

Symonds was injured while on his way to report the trouble between two rival union groups involved in a bus strike. The strike has let to rioting, the death of one policeman and injury to several others.

Eyewitnesses said Symonds was riding to the trouble scene in a taxicab when he passed through an area dominated by the strikers. The witnesses said a group of strikers and Chinese students rushed the taxi cab, dragged Symonds out, beat him with sticks and stoned him until he was almost unconscious. He was taken to a hospital in a police van.

O'CONNOR CALLS FOR CALM VIEW OF SALK PROGRAM

Foundation Chief De-
plores 'Emotional
ulations Must Go On.

An appeal for a calm appraisal and fewer "emotional outbursts" over interruption of the Salk polio vaccination program was made here last night by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

He referred to the more than 40 cases of paralytic polio which were reported following inoculation with vaccine produced by Cutter Laboratories and cautioned, "Let's not get excited, because we do not yet know the details... we must get this program back on the road."

O'Connor spoke at a dinner meeting of the St. Louis-St. Louis county chapter of the foundation, at Hotel Statler, attended by about 300 persons.

Cities Years of Research.
The vaccine is not "something that was developed yesterday," he said, and reminded that years of research went into its development, with foundation support providing for continuity of research.

"I'm afraid there is a school of persons who want to keep things indefinitely in the laboratory," he said.

"One of the smartest things we ever did was to buy $9,000,000 worth of the vaccine to keep laboratories in production before the Francis report was released April 12. If we had not done that, there would have been a 70-day gap in production—at a critical time when the polio season was about to begin."

Mass Shots Big Job.

"We would like to see everyone up to the age of 35 have the vaccine tomorrow," O'Connor went on, but then he pointed out what a large undertaking that would be. "For everyone up to 20 to be immunized would require 180,000,000 shots, and when you remember that it takes about five minutes to give one shot, a bit of mathematics will show the size of the job," he said.

Foundation officials decided to provide the first two shots free to pupils of the first and second grades this year because they are in the most susceptible age group.

The foundation has no plans to finance any more inoculation, but it is continuing research, including some in chemotherapy in search of a polio cure.

WORKERS RETURNING TO JOBS AT BRITISH PORT, IN MINES

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Britain's troubled labor scene brightened today. The strike-bound Liverpool docks returned to life and a back-to-work move gained impetus in the Yorkshire coal fields.

Six hundred striking Liverpool tugmen manned their vessels for the first time in a week. More than 80 ships choked the docks and harbors of Britain's No. 2 commercial port. Five thousand dock workers had been jobless because of the strike. The walkout was called to back demands for a work week reduction from 48 to 44 hours and higher Saturday overtime pay.

The three-week-old strike of Yorkshire coal miners eased when work resumed in a dozen more pits. The number of idle miners, which stood at 85,000 early this week, was down to less than 60,000.

JUIN CALLED TO REVIEW OF ALGERIAN TERRORISM

PARIS, May 12 (AP)—Marshal Alphonse Juin, military adviser to the French Government, was summoned yesterday to a meeting of ministers reviewing terrorist acts against French forces in Algeria.

Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, minister responsible for running Algeria, said terrorism was increasing in northern Constantine, easternmost of Algeria's three provinces.

A new incident was reported last night from the Aures mountains, south of Constantine. Four armed Algerian sharpshooters were kidnapped by terrorists. In a clash at Kheirane a soldier was killed and four, including an officer, were wounded.

BRITISH BOOKIES RAISE ODDS AGAINST LABORITE VICTORY

LONDON, May 12 (UPI)—Bookmakers are now quoting odds of 7 to 2 against the Laborites in the May 26 general election. Last week they offered only 5 to 2.

The latest newspaper polls have shown an increase in Conservative party popularity. The polls reported that 49½ per cent of voters questioned intend to vote Conservative while 47 per cent favor Labor. A week ago it was 48½ per cent Conservative and 47½ per cent Labor.

However, the Gallup poll reported, in its most recent survey that the two parties were neck and neck at 47 per cent.

GANNETT'S ARE HONORED FOR CULTURAL ACHIEVEMENT

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 12 (AP)—Newspaper Publisher Frank E. Gannett and Mrs. Gannett are the recipients of the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences civil medal for cultural achievement.

The award cited the Gannetts for having "worked hand-in-hand for a better Rochester, a better America, and a better world."

Mrs. Gannett accepted the medal last night in behalf of herself and her husband. The 78-year-old publisher is still confined to a bed with a fractured vertebrae suffered April 15.

CHINA HANDBOOKS MAY FORESHADOW NERVE WAR BY U.S.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
STANFORD, Calif., May 12—Possibly foreshadowing increased psychological warfare activity in the Orient, Stanford University has been awarded a $114,000 Army contract to prepare four handbooks on different regions of China.

The handbooks, which will be used by the Army's Board of Psychological Warfare, will deal with the political, economic and sociological aspects of the areas analyzed. Another handbook will cover background and current information on Formosa.

The one-year Stanford contract technically was awarded by man Relations Area Files, Inc., New Haven, Conn., an association of eleven major universities. This association holds a prime contract with the Department of the Army for the preparation of such handbooks on various parts of the world.

To conduct the study, Dr. Shau Wing Chan, Stanford professor of Chinese and director of the project, is assembling a team of 18 scholars, including outside experts. Among the latter will be Dr. Carsun Chang, leader of the third party in China before Communist rule; Dr. and Mrs. C. Y. Fang, researchers from the Library of Congress and Columbia University; and Dr. T. C. Shen, Harvard-trained scholar who formerly was Chinese High Commissioner to Tibet.

Harness Omitted in Catalogue.
CHICAGO (INS)—Signs of the times and pity poor old hobbin. Montgomery Ward & Co. in its 1955 farm book, omits work harnesses for farm horses. It is the first time in 70 years of publication that the book carries nothing about work harnesses for farm horses. The company blamed a dwindling demand for such an item.

QUICK POSTAL PAY RISE VETO IS EXPECTED

8.8 Pct. Increase Approved by Senate 66 to 11—Vote to Override Doubtful.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—A quick presidential veto, perhaps by Monday, is reported to await a bill to increase postal workers' pay 8.8 per cent. Senator Frank Carlson (Rep., Kan.), said he was certain the Senate would sustain the veto if it comes.

The Senate passed the compromise measure 66 to 11 yesterday and sent it to President Eisenhower. The House acted Monday by a 328 to 66 vote.

Carlson said the President never had discussed a veto with him. But it was learned the White House has told key Republican members of Congress they can expect a veto message quickly.

Mr. Eisenhower, who favored a smaller increase, has said publicly only that he would study the matter carefully.

Switches Predicted. The 66 to 11 vote was far more than enough to override a veto, but Carlson said there would be many switches if and when the question of sustaining the President arises. The Senate would have to act first on overriding if Mr. Eisenhower returns the bill.

Four or five Democrats were reported to have agreed to vote with the Administration in the event of a veto.

In yesterday's vote, 37 Democrats and 29 Republicans supported the compromise. Eleven Republicans voted "no," including all of the leaders present.

Carlson said he would be ready immediately with a 7.6 per cent postal pay bill if there is a veto of the 8.8 per cent measure and it is sustained.

The President has let it be known he would accept an average 7.6 per cent rise, although he originally asked Congress this year for no more than 6.5 per cent.

The compromise bill sent to the White House would mean a 7 per cent pay hike for all of the 500,000 postal employees, and more than that for most of them.

Some Reclassification. It contains some reclassification features increasing pay in the higher brackets by much larger percentages, but not the full reclassification asked by the Administration.

The annual cost of the compromise would be $179,800,000, about $20,000,000 more than the cost of the 7.6 per cent measure Mr. Eisenhower has indicated he would accept.

Backers of the compromise bill said it actually contained an average 8.59 per cent pay rise, and that higher travel allowances and special benefits for substitute employees made up the remainder of the 8.8 per cent.

The last postal pay rise was in 1951. Last August Mr. Eisenhower declined to sign a bill carrying a 5 per cent rise on the ground it included no postal reclassification and no postal rate hike to provide additional revenues.

A comparable increase for the classified civil service workers is expected to follow a final settlement of the postal pay dispute.

SEVEN ENGINEERS HONORED. Seven members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Division 42, were presented pins for up to 50 years of service at a luncheon yesterday at the Railroad Y.M.C.A., 201 South Twentieth street.

Charles B. Swinn, Kansas City, Kan., assistant grand chief of the brotherhood, presented the pins to two men with 50 years' membership and to five 40-year members.

BLIND YOUTH FINED AS DRUNK DRIVER, HELD FOR GRAND JURY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 12 (AP)—A blind University of Tennessee student was held to the county grand jury yesterday on a drunk driving charge.

Edgar Lee Edens of Nashville also was fined $100 by City

Judge Charles G. Kelly on a city charge of drunk driving. The judge suspended the fine. Edens posted $250 bond on the state drunk driving charge.

A drunk driving charge against Robert P. Matheny, another Tennessee student from Motague, Mich., was dismissed. The judge said there was no proof that Matheny was driving the automobile when he and Edens were arrested Tuesday.

Police had charged both with driving the car at the same time while drunk. Officers testified Edens was sitting at the steering wheel when they stopped the car.

Fenced in Food. PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP)—They call the food city prisoners eat, "Jailburgers." "What else would you call it?" asked Chief Hoyt Curry. "All we serve is sandwiches."

DEMOCRATS FORECAST WIN EVEN IF EISENHOWER RUNS

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Democratic National Committee said today the 266 electoral votes needed to win the Presidency were "well within reach" of the Democrats whether President Eisenhower ran or not next year.

The Democratic Digest, the party's official publication, said in its June issue that if Democratic gains since Mr. Eisenhower's election indicated the real trend of public opinion, the Democrats would "score a substantial victory" in 1956.

JOAN CRAWFORD WON'T LET CAREER HAMPER MARRIAGE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 12 (AP)—Joan Crawford says she will retire from the films if it interferes with her marriage. She and soft-drink executive Alfred Steele, who were married Tuesday at Las Vegas, Nev., allied up a double-tiered cake yesterday at her first Hollywood press conference since the surprise event.

"Nothing will interfere with my marriage," she told reporters. She nodded toward Steele. "He's the boss."

Steele quickly added: "If she wants to continue her career, she certainly can." He said Miss Crawford's career will not end if she's happy with it.

Miss Crawford, 47 years old, a film actress for 30 years, met the press on a set of her latest picture. She said she and Steele, who is 54, will sail from New York May 26 for a European honeymoon, but that she must be back here to start a new film July 1.

She said that when she is not busy with film work she will live in New York, where Steele's office is. She is Steele's third wife, he is her fourth husband.

DEMOCRATS HIT AT MRS. HOBBY VACCINE POLICY

Senate Labor Committee Monday. Representative A. L. Miller (Rep.), Nebraska, a physician, cautioned the House against "abrupt action" in the vaccine matter, that might prove ill-advised. He urged a moratorium on attacks on Scheele and Mrs. Hobby.

"We ought not to play politics with the vaccine issue," Miller said in a House speech. He said Mrs. Hobby as a layman must act on advice of her medical experts.

The Public Health Service reported today that 1601 polio cases had been reported since the start of the year, compared to 2120 in the same period of last year.

There were 149 new cases reported for the week ended May 7, two more than reported in the previous week, and five more than in the comparable week of 1954.

Salk Clarifies Policy on Spacing of Inoculations.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 12 (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the polio vaccine, reassured parents today that spacing of the second shot is not material, provided it is given before the 1955 epidemic season or before exposure in individual cases.

The scientist warned that work on vaccinations against polio was not designed primarily to control the disease in 1955 but rather to determine the proper conditions for its use.

Attempting to clarify the spacing of shots since the halt in the nationwide mass inoculations of school children, Dr. Salk said:

"Ideally, three doses of vaccine, properly spaced, should be administered before the particular season during which protection is desired. It has been recommended that three doses, with the second two to four weeks after the first, and the third not less than seven months later, could be expected to produce the desired effect if properly constituted vaccine is used.

"It is obvious from this that the ideal conditions can not possibly be obtained any sooner than the epidemic season of 1956.

"Therefore, anything that can be done prior to the epidemic season of 1955 is a compromise. . . .

"The recommended use of two doses of vaccine two to four weeks apart before the 1955 epidemic season is merely the recommendation that one do the best one can recognizing the limitations of time and material.

"From the practical viewpoint, this means that two inoculations should be given before the 1955 epidemic season but that the spacing of the second beyond the two to four weeks period is not material provided it is given before the ensuing epidemic season or before exposure in the individual instance."

Dr. Salk re-emphasized that naturally acquired polio can be expected to develop at any time after the first shot of satisfactory vaccine in children "who are exposed before their immunity is fully developed."

Move Begun to Give President Steadily Control of Vaccine.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—A move was gaining momentum in Congress today to give President Eisenhower standby powers to clamp controls over distribution and prices of Salk polio vaccine.

Representative Wolcott (Rep.), Michigan, said the proposal seems to be a "happy compromise" between contradictory demands for only voluntary guides and for compulsory and immediate controls. He added he thought standby powers should be satisfactory to the Eisenhower Administration, which has opposed federal controls so far.

Wolcott is senior Republican on the House Banking Committee, which is considering a wide variety of vaccine control bills. Meanwhile the Public Health Service continued an on-the-spot recheck of vaccine manufacturing at the Parke-Davis & Co. Laboratories in Detroit, the first of five manufacturers to be inspected. Surgeon General Leonard Scheele has called for a halt in the nation-wide vaccination of school children pending these plant-by-plant rechecks.

The latest count from the public health service showed the number of confirmed polio cases among children already vaccinated has risen to 64, out of an estimated 5,000,000 children who have received the serum. There have been five deaths.

Parke-Davis & Co. said today it has developed what it expects to be an improved version of the vaccine, and is testing it in DeWitt County, Illinois. It said a new substance has been added to slow down absorption into the blood stream. This should both increase the vaccine's effectiveness and provide a longer period of immunity, a company spokesman said.

EX-POSTMISTRESS PLEADS GUILTY; PUT ON PROBATION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 12—Mrs. Mary Z. Schnell, former postmistress at Roxana, pleaded guilty in United States district court today to an indictment charging her with converting $4433 of postal funds to her own use. Judge Charles G. Briggie placed her on probation for three years after being informed that she had returned the money. The loss was discovered April 12, and she resigned a week later and was succeeded by Mrs. Henry Weiss as acting postmistress. The United States Attorney's office reported that Mrs. Schnell used the money for ordinary living expenses. She had held the office since 1944.

FOREIGN MINISTERS OF 40 NATIONS DUE AT U.N. BIRTHDAY

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 12 (AP)—As many as 40 foreign ministers may attend the tenth anniversary meetings of the United Nations in San Francisco, the U.N. said today. There are 60 nations in the U.N.

So far, 18 foreign ministers, including Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, have notified the U.N. they intend to go to the June 20-26 sessions. In addition, word has been received from other governments informally that their foreign ministers expect to attend.

The Soviet delegation has dropped hints that Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov might go to San Francisco, but has not yet replied to the invitation. British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan also may attend, but because of the May 26 election in Britain he is not in a position to commit himself publicly.

ADENAUER GETS MARGIN NEEDED ON REARMAMENT

Four-Party Coalition in Saxony Cinches the Chancellor's Program in Bundesrat.

HANNOVER, Germany, May 12 (AP)—A new four-party coalition government in Lower Saxony today assured Chancellor Adenauer the two-thirds majority needed in the federal Parliament's upper house to carry through West German rearmament.

The coalition replaces a government dominated by anti-rearmament Socialists. The new lineup was assured when the Refugee party agreed last night to join the Chancellor's Christian Democrats and two other pro-Adenauer factions in the state administration.

Members of the Bundesrat, Parliament's upper house, are appointed by the state governments. Lower Saxony's five seats in the chamber will give Adenauer a 26-12 majority there. This margin will be needed if the Socialists successfully challenge the constitutionality of any of the mass of legislation needed to carry out the rearmament program. A two-thirds vote is required to change the constitution.

Following election of a new state parliament for Lower Saxony April 25, the Refugee party agreed two weeks ago to join the government with the Christian Democrats, the German party and the Free Democrats. Later, however, the Refugee group hesitated. The faction had been lined up with the Socialists in the outgoing state government.

The four coalition parties are all members of Adenauer's federal government but there are differences on the local level. One of the chief of these is the issue of government aid for Roman Catholic schools, which is favored by the strongly Catholic Christian Democrats.

RED KOREA SHOWS AFFTON RESIDENT 6 BODIES AS SIGN KILLED WHEN HIS OF TRUCE BREACH AUTO HITS TRUCK

U.N. Refuses to Accept Mutilated Corpses — Denies Any Armistice Violation.

PANMUNJOM, Korea, May 12 (AP) — The Communists today offered the bodies of six Asian soldiers and said they were evidence of an armistice violation by an Allied patrol.

The United Nations refused to accept the bodies. United Nations officials accused the Communists of "manufacturing the evidence." They said the Korean Reds were trying to prove an armistice violation that never occurred.

The Communists said the six men were killed last week when a patrol tried to cross into North Korea.

A U.N. official said the bodies were so mutilated it was impossible to determine whether they were Korean or Chinese.

Prisoner Produced. The U.N. also refused to accept a Korean, produced by the Communists, who said he was the only surviving member of the patrol and had been captured by the Reds.

The U.N. denied a Communist charge that the patrol had been sent into Red territory on a spy mission.

It refused to accept either the bodies or the "captured" Korean because there "is no proof whatsoever that they were United Nations personnel."

The Communists offered to turn over the bodies and the "captive" at an investigation conducted in the demilitarized zone by U.N. and Red members of a joint observer team of the Military Armistice Commission.

The Communists accused the U.N. of violating the armistice by sending a patrol of South Koreans into Red territory. The Reds said the six men were killed and one captured May 7 when the "intruders" were ambushed by a Communist patrol which hurled grenades into its center.

U.S. Weapons Displayed. The Communists also displayed United States carbines, pistols and grenades which they said had been found on the slain patrol.

Lt. Col. Harold Dye, of Atlanta, U.N. senior member of the team, said such equipment was no proof that the patrol was U.N. personnel.

"All such equipment," Dye said, "is equipment known to have been captured by the Communist side during the war."

He said the equipment appeared to have been placed near the bodies after the men were killed.

Veers Into Path of Tractor-Trailer After Hitting Another Car Making Turn.

Herman M. White, 11232 Marley drive, Affton, a clerk for Associated Transport, Inc., was killed today in a traffic accident on Lindbergh boulevard at Long road, St. Louis county, in which three vehicles were involved.

White, 25 years old, was driving north on Lindbergh when he struck the rear left fender of another northbound automobile which was making a left turn into a filling station. White's machine then veered into a tractor trailer being driven south by Ralph R. Wilson, Chilton, Wis.

The force of the impact hurled White to the pavement and he was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital. Sheriff's deputies said the automobile struck first by White's machine was driven by Glenn E. McClain, an automobile worker of 1 Arnold drive, Valley Park. Witnesses told deputies McClain had given a hand signal before making the left turn into the filling station.

Mrs. Julia Schmerbauch, who lived near Troy, Ill., was killed last night in a collision of two automobiles on U.S. Highway 40 about one and one-half miles east of Troy, the Illinois State Police reported.

Mrs. Schmerbauch, 59 years old, was a passenger in an automobile being driven east by her husband, Charles Schmerbauch, who attempted to make a left turn into a country lane, police said. An automobile driven west by Jack Baldwin of Greenville, Ill., struck the Schmerbauch machine.

Schmerbauch suffered severe head and internal injuries and was reported in serious condition at the Highland, Ill., hospital. His wife died en route to the hospital.

J. W. Jackson of New Madrid, Mo., died early today in Wood River Township Hospital of injuries suffered Tuesday when his automobile went out of control and collided with a tractor-trailer about five miles north-east of Edwardsville. The truck driver, John Mincer of Lemay, was not injured.

Indonesian Army Chief Resigns. JAKARTA, May 12 (AP)—The Indonesian government today announced the resignation of the army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Bambang Sugeng. It gave ill health as the reason. Official sources said the 46-year-old former guerrilla leader would be given a diplomatic post abroad.

PRESIDENT MUM EVEN TO FRIENDS ON 1956 PLANS

Apprehension Seems to Be Growing in Party That He May Retire at End of Term.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower is said to be keeping even his close friends in the dark about his plans for 1956.

Recent White House visitors were said authoritatively to have been instructed by the President's aids not to bring up the subject of 1956. Those instructions have gone to some who are regarded as among his closest political associates.

Roy Roberts, editor of the Kansas City Star, and Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine added yesterday to what appears to be an undercurrent of apprehension among many party members by predicting that the President may retire at the end of his term.

World Factors Involved.
Roberts, long-time Eisenhower booster who visited Washington over the weekend, wrote in the Star that the controlling factor in the President's decision may be "the condition, not so much of the nation and the party, but of the world next summer and spring."

Roberts said he had no information from the White House but was writing his view on the way the President's mind operates. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there would be no comment.

Mrs. Smith said she had gained the impression Mrs. Eisenhower "prefers to retire after 1956." Asked about it, the President told his press conference he had not "the slightest idea where she got that impression." But he gave no sign that he would run.

On the other side of this guessing game, Attorney General Herbert Brownell replied "Oh, I think so" when asked by a reporter in Des Moines yesterday whether he thinks Mr. Eisenhower will run again. He added, however, that only one person could actually answer—the President himself.

Senators' Opinions Vary.
You could find a wide variety of opinions on the subject among Republican Senators.

"I don't think there is any question about his running," Senator Capehart of Indiana said. "He has got the presidency organized and he is enjoying it. I don't know a President who has been so able to relax and take things in his stride."

Senator Carlson of Kansas, a staunch Eisenhower supporter, said he could see how the President "would like to retire after many years in which he has confronted so many tough decisions." "But he has always heeded the call of his country and his country is going to need him again next year to carry forward his program for peace and prosperity," Carlson said.

Unfinished Job.
Senator Goldwater of Arizona said: "Nothing the President has said has indicated whether he would run or whether he wouldn't. Those who believe he will base that belief on the knowledge that a soldier has reluctance to quit any job that hasn't been finished."

"I don't think anybody can say that four years is enough to get the country out of the fiscal mess that it took the Democrats 20 years to get us into."

Goldwater said that, as of now, he doubts the Republicans can win either the White House or control of Congress in 1956 unless Mr. Eisenhower runs.

Senator Bender of Ohio told the Senate yesterday he was convinced Mr. Eisenhower would seek and get another term, no matter who opposes him.

SENATE TO CHECK INTO ALLEGED JOB SECURITY ABUSES

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The Senate voted $75,000 yesterday to finance an investigation of charges by Senator Olin D. Johnston (Dem., South Carolina), that the Post Office Department and Civil Service Commission are flouting the laws protecting Government employees' job security.

The investigation is to be conducted by the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee which Johnston heads.

The Senate also voted $50,000 to finance an investigation of alleged infringements of Constitutional guarantees under the Bill of Rights, and another $50,000 for a "complete examination and review" of the patent laws.

The Constitutional rights inquiry will be handled by a judiciary subcommittee headed by Senator Hennings (Dem., Missouri). Hennings told the Senate he would pay "particular attention to matters concerned with the rights of privacy, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom from unreasonable search and seizure, and functions of administrative departments whose responsibilities particularly affect such rights."

STATE WORKER 'TELLS OFF' CITY, HIS BOSS GETS REPLY

KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (UP)—A state highway department official ticked off for not paying a parking meter "told off" city police, then reluctantly paid a 25-cent fine. In retaliation, Mayor Andrew Milnar sent a letter to the state highway chairman, demanding that the person be reprimanded and saying, "we don't have to stand for it and we don't intend to."

COUNTY LACKING VOTE MACHINE STORAGE SPACE

Research Group Says
Only 36 of 178 Agencies Offer Free Room, Polling Places.

Only 36 of 178 St. Louis county municipalities, school districts and other public agencies have offered free space to the county for use as polling places and storage of voting machines, a report to the County Council showed yesterday.

The report was a partial one prepared by the Governmental Research Institute, a privately supported fact-finding agency, at request of the county Election Board on problems in connection with consolidation of election precincts and use of voting machines.

Election Board Chairman John J. Cole, commenting today on the report, declared that "the unco-operative attitude of some school districts and other agencies threatens to eliminate the savings we had hoped to realize from the use of voting machines."

Possible Results.
"If a sufficient number of buildings is not made available for storing machines, election costs will be as high as they have been in the past and possibly higher."

A total of 79 buildings with a capacity to store 158 machines was offered by 15 of 28 school districts, 17 of 95 municipalities and four of 53 fire-protection districts and volunteer fire departments, the report showed.

In addition, 42 buildings with capacity for 84 machines were offered by churches and parochial schools and four buildings for 10 machines were offered by miscellaneous agencies.

Reasons given for refusal of space generally were that structures lacked adequate storage facilities and that agencies could not afford free space for polling places because of increased expenses for custodial and other services.

To Continue Payments.
Cole said the council recently had decided to continue rental payments of $15 for use of polling places and that he hoped the agencies would reconsider their rejection of the Election Board's request.

The county has ordered 400 voting machines, to be paid for from bond issue funds, but will need about 250 more, on the basis of present plans for reduction in number of voting precincts from 418 to about 325. There would be two machines in each polling place.

Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss, who has issued a call for the May term county grand jury to report May 21, appeared before the council and called its attention to recommendations by the last grand jury that an investigation of County Housing Authority operations at Jefferson Barracks be continued and that an independent audit of the authority be conducted. The council will discuss the matter next week.

Judge Ferriss said he did not know who should pay for such an audit. Councilman James H. McNary observed that "it would seem" the housing authority should pay for it, on the basis of an opinion of the county counselor. Council members said they would discuss the matter next week.

The council received from the County Board of Equalization a resolution endorsing the council's plan for re-assessment of real estate under a program ending Dec. 31, 1956. The State Tax Commission has said the re-evaluation should be this year.

In another action the council authorized the taking of bids on a 150-automobile concrete parking lot, to cost an estimated $40,000 in bond funds, on the county hospital-health center grounds.

ANDREW ORRICK NOMINATED TO BE MEMBER OF SEC

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday submitted to the Senate the nomination of Andrew D. Orrick of San Francisco to be a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Orrick would serve the rest of a term expiring June 5, 1957. He would succeed Ralph H. Demmery, resigned.

Mr. Eisenhower announced his intention to nominate Orrick last month. He now is regional administrator of the SEC with headquarters in San Francisco.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Bargain Justice.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Melvin L. James, pleaded guilty in district court to charges of driving an improperly registered automobile and driving without his eyes. He told Judge Luigi de Pasquale the car had caused him so much trouble with police that he had sold it for $8 in the hope it would cover the fine. The judge obliged by cutting a $10 fine to $8.

Shifting Fortunes.

CHICAGO, (AP)—The wealth of 8-year-old Michael Rice grew and shrank rapidly. Waiting outside a building while his father transacted business inside, Michael found a wallet containing $400. A few inquiries turned up the owner in a nearby store. The happy owner gave Michael a reward of 50 cents.

Coincidence.

CHICAGO, (UP)—Each of Mrs. F. E. Lane's three married daughters, two of whom live here and the third in Honolulu, sent her Mother's day cards. All three cards were identical.

ARGENTINE SENATE VOTES TO STOP RELIGION COURSES

BUENOS AIRES, May 12 (AP)—Backed unanimously by the Senate, a bill eliminating Roman Catholic religious education in Argentine public schools went today to the House of Deputies. Approval there was considered certain.

The measure, first Congressional move supporting President Peron in his dispute with the Church, was passed by the Senate yesterday. Peron supporters also have proposed a bill in Congress to cancel Constitutional provisions making Roman Catholicism the state church.

Police yesterday announced the arrest of two more Catholic priests. This brought to 33 the number taken into custody since last November, when Peron began accusing some churchmen of trying to undermine his regime.

EISENHOWER WILL SPEND WEEKEND AT GETTYSBURG

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower plan to spend the weekend at their new country home at Gettysburg, Pa.

The plan to drive to their farm tomorrow morning, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John S. Doud of Denver. She will celebrate her seventy-seventh birthday that day.

So far as is known, the trip will be Mrs. Eisenhower's first venture outside the White House since cancellation of all her engagements 10 days ago on orders of her physician. The White House said at the time that the engagements were being canceled because Mrs. Eisenhower still had not fully recovered from a respiratory ailment that started last March. The President plans to return to Washington from Gettysburg Sunday evening.

SAYS STATE COULD GET MORE U.S. AID

Welfare Dept. Official Asserts Rehabilitation Fund
Could Be Increased.

Missouri could receive almost twice as much in Federal funds for vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons in the next fiscal year as the state obtained last year, Miss Mary Switzer, a director of the Federal Department of Health, Welfare and Education, said here last night.

Miss Switzer, executive director of the department's office of vocational rehabilitation, said the state could obtain $973,000 in Federal aid next year, under a budget request, if the state puts up $517,000. This year the state put up $275,000 and received $509,000 in Federal funds.

Miss Switzer addressed the annual meeting of the health and hospital division of the Social Planning Council, a Community Chest agency, at United Hebrew Temple, 225 South Skinker boulevard.

"In 1954, Missouri's two state rehabilitation agencies rehabilitated 1299 disabled people," Miss Switzer said, "using the $275,000 in state funds and $509,000 in Federal money."

"Some 500 of these came from the rolls of public assistance. Their estimated assistance payments were running at the rate of $303,000 a year—for every year as long as they remained on the rolls. Their rehabilitation cost $253,000 and that is paid just once."

"Far greater numbers of disabled people need these services, however, and could be restored to gainful work if adequate services were available. It is estimated that a quarter of a million disabled people a year come to need vocational rehabilitation in order to work, and that there are 2,000,000 disabled people in the country who could be rehabilitated if services were adequate to meet the total need."

Under an act passed last year $27,000,000 was appropriated by Congress for rehabilitation work in the states, the highest appropriation in the 34-year history of the public rehabilitation program.

Dr. Llewellyn Sale Jr. was succeeded as chairman of the division by Dr. Walter Baumgarten Jr. Gilbert Strelinger, general attorney for the Katy Railroad, succeeded Archer O'Reilly as vice chairman.

OFFERS TAPE RECORDINGS OF HIS TAPE RECORDINGS

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UP)—Jake Buhler, who sells records and recording machines, has come up with a neat advertising gimmick that whets the appetite of music-lovers.

Each week Buhler makes a master tape recording of musical and religious programs and then invites owners of tape recorders for a re-recording session free of charge.

Through a "patch" system, Buhler can handle six recorders working off his master tape.

This Will Go if Proposition 14 Passes

View, at the foot of East Adelaide avenue, of the present landfill method of disposing of trash and rubbish collected in north St. Louis. If voters approve Proposition No. 14 of the $110,639,000 bond issue on May 26, an incinerator would be constructed to burn north-side rubbish like the one now in use at the foot of Gasconade street for south-side rubbish.

space would be provided for the garbage trucks now stored at Vandeventer and Forest Park, the vehicles would be left in the open, thus reducing the size of the building needed. The bond issue screening committee found that open storage was practiced by most large fleet owners with satisfactory results.

Closely related to Proposition No. 14 is No. 15, which would provide a new building costing about $600,000 to service and repair city-owned vehicles used for street cleaning and traffic control. The item calls for approval of $425,000 for this purpose, the remainder of the cost to come from sale of the city's old property at Vandeventer and Forest Park.

Site Not Yet Obtained.

No site has been picked for the new building, but it is believed the city could acquire less expensive land for the purpose while the more valuable land occupied by the present garage could be sold to a private industry, which would mean the land's return to the tax rolls.

The new structure would house paint shops, storage and tin shops, offices and similar facilities needed for more efficient operation of the Traffic Division and the Street Cleaning Division. The trucks, sweepers and flushers would be stored under a canopy rather than inside the building.

JAPAN TO RECEIVE $72,600,000 WORTH OF U.S. WEAPONS

TOKYO, May 12 (AP)—The Defense Board today reported Japan will receive $72,600,000 worth of weapons in fiscal 1955 under the United States-Japan mutual defense agreement.

The report, submitted to the budget committee of the upper House, said Japan will get one submarine, 236 planes, including 54 Sabre jet fighters as well as transports, trainers and anti-submarine patrol planes; tanks; communications equipments; and light and heavy guns.

Syrian Delegation to Moscow.

DAMASCUS, May 12 (AP)—The Syrian Parliament today accepted an invitation to send a delegation to Moscow. It will be the first time a Syrian parliamentary group has visited the Soviet Union.

BOY DROWNS AS BOAT SINKS IN FARM POND

2 Companions Reach Shore—
Were Fishing Near Belleville.

Robert, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman, drowned yesterday when a row-boat from which he was fishing sank in a pond near his farm home, three miles northwest of Belleville.

The boy was in the boat with two school companions and neighbors, Kenneth Field, 13, and Kenneth's brother, Richard Field, 12.

Two of the boys leaned over and the craft shipped water, then sank, at a point about 10 feet from shore in water 10 feet deep. There was a step-off from much shallower water nearby and Kenneth and Richard reached this point and waded ashore.

Kenneth held out an oar to Robert, described as a poor swimmer, who grasped it momentarily, then let go and sank. Deputy sheriffs recovered the body an hour and a half later.

Kicking Pays Off.

CONNERSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—John Murray wondered why his Shetland pony kept backing up to a barnlot shed and kicking it with his hind hoofs. Watching, he found a stream of oats flowed out on the ground at every kick.

SOVIET STEP-UP IN ASIA LAID TO U.S. AID SUCCESS

George E. Allen Points to Red Programs in Afghanistan, Pakistan, India.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—A State Department official expressed belief today that accelerated Soviet economic activity in south Asia is due at least in part to Moscow's noting the success of United States aid programs in that area.

George V. Allen, former United States ambassador to India and now assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern affairs, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

"Soviet economic activity has stepped up notably in its technical assistance programs in Afghanistan, Pakistan and India, and in its proposals for capital goods programs in India and Afghanistan."

"While Soviet aid proposed for India is larger than that for Afghanistan, its impact upon the latter is relatively greater because of the smaller size and population of Afghanistan."

"I believe that this accelerated Soviet economic activity can be attributed in part to the success of our programs in south Asia—India, Pakistan, Afghanistan and Nepal—would get $181,000,000 from the foreign aid program the Eisenhower Administration has proposed for the year starting July 1."

The Senate committee, headed by Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, is in the midst of closed-door hearings on the program. Allen's statement to the committee was made available to reporters.

The major purpose of the 1956 program, Allen said, is "to consolidate the initial economic successes in those countries."

"Evident economic advancement is necessary for political stability," he said.

PEOPLE'S ART CENTER SHOW BY THE 'FRIDAY NIGHTERS'

Philip Best, former St. Louis artist who now heads the art department of Polytechnic Institute at San German, Puerto Rico, is guest exhibitor in a "Friday Nighters" art show opening today at 8 p.m. at People's Art Center, 3657 Grandel Square.

The display, which will continue through May, includes work of St. Louis artists and art students who meet Friday nights at the center to draw from a model and to criticize one another's efforts. Best is a former leader of the group.

Other exhibitors are Eleanor Coulter, John Dunivent, Jan Luft, Elizabeth Millman, Roscoe Misselhorn, Ralph Monteleone, Frank Moskus, David Ninas, Laura Skorst, Poepel, Wallace R. Rish, Thelma Notter Webb, Harold Welsenborn, Art Wickey and Matthew Ziegler.

BISHOP CHARGES PREACHING IS 'TRIVIAL AND FEEBLE'

NEWBURGH, N.Y., May 12 (AP)—Methodist Bishop Frederick Buckley Newell says much current preaching is "trivial, trite and feeble."

The bishop addressed 500 ministerial and lay delegates at the opening yesterday of the New York conference's 156th annual session.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY HOME UNIT FACES CONTEMPT ORDER

Housing Authority Giv. en Until Saturday to Turn Over to East St. Louis.

An order that the St. Clair County Housing Authority turn over its assets to the new East St. Louis Housing Authority by 10 a.m. Saturday or be held in contempt of court was issued late yesterday by Judge Quinten Spivey of Belleville.

Charles M. Whealon, attorney for the city housing authority, asked that the county authority be held in contempt for not transferring administration and assets to the city group. Assets of the county housing authority include $157,422 in cash from state funds for operation of two of five low-rent housing projects, with 1108 units. Three of the units have been acquired by the city authority along with two veterans' temporary projects of 74 units.

In previous court action the city also took over $419,000 in federal funds for operation of projects financed by federal grants.

Move to Force Compliance. Whealon's contempt petition was filed to force the county authority to abide by Judge Spivey's ruling on a mandamus order issued recently commanding the county authority to surrender its assets to the city housing authority.

The county authority did not comply with that order. Instead it appealed the mandamus ruling and petitioned the Illinois Supreme Court to issue an order staying action on the lower court's ruling. The high court refused the petition. The appeal from the mandamus ruling still is pending.

Mayor Alvin G. Fields of East St. Louis, on learning of the court's action yesterday, said the city now can proceed with its program of slum clearance and redevelopment. Policies of the St. Clair County Housing Authority, which was appointed by Ben F. Day, chairman of the St. Clair county board of supervisors for six years, were sharply criticized in February 1954 by the Chicago field office of the Federal Public Housing Administration. Mayor Fields, alarmed at the lack of slum clearance programs initiated by the authority, moved for adoption of a city housing authority.

Resisted by Day. Day, who withdrew as a candidate for re-election to the county board last Saturday, resisted efforts of Fields and members of the city council to take over operation of the city's housing projects.

Day's housing authority members moved $610,000 in authority funds from an East St. Louis bank to the Stockyards National Bank in National City in March 1954 as a safeguard against possible seizure of the funds by the city group.

The city authority went to court last March and was awarded the $419,000 in federal funds. Transfer of those funds is now being made. Transfer of the remaining $157,422 is expected Saturday.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION DELAYS ACTION ON PAY PLAN

Further consideration of a comprehensive pay plan for city employees was withheld yesterday by the Civil Service Commission pending action by the entire Board of Aldermen.

The measure, which would provide salary increases totaling $728,000 annually to city employees, was referred back to the commission last Friday by the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Aldermen. The committee asked the commission to hold further hearings on the bill.

The city charter requires the commission to prepare the compensation plan and requires the Board of Aldermen to accept or reject it wholly. The commission held yesterday as it did last year, that reference of the bill to it by an aldermanic committee does not constitute action by the entire Board of Aldermen. Some unions of municipal employees have opposed the bill on the ground that salary increases it offers are insufficient.

NO WEDDING BELLS, JUST COWBELLS, MILKMAID SUES

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 12 (AP)—After 17 years of marching after the cows instead of marching down the aisle, 40-year-old Dorothy Pentland says she is tired of waiting for the farmer to say "I do."

She is suing Benjamin Crowe, 64-year-old farmer, for breach of promise and asking for a half interest in his farm. She complained in court that she had been a housekeeper as well as a milkmaid without pay and "he stayed in bed while I went for the cows—at 4:30 a.m. each day."

It has, she said, been a long wait. She said Crowe promised to marry her in 1937.

PRIEST GIVES $500 TO TAX OFFICE—LEFT BY PENITENT

CHICAGO, May 12 (UP)—A Franciscan priest appeared at the office of Ernest J. Sauber, Director of Internal Revenue, and handed him an envelope yesterday.

The envelope contained 25 $20 bills and a note that read: "Included here is a sum of money that may belong to you." The Rev. Arsenius Gatzmeier of St. Peter's Church said he found the envelope containing $500 in a confessional. A man told him during confession he would leave it there, either Gatzmeier said.

PARKWAY SCHOOL DISTRICT BOND ISSUE VOTE MAY 26

A $750,000 bond issue proposal for construction of a junior high school and possible additions to elementary schools in the Parkway Consolidated School district, St. Louis county, will be voted on at a special election May 26, it was announced today.

Robert D. St. Louis, superintendent of schools, said passage of the proposal would increase taxes about 15 cents on the $100 assessed property valuation.

Last month the district voted a levy of $3.10 for the 1955-56 school year. The junior high school would be the first step toward establishment of a high school program in the district, which "farms out" its 350 high school students to neighboring districts.

Snyder said Parkway district is a consolidation of the old Mason Ridge, Fern Ridge and Weber School districts. NEW LICENSE SHIFT GRANTED Assignment of St. Louis radio station WEW's broadcasting license to the Barrington Co. for $50,000 was authorized in Washington yesterday by the Federal Communications Commission.

St. Louis University sold the station to Aubrey D. Reid, known professionally as Bruce Barrington, last March. Reid formed the Barrington Co. to operate the station. WEW was the first radio station in the United States to be operated by a university.

AIR FORCE OUSTS KILLER OF KOREAN

Officer Freed From Prison After 20 Months — Two Others Involved.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Air Force Secretary Harold Talbott today ordered the dismissal of a Hollywood (Ill.) officer and also his release from prison after serving 20 months of a five-year sentence for the murder of a South Korean.

The officer is Lt. George Schreiber, who will be released from the disciplinary barracks at Lompoc, Calif., on May 18. The Air Force said that his dismissal is the equivalent of a dishonorable discharge for an enlisted man, as he will lose his veterans' benefits and rights to military pensions and services.

Only last week the court of military appeals upheld the conviction and sentence for Schreiber. The Air Force Secretary's action, taken yesterday, but made known today in response to inquiries, approved the officer's sentence but remitted the remainder of the term of imprisonment.

Schreiber was involved, along with Airman Thomas L. Kinder, Cleveland, Tenn., and Sgt. Robert W. Toth, Pittsburgh, Pa., in the killing of a Korean on Sept. 26, 1952.

Kinder was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a dishonorable discharge. Last year Secretary Talbott remitted the unserved portion of the airman's prison sentence and suspended the discharge in order to give the man a second chance to make good. He is now serving in the Air Force.

Toth remains free until the Supreme Court decides whether the Air Force can exercise jurisdiction over a man after he received an honorable discharge and returned to civilian life. Toth was arrested by Air Force police and sent to Korea to stand trial, but his lawyers succeeded in having him returned home and the issue of jurisdiction has been argued all the way to the Supreme Court.

Schreiber was sentenced by the court martial to life imprisonment and dismissal from the service. The Air Force board of review reduced the prison term to five years.

POPE OVERCOMES SORE THROAT, CONTINUES WORK

VATICAN CITY, May 12 (UP)—Pope Pius XII overcame a slight sore throat today and carried out a full schedule of activities.

Vatican sources said the sore throat had vanished by the time the 79-year-old Pope addressed a group of American and European antibiotics experts.

EDEN WOULD CUT DRAFT TERM IF TALKS SUCCEED

RUGBY, England, May 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden said today if progress is made in talks with Russia he hopes to reduce the two-year draft period British youths must serve in uniform.

"But it would be folly—criminal folly—to weaken ourselves before the negotiations begin," Eden said in a campaign speech.

He was replying to a call by Labor party leader Clement

Attlee last night for shorter service by conscripts.

If a reduction proves possible, "you can be sure that the government will not waste time doing it," Eden said. But he added: "I would rather say bluntly 'lose every vote in this general election (May 26) than take a step which would imperil our negotiations with Russia.'"

Last April the Labor party demanded a study to see whether the nation's two-year draft term, which matches that of the United States, could be trimmed. Emanuel Shinwell, defense minister in the last Labor government, has long urged that the draft be cut to 12 months.

FIRE-DAMAGED UNITED HALLS BUILDING TO BE RAZED SOON

United Halls, 2354 Lafayette avenue, badly damaged by fire last October, will be razed soon, the present owner, Joseph F. Vollmer, 845 Pine Tree lane, Webster Groves, said today. The building, containing 23 offices, six meeting halls and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 3000, was erected in December 1893, by the old Union Club, an organization of prominent business men of the day.

In the tornado of May 27, 1896, the structure was badly wrecked, but promptly rebuilt. The building was said to have been used by the Liederkreis Club in the early 1900s, and in 1914 the Fraternal Order of Eagles acquired it. Twenty years later it was sold for $30,000 at foreclosure. The AFL Waitresses' Union bought it in 1938 and changed the name to Jeffia Hall. It was sold again in 1946 for an indicated price of $44,500. Vollmer has owned the building for about three years.

Eisenhower Press Conference Partial Transcript: 'Growing Sentiment' for Big 4 Meeting

'No Expectation on My Part That in a Few Hours... or Weeks This World Is Going to Be Turned Around,' President Says—Envisions Brief Conference.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP). Following is a stenographic transcript of those portions of President Eisenhower's news conference yesterday dealing with the proposed Big Four conference and the anti-polio vaccine as released by the White House for direct quotation:

MERRIMAN SMITH, UNITED PRESS—"Mr. President, could you tell us, Sir, your preferences for time and place for a Big Four meeting? I ask this question against the background of rumors... or reports from Europe that this country favors a meeting in July in Switzerland."

The President—"Well, actually I have no preference except to the extent that I should like to see the meeting held, if held at all, in one of the so-called neutral countries."

"You must understand this whole idea is still in the exploratory stage. We have issued an invitation because of reasons that finally seemed to us to be cogent and would probably result in at least some clarification of the air."

"But our foreign ministers will now meet in Vienna in connection with the Austrian treaty presumably, and they will decide whether the invitation is acceptable in its terms, its ideas, and then they will discuss such things as place and timing."

"I would, as I have said often, I will go anywhere anytime if any good is to be done, and this earlier meeting ought to determine whether it seems useful."

William H. Lawrence, New York Times—"Mr. President, could you tell us, Sir, some of the reasons why you did change your mind about the feasibility and desirability of a summit conference now and in advance, so to speak, of a projected foreign ministers' meeting?"

'Ignoring Statement'
The President—"Well, of course, this business of foreign affairs, things change from day to day."

"The mere fact that we were to open up, or it appeared that the Austrian treaty was to be signed, did not in itself seem to me, as I think I told you in April some time, a reason for a meeting at the summit. But I said of course that situation can change rapidly."

"Now, there has been a growing sentiment discernible throughout the world that from a meeting like this something might come, and there has been clear evidence presented through the press, through correspondence, next to our contacts through diplomatic sources that there is a vague feeling some good might come out of such a conference."

"Well, now when then to hold such a conference?"
"Just to put a stamp of approval on something that may have been done by foreign ministers or to try to stimulate thought, and possibly even to define the areas in which you would expect your foreign ministers to work so that something might be accomplished."

"Finally, I felt this. This business of trying to reach a clarification of issues, if such a thing is possible, is so important that you can't stand on any other principle except do your utmost as you preserve your own strength of position, as long as you are not sacrificing, as long as you are not expecting too much; don't be just stubborn in your refusal to expect anything, but to go ahead and see what you can find about it."

A Personal Opportunity.
"Now, it does also do this: It gives a personal opportunity to sense an atmosphere in that circle. However, I think those vague, rather generalized reasons are really lying behind this."

"There is no expectation on my part that in a few hours, a few days, or a few weeks this world is going to be turned around, by no means, and I am not going, if I do go, under any such thought."

"But I would hope that my own mind will be clarified a little bit. Maybe the platform from which we may later work will be a little clearer even to ourselves."

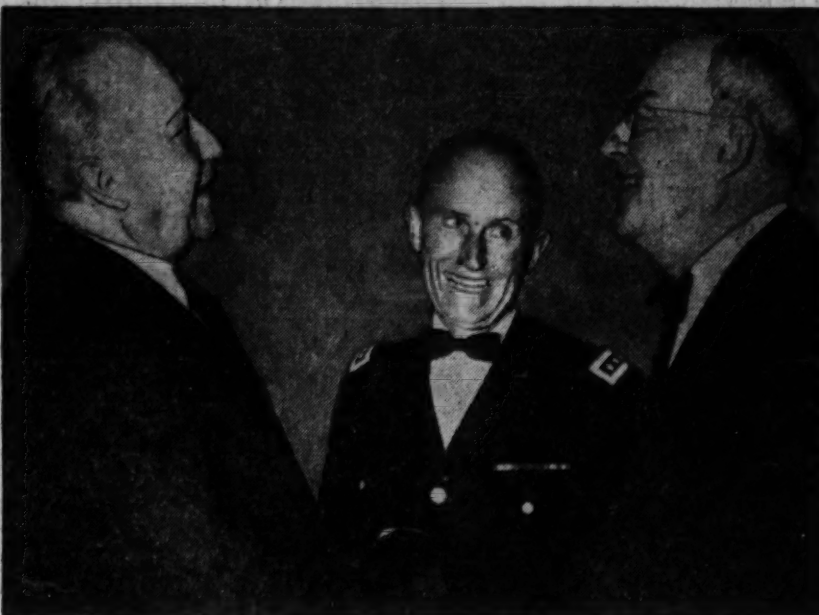

Charles E. Shutt, Telenews—"There has been much speculation, Sir, as to what might be discussed at this meeting. Would it be proper for you to tell us what you feel would be the most important topic that could be discussed?"

The President—"I would think the most important thing that could possibly be done at such a meeting would be to define the lines or directions in which we commonly would want our foreign ministers to work to see whether there is any opportunity to relieve the tensions in the world. And, beyond that, I don't even possibly say what the subject would be. Certainly there would be no agenda except in the most generalized form to talk about a general group of subjects. No agenda in the sense that foreign ministers would normally meet."

Chalmers M. Roberts, Washington Post and Times Herald—"Mr. President, to follow that question, do you have in mind the idea of working on specific matters, such as the German uniting problem, or are you thinking now that it may be possible to have a larger framework of discussion, such as some general East-West settlement in Europe?"

Could Only Define Areas.
The President—"I don't think that either of your assumptions are quite correct as I now visualize it. I think that I merely, I repeat, could define the areas

FLEESON China Lobby Loses Battle For All-Out Backing of Chiang

Bridges and McCarthy Not Deceived by Pretensions That Administration's Course Is Unchanged.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON. IT HAS BEEN apparent here for some time that President Eisenhower is moving toward some form of disengagement in the Far East and that advocates of a hard policy in Asia and all-out support of Chiang Kai-shek have lost.

Chiang's friends including Senators Bridges and McCarthy are now speaking up in the Senate to show that they realize what is happening. They are saying more or less directly that they, at least, are not deceived by any pretensions that the Administration has not materially altered its course since the President "unleashed" Chiang in his first State of the Union message.

It is perhaps too much to declare that these speeches are funeral orations over a policy to which a powerful Republican faction has long been dedicated and which it has pressed to the hilt against Democratic Administrations. But barring an unexpected turn of events, that is what they will prove to be.

Congress Backs President.
For the President is going to get his way. Congress is behind him, thinking that the American people are. Few Senators bothered to listen to the speeches now so bitter against Mr. Eisenhower, been able to persuade an influential Senator to make such a speech, obviously they would have done so.

Bridges Is Cautious.
Senator Bridges proceeded much more cautiously, wrapped up many go-slow warnings to the President in the Yalta text which he quoted copiously. Bridges, the Senior Republican of the Senate, knows that the party has to have Eisenhower to win next year. He has also seen a New Hampshire poll taken by Representative Perkins Bass which shows their home state is solidly for the President's policy.

The objective observer must admit some truth in the McCarthy charge that the Administration is pursuing an equivocal course with respect to the Chinese Nationalists. Chiang's hopes, of course, have risen and fallen with the changes in United States policy.

It would be possible to feel much more apologetic about this were it not that his friends have subjected this capital for years to ceaseless and unwearied lobbying which attempted to exploit every domestic political quarrel. All foreign countries, of course, seek friends here. Few others, if any, have had the nerve to try openly to turn domestic politics to their advantage.

The China lobby put all its chips on one G.O.P. faction and it has lost.

PEARSON Democratic Governors Gun For President

Decision Made in Presence of Eisenhower Backer, Shivers of Texas.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1955.)

WASHINGTON. THEY KEPT it to themselves, but Democratic Governors made an important political decision at their secret session last week. They agreed to pin the blame on President Eisenhower personally for the mistakes of his Administration. This should mean an end to Mr. Eisenhower's political immunity, though Democrats on Capitol Hill are still nervous about criticizing him.

Democratic Governors will start taking pot shots at the man in the White House. They agreed not to let him hide any longer behind his subordinates when unpopular decisions are made. The agreement was reached while an Eisenhower supporter, Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, sat in the room.

No punches were pulled because of Shivers. He opened his mouth only once, to suggest where he thought the Eisenhower Administration was most vulnerable.

"The farm issue," he remarked, "is unquestionably the weakest link in the Eisenhower Administration."

Commenting about Shivers' presence, one Governor remarked afterward: "Some of us thought we had a spy in our midst, but we let our hair down in front of him anyhow."

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler reviewed with the Governors Democratic gains since the 1952 election. Judging from the voting trends, he promised the Democrats can capture the 1956 election by winning only one of four key states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois or California.

The Governors grumbled against Ohio's Gov. Frank Lausche for high-hatting their private Democratic meeting. Lausche had boycotted the session with the crack that he wouldn't participate in destroying their host of the previous night, meaning President Eisenhower.

"If Lausche aspires to the Democratic presidential nomination, he sure cooked his goose," snorted one Governor.

On the other hand, Tennessee's Young Gov. Frank Clement emerged from the meeting with his political stock boosted. He impressed the other Governors.

Most of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of finances. Butler promised to supply the Governors with campaign ammunition in the form of fact sheets, the Democratic Digest, and other research.

Two Big Holes in Russia's Latest Disarmament Proposal

U.S. Would Have to Give Up Defense Ring—Plan to Outlaw Atomic Weapons Vague on Enforcement.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP).

YOU CAN DRIVE a truck through the holes—two big ones—in the latest Russian disarmament proposal.

1. This country has established a ring of military bases around Russia with the permission of friendly countries. From those bases American planes could make instant retaliation on the Russians if they began an attack.

As part of its disarmament plan, Russia wants the United States to give up those bases. This is something Congress would never let the President agree to unless the President could be sure Russia was not able to begin a world war.

And how could Congress be sure? It would need a lot of convincing.

2. This country has insisted that for real disarmament—and real disarmament means destroying all atomic weapons all over the world—there could be no atomic war—there would have to be inspection teams in peace time to be sure no atomic weapons were being concealed or made.

Of all the problems of disarmament, this is the key one, particularly since the United States has more atomic weapons than the Russians, who outnumber this country in men.

But in their disarmament proposals the Russians, while suggesting that atomic weapons be outlawed, are vague to the point of incoherence when explaining how these international inspection teams could check thoroughly enough to be sure there was not, and could not be, any cheating.

For those two reasons the Russian proposals will probably get no place, although this country will give them attention. This country has to give them attention.

The Russians made good propaganda for themselves with their disarmament offer. The offer no doubt looks pretty good to American allies who live closer to Russia, and a possible atomic war, than this country.

The United States can't afford to appear to turn a cold shoulder on the Russian suggestions without considering them in detail.

Why At This Time?
But the very proposals raise a question: Why did the Russians make them at this particular time? American officials here don't pretend to know. All they can do is what anyone else can do: guess.

The big western powers—the United States, Britain, France—got some world good will this week by proposing that Russia sit down with them in peace talks. The Russians haven't yet accepted, but seem likely to.

In the meantime, they came out with their disarmament offer, perhaps in an effort to offset the good reaction the Allies got from their peace-talk offer.

It is always possible the Russians have good intentions. But they'll have to do some proving on that point. The inclination in this country is to look for a gimmick.

On the other hand, Tennessee's Young Gov. Frank Clement emerged from the meeting with his political stock boosted. He impressed the other Governors.

Most of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of finances. Butler promised to supply the Governors with campaign ammunition in the form of fact sheets, the Democratic Digest, and other research.

Brandt—"Would you go back to your old plan after the foreign ministers had come to some agreement, the Big Four would then meet again to formalize it?"
The President—"I wouldn't know. Certainly in that case we would have to develop a sufficient confidence in what has been done, and it would have to be of sufficient significance to us and to the world that it would be worth while to make a formal signing to be, let us say, historical."

Brandt—"Would that be a matter of weeks or months?"
The President—"It could be, I wouldn't guess. And of course after the foreign ministers meet, then you can establish if any progress was made at all. What you would probably establish would be numbers of meetings of experts in particular fields, but I really can't—there is no use really of speculating as to what the outcome of a chain of events can be. This is certainly experimental."

Brandt—"How long would the foreign ministers meet, can you guess on that?"
The President—"Oh, I wouldn't guess."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Natural Gas and Mr. Childs

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In his column which you published April 17, Marquis Childs relies on two completely fallacious arguments in his discussion of natural gas.

His first mistake came when he parroted Senator Douglas's theory that production of natural gas, being in his eyes a "monopoly of a relatively few companies," should be subject to a sort of peace-time OPA. The facts provide eloquent contradiction.

In his testimony on the Harris bill (H.R. 4560), Dr. John W. Boatwright, a recognized economist in this field, said that the degree of concentration in the natural gas production industry is far less than in most manufacturing industries.

Natural gas ranks far below these industries which have an even greater effect on the consumer's pocketbook—cigarettes, motor vehicles and parts, steel works and rolling mills, wholesale meat packing and woolen and worsted fabrics.

Do Mr. Childs and Senator Douglas advocate that federal price controls should be applied to cigarettes since the concentration ratio for the first four companies in that industry is 90.4 per cent?

Next, Mr. Childs repeats Senator Douglas's charge that the producer receives 22 per cent of the bill paid by the consumer, rather than 10 per cent as the industry contends.

Dr. Boatwright in his testimony made it clear that the 22 per cent figure relates to all natural gas sales—residential, commercial and industrial; 10 per cent relates only to sales to residential users.

"From the point of view of the 18,000,000 residential customers," Dr. Boatwright points out, "the only comparison that is valid is field price vs. residential customers' prices." The reason for that being that residential gas is the "demand market" while industrial and commercial sales are on an interruptible basis at lower rates because of off-season use of facilities. This, of course, raises the producer's share percentage.

Throughout his discussion, Mr. Childs leans on the same mistake premise that runs through every cursory discussion of this situation—that is, that federal controls must be kept on the production of natural gas because said controls have protected the consumer.

Actually, there is not now and never has been any real federal regulation of the price charged by the producer. The Natural Gas Act specifically denied it for 17 years until the Phillips case decision last June 7. So, it is not truly a question of keeping controls, but rather one of imposing them. For 17 years the producing end of the industry—as distinguished from the transmission and distributing parts which are regulated, and properly so—has had no federal price control. The extent to which the producer used the free competitive system to the benefit of the consumer is shown by one simple but unanswerable fact.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics cost of living index rose from 99.4 in 1939 to 191.3 in 1953. During that same period, again according to the BLS, the index on natural gas for cooking decreased from 101.9 to 85.9, while the index for cooking plus water heating went down from 100.9 to 91.7.

Conclusions on Peace

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Peace in the world, according to a Post-Dispatch editorial, is based on the foreign policy attitude of Senator Knowland. This conclusion in turn is based on the conclusions expressed in an article written by your Chief Washington Correspondent, Raymond P. Brandt, published May 1.

When did the Communists show by any act or deed that they are ready to drop their off-repeated ambitions of world domination? A great public service would be rendered if the Post-Dispatch would produce authentic Red confirmation of a change in the declared foreign policy of the Communists. Some such confirmation is needed to support the conclusions reached by your writers. To most of us, the peace in the world seems to rest on how the Reds act, not on how any one, or all Americans think.

GEORGE W. CURRAN.

Bark, Bark, Bark

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

St. Louis is sure going to the dogs. All one can hear night and day is a pack of dogs barking.

The owners do not try to control them. They just let them out to bark all day. This shows no consideration for other people at all. What can be done? DISGUSTED.

Why So Rough?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This is about the deplorable condition of the Missouri Pacific tracks at Delor street just west of Grand. Signs are posted about a block away on each side of the track reading, "Rough Crossing 10 Miles Per Hour." I am very much interested in learning why it must be rough.

I use Delor four times a day to transport my eldest to kindergarten and if I cross those tracks at 10 m.p.h. I have to hold the youngest in the car seat, warn the other two in the back to hold their hats. And also place my right knee against the keys so they don't fall out.

AUDREY C. SCHMIDT.

In Case They Mean It

President Eisenhower at his news conference Wednesday stated simply and well the reasons for holding a Big Four conference "at the summit." He said it may clear up the international atmosphere and test the sincerity of Soviet peace overtures.

Clarification of the issues is so important, he said, that one can only do one's utmost and not be stubborn about holding a previous position. That is why he has changed his mind and agreed to a top-level meeting which he had previously opposed.

"Do one's utmost and not be stubborn about holding a previous position." That would make a splendid byword for the conference itself, and for the whole chain of negotiations which it conceivably could set off.

As the invitation sent by the Western powers remarks, the chiefs of state would not undertake in a short conference to agree on "substantive answers" to the major difficulties facing the world. But they are expected, by the very fact of consulting together, to "provide a new impetus" for detailed negotiations to be subsequently carried on by the foreign ministers, the United Nations, or any other "methods, organs and participants."

In order to provide that impetus, the chiefs of state would all be well advised to approach the meeting in the spirit expressed by the President: "Do one's utmost and not be stubborn."

It would be wise, also, for the West to adopt as a working hypothesis—subject to change, of course—the theory that the Soviets this time do mean business and are ready to negotiate basic settlements. The skeptics who say the Russians are only engaging in propaganda trickery may indeed prove to be right, but it would be a serious mistake to prepare for the Big Four conference on the unproved assumption that they are right.

Having agreed to a conference, the West should now work hard to prepare for it—which means making up our minds as to what settlements of basic issues we are prepared to accept, what concessions we are willing to make in return for comparable concessions from Moscow, what new formulas for cutting through old deadlocks we can put forth.

In their latest disarmament proposals, hailed by Britain's Minister of State as a significant advance, the Russians have adopted several ideas advanced by the West which they had previously rejected. They even propose armed forces ceilings that appear, on the surface at least, to impose a greater proportionate cut on the Communist world than on the West.

Thus, as in the case of the Austrian treaty, they seem to be inching toward an accommodation of views. They may reverse themselves later, but so long as they are moving in the present direction the West should not leave the initiative entirely in their hands. We should be ready to take advantage of any opportunity to write a real peace.

Free Meals and School Secrecy

In her new role as president of the St. Louis School Board, Mrs. Irma H. Friede has directed resumption of the board's noxious practice of holding private dinner sessions immediately in advance of the regular public meetings. Her action had the prior approval of a majority of her Old Guard colleagues, who were much put out when former Board President H. M. Stolar, now retired, ended the private meetings last winter.

This practice is neither prudent nor in the public interest. A good deal more is involved than food and drinks for Mrs. Friede and others. Sooner or later at these gatherings the members begin to discuss, and then transact, public business. The final stage is for the public meeting to degenerate into a stage upon which individual members play the parts they rehearsed at the private dinner.

Mrs. Friede was quick to point out that "nothing that concerns the general public" was discussed at the first meeting. That may be. But how about the next time?

The public meeting is the only proper place for debate and decision. The public's school business should not be transacted in the secrecy of a private hotel dining room.

Loose Talk in the Missouri House

Serious charges have been made against the filled-milk industry by two members of the Missouri House. Representative Estep of Christian county says the substitution of soybean or cottonseed oil for butterfat makes filled milk dangerous for human consumption because the oil is produced from "dusty beans." Representative Meeks of Oregon county says the filled-milk companies use Grade C milk that is unfit for human consumption by reason of containing impurities.

These charges are as silly as they are slanderous. But since they are slanderous, we should think the filled-milk industry would challenge Representatives Estep and Meeks to bring out their proof or admit publicly that they have maligned the industry with irresponsible and unsupported charges.

Checked to the Voters

Missouri voters will have plenty of time to think over the school "foundation" program which the Legislature has now voted to submit to referendum in October.

The program has many good points. It endeavors to establish a regularized basis for state aid to local school districts, to apportion funds by the pupil instead of by classroom or teacher, and to provide incentives for better teacher training. All of these purposes are laudable.

But there are grave defects in the plan as well. One is that while it requires local districts to levy at least $1 in property taxes in order to qualify for state aid, no requirement is imposed for minimum assessed valuations. This means that local taxpayers may evade their fair share of school support in districts where assessments are markedly lower than in others. To be effective, a minimum tax levy ought to be accompanied by a minimum assessment requirement.

Equally serious is the failure of the plan to grant the most state aid to poorer districts which are least able to take care of their own children.

Advocates of the plan constantly cite the fact that some Missouri districts spend much less than average on education, but the fact is that the plan proposes to devote only one fifth of state aid to remedying these deficiencies. The great bulk of state funds would go into grants that would be available to all districts, rich and poor alike.

Thus the city of St. Louis and St. Louis county, which are relatively rich in tax resources by comparison with some other Missouri counties, would get $3,500,000 a year additional state aid under the "foundation" program.

Naturally, the school districts in the metropolitan area are not going to turn down that kind of manna.

But many Missourians will recognize at once that it would be a mistake to provide a big new handout for a suburban school district that is relatively well off because of the economic status of its taxpayers when some Ozark counties, for example, hard hit by successive years of drought, need state aid much more.

These and other questions about the school plan—especially the great unresolved one of how to finance any increase in state aid—will require thoughtful and sober consideration by Missouri voters between now and October.

Surprise Party at the Stymie Club

Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley is still giving surprise parties.

County residents have not yet forgotten the 1953 fiesta at El Avion, where one of the Sheriff's deputies shot another prompting an investigation of the Sheriff's office.

Now the latest party at the Stymie Club may be marked down as a University City social event. There was the Sheriff, waiting for a sandwich in a clubroom, when in burst his own gambling squad, looking for something besides sandwiches. What a surprise. The squad had not expected to see the Sheriff, and the Sheriff had not expected to see his squad, but he rose to his role as host.

"I see you fellows are here for the same purpose I am," said the Sheriff to his men. He indicated that, sandwiches aside, they were both looking for gambling. And looking together, they found none. Another surprise.

Later, however, the Sheriff explained that he would have advised against the raid—had he known about it—because "I'm convinced there is no gambling here." There is another surprise for you. Why was the Sheriff personally investigating gambling where he was convinced there was no gambling?

Discrepancies in reports on club-life at the Stymie Club will receive the attention of the county grand jury soon. This announcement by John S. Stevens, first assistant prosecuting attorney, may be enough to spoil the party. But these affairs have to end some time. On July 1, the new non-political county police department is scheduled to take over Sheriff Mosley's police powers.

If wonders in county law enforcement never cease, the Sheriff's role in it should.

Postal Workers Deserve an Increase

Senator Carlson of Kansas, one of the strong Eisenhower supporters in the upper branch of Congress, predicts that the prospective veto of the postal workers' pay increase bill will be sustained.

This amounts to a forecast that President Eisenhower will veto the bill although as yet he has said no more than that he will "study" it. Presumably a veto would be based on the fact that the bill provides an 8.8 per cent increase whereas the White House agreed to an increase of but 7.6 per cent. The original Administration proposal was for only 6.5 per cent.

Until the President makes his present position known, it will be impossible to look very far ahead in this matter. The postal workers deserve an increase in pay—a fair and generous one and there can be no question about that. Many members of Congress believe that the increase should average 10 per cent.

But the main concern now should be not to lose an increase in a wrangle between the White House and Congress. The vote in the Senate for the 8.8 per cent increase was 76 to 11 and that in the House was 328 to 66. If there are not too many defections these would suggest the possibility that a veto might well be overridden. The President will make no mistake if he thinks twice before he follows Postmaster General Summerfield's recommendation for a veto.

A Contract Dishonored

In declaring that rural electric co-operatives served by the Southwestern Power Administration have been "thrown to the wolves," Chairman Clarence Cannon, of the House Appropriations Committee, spoke with moderation.

The treatment which the Interior Department has accorded these co-ops cynically violates the sanctity of contract and flagrantly defies the law and the federal courts. Unless these conditions are corrected, and promptly, the five Missouri generating and transmission co-operatives associated with the plan face bankruptcy, according to SPA Administrator Douglas G. Wright.

The contracts between SPA and the five generating and transmission co-operatives were executed before the Eisenhower Administration came into office. They called for the co-ops to build steam generating plants and transmission lines and sell the output to SPA, which would resell the power to the co-ops it serves. In order to make the payments for this power, SPA was dependent upon appropriations from Congress.

Subsequently a Senate-House conference committee forbade the Interior Department to use any part of an appropriation to carry out the SPA contracts. In United States District Court for the District of Columbia Judge Edward M. Curran ruled that the committee had no authority to prevent use of the funds to carry out the contracts. Of the official conduct of Interior Secretary McKay, Judge Curran spoke in the strongest terms. He said it was "illegal, in violation of the law" and "beyond the scope" of his authority.

A story of broken faith is never a pretty one, and as yet no more attractive ending is in sight. But while the damage that has been done cannot be undone, further damage can be averted. It can be averted by recognition at Washington that a change in political ideology at the national capital does not abrogate binding legal contracts. Hundreds of citizens in Missouri and the Southwest depend on the faithful execution of these contracts for the protection of the substantial investments they have made.

Contemporary Is the Word

Most readers will no doubt have viewed the recent news photograph of the Harry S. Truman Memorial Library, for which ground was broken Sunday in Independence. The $1,750,000 library is a semi-circle of slab-roofed stone structures with glazed sides.

The architectural style is not Williamsburg colonial or anything even less out of place in western Missouri. Neither is it radically modern, as that word is employed by some critics. The style is what the architects call "contemporary," which means not quite as contemporary as the present living moment, but contemporary at least with the history of recent times.

Whatever the esthetic merits of the library, the style is sufficient to house the papers of a living ex-President, particularly this one. Harry S. Truman cannot be placed in the dim past, much less in a dreamed-of future, but he is as contemporary as they come.

"I KIND OF DREAD THIS ROUTE"

—From The Washington Post.

A Vaccine Lesson of 140 Years Ago

The Mirror
Public Opinion

Distribution of the then-new smallpox vaccine was slowed and snarled for lack of national leadership; President Eisenhower seems to regard federal control as undesirable; but House in 1824 concluded the objective "cannot be less than national."

Irving Brant, Former St. Louis Editor, and Biographer of James Monroe, in The Washington Post

The question of public versus private control of the distribution of the Salk polio vaccine is not as novel as President Eisenhower and his advisers seem to think it is.

Instead of proposing an extension of the Roosevelt-Truman "welfare state," the 11 Senators who called recently for public control are but renewing an issue upon which Congress and President Madison acted nearly a century and a half ago when the smallpox vaccine developed by Dr. Edward Jenner was being introduced into the United States.

A tragic incident occurred in the distribution of smallpox vaccine in the early years of its development. Smallpox scabs had been placed by a doctor in an envelope pending study of the live virus. An assistant mistook the matter for vaccine and mailed it to North Carolina, where it spread disease and death.

Vaccine Act of 1813

The Chief Executive on Feb. 27, 1813, signed "An Act to Encourage Vaccination," the opening provision of which read:

"Be it enacted that the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized to appoint an agent to preserve the genuine vaccine matter, and to furnish the same to any citizen of the United States, whenever it may be applied for, through the means of the Post Office."

The purpose of this federal legislation was not only to broaden the distribution of vaccine, but to make it safe by eliminating the dangerous or useless strains which had been developed by various doctors and by lay experimenters.

The vaccine was not to be free, but the Government furnished a subsidy by carrying it free through the mails.

The agent was unpaid, but his official status and duties established a measure of federal control and nationwide distribution of a standardized product.

This legislation originated in a petition two years earlier of Dr. James Smith of Baltimore to Congress. The petition stated that Smith had "succeeded in procuring Vaccine Matter," and asked permission to disseminate it in the district for such compensation as Congress might think proper.

Expanding a 'Welfare State'

When Congress adjourned without action, Smith and 15 other public-spirited citizens organized a Vaccine Institution. Following passage of the Vaccination Act, Dr. Smith was appointed to the vital post he created.

At his instigation, a congressional committee in 1816 reported a bill which, as summarized in the Annals of Congress, proposed "to compel the agent for vaccination to furnish, free of expense, to applicants by mail, true and genuine vaccine material, with instructions for using the same."

In the next session of Congress, Cady of New York opposed free vaccine distribution as "an interference by the United States in the duty of the States. It ought to be left to the state legislatures."

At the time of New Hampshire, looking a hundred years into the future, warned of what would happen if Congress set up a salaried agency to foster vaccination.

It might, he said, do the same to protect the good people of the United States who "suffer great impositions from the use of spurious and unwholesome balsams, from patent medicines, etc."

With smallpox epidemics sweeping the country, the House in 1817 passed a bill extending the postal franking privilege to state and territorial vaccine agents.

The Senate found it "unnecessary, a bad precedent and subject in itself to abuse."

Epidemics Bring Support

Three years later, Dr. Smith—still the United States Agent of Vaccination—proposed federal incorporation of a National Vaccination Institution to be supported by gifts.

The bill passed the House, but did not come to a vote in the Senate.

During the recess of Congress came the delivery of the live virus to North Carolina.

Dr. Smith wrote a letter to Congress explaining the mistake. The legislators, not heeding his argument that quick use of genuine vaccine would halt the North Carolina epidemic, at once put the federal vaccination agent out of office by repealing the law which created the post.

Undismayed, Dr. Smith continued to distribute vaccine nationally, and proposed to Congress that it establish a general agent for the United States with a subagent in each congressional district.

New epidemics brought support to the proposal when faulty instructions for use of the vaccine produced a new outbreak in North Carolina. It appeared to both the federal agent and the receiving physician that the package containing the vaccine had been tampered with in the mails.

What 1824 Report Suggests

A committee of Congress agreed, and asked leave to report a bill along the lines proposed. The House gave permission, but the tragic development in North Carolina had doomed an attempt to failure.

The 1813 "Act to Encourage Vaccination" remained in effect for seven years. The effort to revive and strengthen federal control lasted for another four.

The final word on it in the Annals of Congress may be found pertinent by President Eisenhower and the 11 Senators, all of whom appear to regard such control as something new in American history—the President as something new and undesirable, the Senators as something new and desirable.

In its 1824 report to the House, a committee headed by Congressman Gaylord of Ohio begged leave "to suggest the propriety and public necessity of paying some attention to the general sentiment, which prevails throughout the civilized world, in favor of the preventive power of vaccine."

To gain security from so dread a disease, it said, "cannot be less than a national object."

NO MONEY IN IT.

From The Pleasant Hill (Mo.) Times.

There are many splendid suggestions for highway safety. The motorcar companies believe in higher-powered cars, so you can speed your way out of tight spots. The road-building equipment manufacturers see more and better highways as the solution. Bond dealers are inclined to like the high-speed, self-liquidating turnpike. Probably somebody favors slower, more careful driving, but you can't hardly make no money that way.

Between Book Ends

Realistic Attitude on Palsy

TWO LEGS TO STAND ON, by John D. McKee.

(Appleton-Century-Croft, 186 pp., $7.50.)

"(My life) could have been a living death," in this way John McKee sums up the situation which forms the basis for his new book. Far from the dark misery it might easily have been, here is a life with a vitality and a usefulness that speak for themselves.

The cerebral palsy which grossly affected the author's legs, his right arm and his balance, did not in any way impair his thinking ability, or use of his left hand. With these, and a remarkable pair of parents to back him, Mr. McKee has fought a continuing battle to bring himself to something approaching normal usefulness.

He has "had a way with words" most of his life, and this, combined with an intense interest in sports, led him to several Midwestern weeklies and finally to the Albuquerque Tribune and the Raton (New Mexico) Daily Range as a sports writer, book reviewer, and columnist.

Newspaper discipline has given him a succinct style which is in some ways very helpful and in others not so much so. The reader may feel at times that John McKee's answers are, on the surface at least, just a little too pat. The reader may even get a "look what I've done" impression of the man. Yet if one has the right to tell the world what he has done, it is John McKee.

Nor is the way in which he has approached the matter the usual blue sky and pink flowers type of fluff. A weeper reader is not necessarily a deeply understanding one, nor is a handicapped person a better adjusted human for denying difficulties which really do exist. Mr. McKee has a remarkable sense of exactly where he stands, but then as he puts it, "I can't forget that. (I have) a special problem. Every time (I go) and get a little too cocky for my own good, something like a smashed fender or a fall brings me back to my senses. However, while I must recognize my handicap, I need not succumb to it."

Such a realistic attitude, taken by a larger number of handicapped people, would help a great deal in breaking down the wall of misunderstanding between the so-called "normal" and "abnormal" of this world.

PHOEBE C. ANDERSON.

Gruesome Epic Well Retold

WHEELS WEST, by Homer Croy. (Hastings House, N.Y., 242 pp., $3.75.)

Anybody would think that the story of the Donner party is about the last place that a natural born poet would look for something to write a book about, for there was nothing funny about it.

The Donner party of 87 people, men, women and children, left Illinois early in 1846 for the promised land of California. As, in high spirits, they took off from Independence, Mo., they figured it would take them about four months to reach San Francisco Bay. It was late in the fall when they reached Fort Laramie. Because of the lateness of the season they took a 500-mile cut-off where there was no trail.

That was their fatal mistake. At the 7000-foot pass of the Sierra mountains which now bears their name they were stopped by furious snowstorms. They were reduced to chewing boiled ox hides and finally to cannibalism. Only 47 of them survived the incredible hardships.

Homer Croy heard the story from his parents, who were pioneers too, and from others; and read the accounts that had been written about it, and made up his mind that a better history of the tragic trek should be written and that he was the man to write it. He went through old diaries, newspaper files and documents and interviewed descendants of survivors and traveled the Donner trail.

As a serious chronicler Croy has simplified the story and clarified it also, omitting none of its gruesomeness but tempering it with his own lightness of spirit and making of it an epic of human courage and the will to live.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Just Depends on Who Benefits

WASHINGTON. When the late President Roosevelt was campaigning in periodic elections in defense of his Administration he had a technique about the WPA, the Works Progress Administration.

That, in case you have forgotten, was a federal agency using federal funds to build projects of various sorts and thereby give work to the unemployed of the great depression which was under way when he assumed office in 1933.

In his steps here and there, the President would refer to local WPA projects. Sometimes it might be the stadium in which he was speaking, and once, at Pueblo, Colo., we found out what the local WPA benefit was without the President mentioning it, from a home-made sign carried by a tiny boy in the great throng that surrounded the back platform of the special train. It read:

"Thanks for the sewage plant, Roosevelt."

Invariably the President would ask the crowd before him how they liked the particular WPA project, and invariably he would get a great roar of approval. Whereupon he would smile and say that was always true of the WPA enterprise in your own community. It was always the one in the next city that was a "hoondoggle" and "a waste of taxpayers' money" as the Administration's opponents would term them.

Ships on Delaware.

Which brings us to a very worthwhile project—no longer WPA, of course—affecting a large industrial community in the East. That is the proposal to deepen the Delaware river above Philadelphia to Trenton, N.J., so that sea-going boats of deep draft can use it.

It is envisioned as bringing vastly increased business, which in turn means increased income and more jobs to that section. But it has run right smack up against the Eisenhower Administration's new "partnership" policy, so-called, for development of our rivers. The Administration is insisting upon a cash contribution of $18,000,000 of the $91,000,000 cost from local interests that will benefit.

That means in this case the United States Steel Corp., whose giant New Fairless works is along the Delaware just below Trenton, through, of course, other plants that will locate there eventually would benefit, too, as United States Steel points out in opposing this levy on it.

White House Holds Firm.

The channel-deepening project was recommended as a federal project by the Corps of Engineers and approved by Congress, which refused to impose the levy of $18,000,000 on United States Steel and authorized entire financing out of the Federal Treasury.

But the Administration is standing its ground and is refusing to approve the project.

FUNERAL HELD IN SEATTLE FOR DR. PHILIP VON PHUL

Funeral services for Dr. Philip von Phul, a physician and member of an old St. Louis family, were held Tuesday in Seattle, Wash., where he lived since about 1905. Burial also was in Seattle.

Dr. Von Phul, 82 years old, died Saturday of a heart ailment. He had practiced medicine until his retirement about five years ago. His grandfather, Henry von Phul, was a pioneer merchant and trustee of the early village of St. Louis. His father, Philip von Phul, died in 1943.

Dr. Von Phul was graduated in 1896 from the old Missouri Medical College, which later became part of the Washington University School of Medicine. Surviving is a son, Philip von Phul, three daughters, Mrs. Celeste West, Mrs. Dan Connelly and Mrs. Newton Drew, of New York, three sisters, Mrs. Charles E. Michel, Mrs. Louis T. Hall and Miss Grace R. von Phul, all of St. Louis, and two nephews, George H. Hall, a Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and Philip von Phul Hall.

FRANCIS T. MEARA DIES, OPERATED HEATING FIRM

Mr. Meara operated the heating company for many years before retiring about 12 years ago. Surviving are six sons, Francis P., John J., Edward T., Vincent J., Arthur T. and the Rev. James F. Meara S. J. and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Cuniff and Miss Marie Meara.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at Little Flower Catholic Church, 1275 Roland place, Richmond Heights, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

PRIOR AT CATHOLIC BOYS' SCHOOL NAMED

Headmaster of New Preparatory Also Appointed by Abbot in England.

Appointment of the Rev. Columba Cary-Elwes, of the abbey of Ampleforth, York, England, as prior of the new priory and Catholic Country Day School for boys in St. Louis county was announced today by Fred M. Switzer, president of the corporation sponsoring the school.

Named headmaster was the Rev. Timothy Horner, also of the abbey of Ampleforth. The school, to be located on an 85-acre site near Mason and Conaway roads, is scheduled to open in September 1956.

The Rt. Rev. Herbert Byrne, Abbot of Ampleforth, will come here in June to inspect school grounds and assist in a campaign to collect $1,500,000 for the school.

Pledges totaling $250,000 have been received for the campaign so far, Switzer said. Purpose of the campaign is to establish an endowment fund, construct new buildings and begin operation on a modest but adequate basis, he said. Buildings already at the site will provide enough classrooms to open.

Father Cary-Elwes, a graduate of Oxford University, is widely known as a writer on philosophical and theological subjects. He has been a regularly scheduled speaker on religious topics for the British Broadcasting Co.

Father Horner, also a graduate of Oxford, is a former president of the Newman Society at the university. In World War II, prior to becoming a priest, he served with British artillery in a field regiment in India, Burma, Siam and Malaya. Both men will arrive here in the fall, Switzer said.

The abbey at Ampleforth is under the direction of the English Benedictine Congregation. Members of the abbey were invited to operate the school by Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter.

THOMAS F. BRADY DIES; DEPUTY SHERIFF SINCE 1933

Thomas F. Brady, a deputy sheriff here since 1933, died of cancer last night at St. John's Hospital. He was 73 years old and lived at 4324 North Second street.

Mr. Brady previously had been a foreman for Mississippi Glass Co. for many years. He was the husband of the late Mrs. Ann M. Brady, a Democratic committee woman for more than 32 years. She died last Friday.

Surviving Mr. Brady are two sisters, Mrs. William Riley and Mrs. Marie McClaren, and a brother, Phil Brady of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday at Holy Name Catholic Church, 2047 East Grand avenue, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Bankers and Business Men.

You can cite the Constitution and the Supreme Court in support of all of those, as the committee does for the Delaware.

You can also cite specific figures to show how development of our rivers has meant greatly increased tax revenues for local, state and federal treasuries from expanded business, just as the committee argues will come from the Delaware development, as indeed it will.

It is perhaps too much to ask that business men and bankers be consistent and apply the principle in the same way everywhere, and support developments that other folks need elsewhere as they support development in their own immediate community.

THE REV. JOSEPH E. BARTIN DIES; SERVED PARISHES HERE

The Rev. Joseph E. Martin, who had been assistant pastor of several Catholic churches in the St. Louis area, died of a lung ailment yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital. He was 45 years old and was pastor of St. Joachim's Catholic Church, Old Mines, Mo.

Father Martin was ordained June 10, 1934, and had been assigned to St. Mary and Joseph, Immaculate Conception, Corpus Christi, Notre Dame and St. Bridget churches in this area. A graduate of Kenrick Seminary, he later served as pastor in New Franklin and Fayette, Mo.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Catherine Martin, 5302 Tholoan avenue; five sisters, Misses Catherine, Mae and Bernadette Martin, Mrs. Helen Fitzgibbon and Mrs. Estelle Edwards. Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary Magdalen Church, 4317 South Kingshighway, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

JONES, chairman of fair, boarding plane at Lambert-St. Louis Field yesterday for flight to Cleveland where Shantz and Scherrer will compete in National Science Fair, starting today. With them is STEWART ARDESS BONNIE INNES.

A city-wide "star party" sponsored by the St. Louis Amateur Astronomical Society and the St. Louis Planetary Forming Group will be held tomorrow evening on the upper parking lot of the Municipal Opera in Forest Park.

Visitors will be permitted to observe the close conjunction of the many-mooned planet Jupiter and the planet Uranus, as well as other celestial objects, through about 30 to 40 telescopes manned by members of the astronomical society. Observation will begin at 8:30 o'clock and visitors are asked to dim their automobile lights on approaching the observation area.

Two films, "The Story of the Planetarium" and "The Big Issue," official film of the $110,639,000 civic improvement bond issue, will be shown several times in the evening. One of the propositions of the bond issue is for a planetarium. In case of overcast skies, the party will be held Saturday evening.

NEUBERGER'S LIFE TO BE SUBJECT OF HOLLYWOOD MOVIE

HOLLYWOOD, May 12—The new movie in preparation on the life of Senator Richard L. Neuberger (Dem., Oregon), and his wife, Maurine, will have plenty of power in it—power projects, that is.

The films will be produced by Walter Wanger, head of Allied Artists Productions. Wanger told the Post-Dispatch that screenwriter Richard Collins is now in Oregon obtaining material from Mr. Neuberger, a member of the State Legislature, and that he also will visit several large power projects in connection with the story.

Title of the film, Wanger disclosed, will be "The Man from Snake River." It will be based largely on the Neuberger's recent book, "Adventure in Politics." In Washington, as in the past, Senator Neuberger has been fighting for construction of a federal dam on the Snake river in Idaho, instead of three low privately-financed dams favored by the Federal Power Commission examiner.

Prior to that, he had been a justice of the peace for a number of years. He was Republican committee man from the Nineteenth Ward in the 1930s. He is survived by his wife.

HOMER CROY DERIDES ROBBERS OF TODAY

Missouri Author Calls Them 'Cowards Compared to Jesse James.'

"Robbers today are bungling amateurs and skulking cowards compared to Jesse James and his boys," Homer Croy, Missouri author, said in an interview here yesterday.

Croy is the author of 26 books, many on Missouri, and describes himself as an expert on "the great field of Missouri banditry."

Present day robbers are amateurs, Croy said, because they are not quick on the draw like the famous Missouri robbers.

"James was courageous, because he always faced armed opponents, and could not afford to be slow on the draw," Croy stated. "Now robbers always pick up unarmed opponents, and carry machine guns."

Jesse James never made as much money as the people alive today who claim they are the long dead Missouri thief, Croy claimed. "It only goes to show that lying pays better than stealing," he said.

Writing, Croy said, pays even less than robbery, and is more hazardous, because "one never knows if a story has money in it, but can always be sure a bank has money in it. If James were alive today, the author added caustically, he would be a writer's agent."

Croy was born in Maryville, Mo., and now lives in New York. Yesterday he addressed an assembly at Roosevelt high school, 3230 Hartford street.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER DISPLAY IS EXHIBITED AT LIBRARY

Maps, books and pictures of the Mississippi river are displayed at Central Public Library, 1301 Olive street, in an exhibit designed to focus public attention on the proposed mid-continent river road from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. It will continue to June 1.

Miss Truman will take the place of Ed Murrow, the regular conductor, who will be in England at that time. The interview will be conducted by remote control, with Miss Truman in New York and her parents speaking from their home in Independence, Mo.

PUBLIC ASKED TO GIVE $150,000 TO KETC

Door-to-door Canvass to Be Held June 8 Through June 10.

The public at large will be asked to contribute $150,000 of the $400,000 currently sought for an operating fund for KETC, the St. Louis educational television station, Philip J. Hickey, acting chairman of the St. Louis Educational Television Commission, announced today.

Hickey, who also is chairman of the "public sponsorship" phase of the campaign, said the public drive would be conducted June 8 through 10 in St. Louis, St. Louis county, St. Charles and Jefferson counties in Missouri and in St. Clair, Madison and Monroe counties in Illinois.

Enrollment of at least 25,000 volunteer solicitors to make a door-to-door canvass in this signal area of Channel 9 is the goal of Hickey and his co-chairmen, John L. Bracken, superintendent of Clayton schools, and the Rev. James E. Hoflich, superintendent of archdiocesan elementary schools.

The six-county area has been divided into 460 elementary school districts. Each parent and patron organization in these districts is being requested to solicit funds for the operation of the station, Hickey said.

"It is vital to the future welfare of our community that we maintain the valuable educational services performed by Channel 9," Hickey said. "During the eight months it has been on the air, it has compiled a record of outstanding success as an educational aid in the community, not alone in the classrooms but also among the adult circles in the home."

The special gift phase of the campaign, under the co-chairmanship of Daniel L. Schaffly, Robert Brookings Smith and Raymond Wittoff, began several weeks ago.

Use of Drugs in Fights

May Interest Uncle Sam

If tampering with fighters by the use of drugs continues, perhaps the nation's anti-narcotic enforcement group will take more than a reading interest, presently.

The Harold Johnson-Julio Mederos fight certainly played the spotlight on a situation that may be of national importance.

There's no doubt that stimulants and sedative drugs could serve the same illicit purposes with man as with thoroughbred race horses. . . . Who knows, perhaps some day fighters, both winners and losers, will have to undergo tests similar to those used to detect the use of drugs in horse racing.

There's a difference, however. . . . Boxing has no national control body able to carry out regulations with authority. . . . The National Boxing Association is just a loose collection of state commissions with little unity or force.

On the other hand the Thoroughbred Racing Association, working with the state racing commissions, has really done a wonderful job toward reducing the use of stimulants and other drugs in the racing field.

THE National Boxing Association must be given some teeth with which to bite, to enable its mandates to become effective. . . . Or, the state commissions will have to organize a nationally authoritative group, with full powers of punishment, or else. Your Uncle Sam will have to step in either to eliminate boxing—or, we hope—supervise it.

'Cockell to Win' Fans

Still Few and Cautious.

Don COCKELL, British challenger of Rocky Marciano, seems to be overcoming that wise-crack of "the condemned man," leveled at him when he was matched to fight World Champion Rocky Marciano. . . . Today, a few loyal supporters are rather cautiously saying nice things about his chances of becoming world heavyweight titlist next Monday night, at San Francisco. . . . It seems the broad-beamed Briton with the traditional "good straight left," may not have to be carried from the ring at Kezar Stadium.

For example, this one from Al Joyner, manager of Jimmy Slade who defeated the Briton: "Cockell has a good chance of outboxing Marciano and of winning the title. . . . He had my boy on the verge of being knocked out three times. . . . Cockell has a fine left jab and a right hand punch, too."

"Cockell may even beat Rocky up and win the fight on a TKO. . . . He's strong as a bull, hard as iron and has plenty of courage. Don't sell Cockell short," he warns.

Willie Ritchie, former world lightweight champion, said in his column: "Cockell has fought with Marciano half won if he has a good straight left. . . . I understand he has a good left hook and a good uppercut. I'm not picking a winner, but it should be a good fight."

Solomons' Forecast May Be a Promoter's Dream.

JACK SOLOMONS—Britain's Tex Rickard—who is in San Francisco for the bout says that he is favoring—while hoping—that Cockell will win. He comments: "I've seen Marciano fight and I am confident his style will exactly suit Cockell's right down to the ground. . . . After Cockell wins I'm going to put in a bid to hold the rematch in London, where it will draw more money than anywhere else," he told Prescott Sullivan, the Examiner's columnist.

Solomons intimated that as much as $100 a ringside seat could be obtained in London. . . . And that has happened only once or twice in our long lifetime.

Reads like advance blarney. . . . Well, maybe Cockell can make it good. He's young, broad, tough, fast and outweighs Rocky 20 pounds or so. . . . And Father Time is on his side.

Maybe we also would be, if we were British born. . . . But our money wouldn't be, even then.

Now if you want an opinion that carries the authority of actual and rather unpleasant experience here's the view of Harry Matthews, who lost three fights to Cockell, in one of which the bout was stopped: "It will be a bruising battle, but Rocky is a rough, tough customer. . . . I think he (Rocky) should win in about five rounds."

And the odds are at least 5 to 1 in favor of the champion to win, we note.

Westborough's Victors.

Westborough women had a "most fives" event in their weekly round yesterday—most fives scored on par 5 holes. The results were as follows:

FIRST FLIGHT: Most fives, tie at 7 between Mrs. W. Anderson and Mrs. Ray Schwartz. Fewest putts, Mrs. Gene Reed, 22.

SECOND FLIGHT: Most fives, tie at 6 between Mrs. Earl Peters and Mrs. Charles Benter. Fewest putts, Mrs. Lou Lockwood, 30.

Things Looking Up as Cards Win Seventh One-Run Decision

Extra-Base Hits Spark Late Rally

By Bob Broeg

For a young club that has made mistakes and will continue to make them during this spring shakedown cruise, the 1955 Cardinals have shown a pleasant talent in close ball games, an ability the Redbirds rarely have demonstrated since they fell from active pennant contention six years ago.

The 1949 team that muffed the championship the last week of the season was stocked with veterans, seasoned voyagers expected to be at their best in tense one-run and extra-inning games. Since their infamous near-miss, only the 1952 Cardinals—until now—showed similar skill under fire.

Three years ago in Eddie Stanky's first season as manager, the good ship Redbird was an over-age destroyer, but still seaworthy enough to ride out the roughest storms with an old salt like Al Brazle and a nervous young one like Eddie Yuhas calm and steady in emergencies. The 88 victories then, 33 by one run and eight in overtime, were the highest since the team's total of 96 in '49.

Big Boost to Morale.

Once again, this time getting a spot of all-right relief pitching here and there, and, above all, rallying spiritedly, the Redbirds apparently have regained the touch in the close ones that mean so much to morale as well as to the standings.

The Cardinals' 6-5 come-from-behind victory last night at Busch Stadium over the luckless Philadelphia Phillies, who've now lost 11 straight games, was the young team's seventh by one run in 10 tries. They've also played five extra-inning games and won four of 'em.

By way of encouragement after one month's milestone, here's the way the fledgling Redbirds compare so far with their predecessors of the recent past.

ONE-RUN EXTRA
YEAR	GAMES	INNINGS	W-L
1949	22-14	4-4	4-4
1950	23-29	7-3	7-3
1951	28-27	8-10	8-10
1952	33-19	8-3	8-3
1953	19-26	2-6	2-6
1954	19-30	11-13	11-13
1955	7-3	4-1	4-1

The potential difference between this season and a year ago when, as shown above, the Cardinals lost 30 games by one run, was demonstrated after the Redbirds rebounded in the last of the eighth last night to score three times and take the lead. Barney Schultz, pitching the ninth, was a brisk and efficient hurler, a 1952 Brazle or Yuhas as he turned back the Phillies in order to protect fellow bullpen rookie Herb Moford's first major league victory.

"When last year," asked Manager Stanky, smiling, "did you see us protect a ninth-inning lead so easily?"

The pleased pilot also had seen another young starting pitcher give another impressive performance on a raw, rainy night. Larry Jackson hurled three-hit ball for seven innings, during which he deserved to be a shutout pitcher, but a misjudged fly had given the Phillies two tainted runs. And in the eighth the smooth 23-year-old righthander with the deceptive easy-does-it delivery tired, he acknowledged, and Philadelphia took the lead with three runs.

In self-recrimination Jackson blamed lack of control—he walked four—but he also struck out six with a snaky curve and permitted five hits. Stanky and the Idaho kid's locker-neighbor,

KEN BOYER, Cardinals' third baseman, was credited with his fifth stolen base of the season when he slid safely into third in the second inning. He leads the National League and is one behind Minnie Minoso of the White Sox. WILLIE JONES, Phillies' third baseman, is shown receiving the throw from Bobby Morgan who relayed Catcher Stan Lopata's peg to second base. Lopata thought he had Boyer trapped off second.

"Buono," said Arroyo, "mucho bueno."

Philadelphia finished with only six hits to 14 for the Cardinals, whose blows included three each by Stan Musial, Red Schoendienst and Bill Sarni, plus a timely two-run single off righthanded ace Robin Roberts by Wally Moon, the outfielder who'd misjudged the fly behind Jackson. Musial homered into the pavilion off Roberts.

So the Cardinals led from the third inning until the eighth, fell behind, 5 to 3, and then won against lefty Ron Mrozinski and righthander Thornton Kipper as follows:

Pinch Double by Elliott.

Solly Helms, pinch-batter for Alex Grammas, was hit by a pitch. Harry Elliott, batting for Moford, sliced a double to right, pinch-runner Bob Stephenson stopping at third. Dick Schofield then ran for Elliott, but the rally appeared to be falling short as Moon lined out and Bill Virgilio grounded out, only one run scoring.

However, the mighty Musial lashed a long double over Del Ennis' head in left field, tying the score and knocking out Mrozinski. And off Kipper, Rip Repuski skidded a ground double just inside the first-base line, scoring Musial with the run. Herr Schultz made certain was the winner.

Champion Giants Move in Tonight; Gomez Likely to Face Lawrence

The world champion New York Giants, making their first St. Louis appearance since they romped over Cleveland four straight last fall in a surprising world series, will be at Busch Stadium tonight at 8 o'clock and again tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 for a Ladies Day contest.

In tonight's game slender Ruben Gomez, Puerto Rican righthander who scored a 6-2 victory in the third game of the fall series, probably will oppose Brooks Lawrence.

They've both had a time getting started this year. Gomez, a 17-9 pitcher with 2.96 earned-run average in 1954, has won only one game and lost three for Leo Durocher's club, which is in second place, eight and one-half lengths behind inter-borough rival Brooklyn.

Lawrence, 15-6 last season, has a 1-2 record this year and in three of his four starts was knocked out in one, two and three innings.

Mueller Ailing.

Don Mueller, the Giants' hard-hitting outfielder from North St. Louis who finished second in the National League batting race last year, has missed his club's last two games because of an injured ankle. Whether he will play tonight is problematical.

Death of his wife's uncle in southwest Missouri will cause Ken Boyer to miss the first game with New York. Manager Eddie Stanky said, and Solly Helms will play third base tonight.

Stanky credited the base-running of Boyer and Harry Elliott for last night's 6-5 victory over Philadelphia. The manager referred to the fleet Boyer's head-up delayed steal of third in the second inning and Elliott's daring dash and hard slide for a double in the eighth.

Trapped off second as Larry Jackson missed a bunt attempt, Boyer sped for third as Catcher Stan Lopata threw behind him and when Ken beat Shortstop Gran Hamner's relay, Alex Grammas slipped down to second. Both scored on a single by Wally Moon.

A brilliant off-balance throw from right field by Marvin Blaylock, converted first baseman, had Elliott nailed in the eighth, but the stocky former Minnesota University halfback dove head-first into Hamner, who couldn't hold Harry and the throw. He dropped the ball and three decisive runs followed.

Grammas contributed the outstanding defensive play in the eighth inning. With the score tied, and bases loaded, Alex raced to his right, backhanded Del Ennis' grounder and, off-balance, pegged underhanded to the plate, where Bill Sarni stretched like a first baseman and achieved a force-out. However, Earl Torgeson followed with a two-run single that seemed likely to win for the Phils.

Branch Rickey, Pittsburgh general manager, flew in on the same plane that brought Dave Grote, National League publicity director, from headquarters at Cincinnati. Rickey will speak at the Gold Room of the Jefferson Hotel tonight at an annual youth-business men's dinner. Grote is just looking.

Attendance was only 4726 as the weather continued better for the duck shooting season than baseball. The game began in a mist and a light rain fell from the fourth inning on.

Bob Tiefenauer, replacing Jackson in the eighth with the score 2-3 and runners on second and third, none out, couldn't control his knuckler. After he walked Marvin Blaylock, loading the bases, and missed with two pitches to Ennis, Herb Moford took over.

Jerry Johnson and Don Herd Stand Out in Prep Track Trials

Tech Star Sets Mark In the 440

By Harold Tuthill

Beaumont High may build its track fortunes for the remainder of this season and all of the next on the flashing spikes of one athlete, bespectacled Jerry Johnson, who stole the show in the first day of preliminaries of the annual St. Louis district meet.

Johnson set the pace in the 440-yard dash Junior division trials yesterday at the Public Schools Stadium with a time of 53.2 seconds. His 10.3 in the semifinals of the 100-yard dash was as good as that posted by three other qualifiers, Don Edinger of C.B.C. and James Buchanan of Sumner.

Although Johnson is classified as a junior his coach, Bill Miller, runs him in senior competition, also. "We can run Johnson in some meets only as a senior, but in others we can take our choice," Coach Miller said, "so sometimes he runs as a senior even though he is eligible for junior competition."

Depends upon where we need points? (A junior, under league rules, is a boy under 16 years and seven months.) A One-Man Team. Johnson, who has been winning as many as four events in meets this spring, will have an opportunity to qualify for other district berths in the second day of trials this afternoon at the stadium. The only running event in which he is entered, however, is the 220-yard dash.

One record was set in the trials, delayed one day by rain, almost prevented a second time by more precipitation. Don Herd, the Washington Tech flash who ran as a junior a year ago, broke the senior 440 mark with a new time of 50.2 seconds. The old mark, 50.4 seconds was set by Bill Smith of McBride in 1944.

Herd and his running mate, Jehoda Gaines, figures to carry a strong wallop in tomorrow night's finals. Herd came through in the 100 and 440 trials while Gaines, who placed third in the broad jump with a distance of 21 feet, 10 inches.

Tech Tops the List.

The pair accounted for four of the seven senior berths landed by Otis Finley's Golden Lions and gave them a slight edge over University City, the defending champion in both divisions. Henry, Schenmer's Indians placed five in the finals, but only one Indian survived in the junior trials.

Washington Tech placed two juniors. St. Louis U. High qualified three in the seniors and five in the juniors to show that it might be a serious threat to the University City crown. The qualifiers were exclusive of those who placed in the relays.

Prep Track. Maplewood won a triangular track meet at Ladue. The Leafs totaled 80 7-10 points to 56 7-10 for the host team and 10 6-10 for Brentwood.

Buddy Bruffee was first in the high and low hurdles and high jump for Maplewood. Kelly helped the Leafs with victories in the 100 and 220 dashes while Buchmiller set a Ladue field record with a broad jump of 20 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

For Ladue, Jim Dierberg set a school record in the shotput with 45 feet, 7 inches. Don Jacob won the 880 and mile runs.

Dick Willhite was the most help to Country Day as it defeated Chambrade, 73 1/2 to 39 1/2 in a dual meet. Willhite was first in the high hurdles and broad jump, and third in the 100 and high jump. Richie Welles of Country Day won the 100 and 220, and ran on the winning mile relay team.

A Country Day sophomore, Bud Hobart, had a winning distance of 129 feet, 9 inches.

Williams to Be in Lineup In Two Weeks, Club Hopes

BOSTON, May 12 (AP)—Unpredictable Ted Williams' sudden decision to return to baseball is expected to give American League attendance a shot in the arm as well as bolster the sagging Boston Red Sox.

Williams will fly here tomorrow from Miami where final terms of his divorce settlement were recorded yesterday.

"I'm not going to wait any longer," Ted told Gen. Mgr. Joe Cronin in a phone conversation yesterday. "I've spent two days with my daughter. I'd made up my mind to play baseball again before the settlement was completed."

Reached later in his Florida Keys seclusion by the Miami Herald, Williams added "I'll just do the best I can, and hope I can help the club."

"I haven't done any running," Williams continued in speaking of his conditioning. "I weigh 210 pounds (15 more than his playing weight) and I may be lousy. But, the Red Sox seemed to want me, so I'm going back."

The court ordered Williams to pay a total of $104,000 in its decision including $50,000 for his ex-wife, court costs, and $100 per month for his 7-year-old daughter, Barbara, until she is 18. In addition Mrs. Williams was awarded the family's $42,000 South Miami home and the family car (Cadillac).

It marks the fifth "return" of the slugger though each has been different. The question of how soon Williams will be able to play was the first asked when the announcement of his return was made.

Don Larsen Optioned, Slaughter Goes to A's

NEW YORK, May 12 (UP)—The axe swung throughout the big leagues—and it hit a lot of guys hard.

Enos Slaughter, dealt to Kansas City by the Yankees, swallowed a lump in his throat and mumbled, "I never had much of a chance."

Southpaw Hal Newhouse, released outright by Cleveland, tried to take the news nonchalantly but didn't quite make it as he said, "I know I can still help some club."

Catcher Mickey Grasso, handed his release by the Giants, didn't know where to turn. "This is the first time I've ever been released in my life," he said.

And Don Larsen, the strong young right-hander with the 20-game potential whom the Yankees optioned to Denver of the American Association, sat coldly in front of his locker.

Question by Larsen. "Do you think I'll ever come back?" he inquired, looking off into space and smoking a cigarette nervously.

All this took place yesterday when the clubs feverishly pared their rosters to get down to the required 25-player limit by midnight.

"I hate to send anyone out," Yankee Manager Casey Stengel said, frowning. "It's tough on everyone concerned."

Stengel made his remarks after dealing Slaughter and Pitcher Johnny Sain to Kansas City for cash and Pitcher Sonny Dixon, who immediately was sent outright to Denver; optioning Larsen to Denver and selling Southpaw Art Schallack to the Baltimore Orioles.

"Maybe," Sain said, cleaning out his locker, "a change might work out for the best. But you always hate to leave. I remember the first game I won for this club. It was against the Athletics in 1951. I got as big a thrill out of it as if I had been a rookie."

Slaughter tried to whistle a tune as he stuffed his gloves, shoes and packages of chewing tobacco into a duffel bag, but the melody was flat.

A few lockers down, Mickey Mantle looked on sympathetically. Mantle, who was sent down to the minors himself in 1951, said softly, "It's the worst feeling in the world."

In another part of the Yankee Stadium, where the Indians were dressing following their 4-3 victory over New York, Newhouse struggled with the knot in his tie.

"He's a prince of a guy," said Manager Al Lopez, who had to tell Newhouse the news. "Naturally, he was disappointed. He fitted in real fine with our club."

Lopez also had to tell rookie first baseman Joe Altobelli that he was being optioned to Indianapolis of the American Association.

Nuernberg 9-1 Victor; Morlock Gets Four Goals

KEARNY, N. J., May 12 (AP)—The touring Nuernberg (Germany) soccer team overwhelmed the New Jersey All-Stars, 9-1, last night as Max Morlock, the German's star forward, celebrated his thirtieth birthday by scoring four goals. The half-time score was 4-1.

Other scorers for Nuernberg were Helmut Herbolzheimer, two goals, and Horst Schade, Gunther Blomb and Siegfried Wagner, one each.

James Menari scored New Jersey's only goal just before the first half ended.

This was Nuernberg's fourth victory in five games thus far in the United States. Only Kutis of St. Louis defeated the visitors.

Need Is Forward. FORTUNATELY for the coaching staff that is preparing the C.Y.C. soccer squad for its game with Sochaux F. C. of France, the real strength of the local group is in the backfield.

Assuming that the French team is up to the standard of other European first division clubs, the burden of assuring a creditable showing for St. Louis will rest on the defenders.

Justin Fitzgerald, one of the two goalies on the squad of 20 players, contributed some truly brilliant performances during the C.Y.C. league season, for St. Paul. Jack Geary, too, was consistently good, for St. Philip.

Bobby Burkes, Sam Sapientza and Bob Fitzgerald could form a capable last defense line. All three won praise during the season as center half-backs on their respective teams: St. Philip, St. Ambrose and St. Paul.

Al Nazzoli and Ebbie McHugh, both former members of the Simpkins club, know the demands of the wing half-back positions. Toward the close of the league season, Nazzoli was a standout with St. Ambrose and McHugh was the steadiest of the St. Philip mid-field workers.

A glance at the squad roster indicates the chief task before the coaches is the development of resourceful inside forwards. They have no real "naturals" ready to take over. But, with 10 forwards on the list they may be able to find the right combination. The absence of Billy Loooy becomes more apparent when the list is studied. Bill chose to play with Kutis in a National Open Cup match one Sunday when his St. Philip team wanted to use him, so he is listed as a "non-eligible" for this all-C.Y.C. match.

Flashes of Skill.

Hewitt McCluskey, Emil Brice, Charley Mizumoto and Ed Cody have had the greater experience at the all-important inside positions, and all have shown flashes of skill. The center forward task will be in the hands of Hal Weigelt and Bobby Kehoe. Vasco Gasparroni and others will battle it out for the wing positions, with the final selections much in doubt.

Other backfield men who will be striving for places are Gene Curchi, Ray Arras and Don Kettikamp. Forward candidates other than those named include Vern Knoke, Al Jarolimek and Ron Schlattmann.

Fully aware that his squad is not one of established stars, Chairman Guelker says his committee hopes to accomplish what the Kutis club trainers achieved.

"We'll try to make up in speed and determination whatever disadvantage we may suffer in the fine art of ball control," he explained. "Of course, we could have strengthened our squad by picking some established stars here, but we are trying to reward the players of the C.Y.C. for their season-long efforts, and give them something to look forward to in the future. If our venture is reasonably successful we plan to have a similar post-season game each year. We think that will be a fine way to build up player morale in our organization."

'Name' Bowlers In Action on ABC Alleys

FORT WAYNE, Ind., May 12 (AP)—The five-day scoring lull at the fifty-second annual American Bowling Congress tournament may erupt with some heavy firing tonight.

The last of bowling's "name" teams, Strohs, of Detroit, make an appearance in the tourney and aiming to catch the leading Pfeiffer's quintet, also of the Motor City, which has the top score of 3138.

The Strohs have such top-flight bowlers as Buzz Fazio, Lee Jougard (holder of the all-time ABC singles record of 775), Tony Lindemann, Eddie Lubanski, and Pete Carter. Veteran ABC observers feel tonight may be the time for a switch in the standings. Strohs' recently defeated Pfeiffer's three straight games for the Detroit Times Classic league championship.

If the break in the scoring drought comes, it will end the longest string of days without a change in the top standings. The Hell team, of Detroit, made the most serious bid in the team division yesterday but failed by 48 pins to get into the top 10 with a 2965 total.

With 47 days of the tournament in the record book, the other leaders' scores are looming larger each day. Eddie Gerzine, of Milwaukee; tops the singles with a 738. Fred Buljack, of Detroit, is first in the All Events with 1983. George Pappas and Harry Zoeller, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., lead in doubles with 1365 and the Fighting Irish of Dayton, Ohio, are the Booster Division leaders with 2795.

Basketball Hawks' Owner Expected Here Next Week

By Robert Morrison

Professional basketball is returning to St. Louis with the transfer of the Milwaukee Hawks franchise, and fans who helped to bring about the switch were eagerly awaiting the next move in establishing the club as a permanent resident.

Ben Kerner, owner of the Hawks, is expected here early next week, said Jules Schweig, chairman of the local group that conducted a brief but effective ticket-selling campaign.

"And, frankly, we need him to help out," said Schweig. "We have just gotten this thing launched."

Ticket commitments—sales or pledges—had reached the number of 635 here when the National Basketball Association yesterday in New York approved the move of the Milwaukee team to St. Louis.

Bombers Down in 1950.
This was short of the goal of 1000 which Kerner had requested, but he was impressed by the possibilities in St. Louis which hasn't had pro basketball since the St. Louis Bombers closed up shop in 1950.

The Bombers played at the Arena, but the new franchise owner intends to play home games at Kiel Auditorium. This could make a difference in itself as fans have pointed out a crowd of 5000 looks lost in the Arena but at the 10,000-seat Kiel Auditorium, a similar gathering may easily add to the color and warmth of the setting when games reach an exciting pitch.

Schweig said also that there had been sufficient interest demonstrated by radio group that was seeking an additional source of revenue through that means.

In the ticket-selling campaign, however, the main results were achieved through the efforts of civic service clubs such as the Elks, Lions and Kiwanis organizations, Schweig said.

Maybe Another Break.

In developments at the N.B.A. meeting in New York, St. Louis may have got another break when the association turned down a franchise application from a Washington, D.C., group. A deal was being attempted to sell the defunct Baltimore club assets to the Washington group, a move that might have given the new entry claim to Milwaukee's star Frank Selvy, as well as Bobby Watson.

Selvy and Watson had been Baltimore players before the Bullets folded early last season. There was an understanding that if the Baltimore franchise could be re-organized, these players would be returned for the 1955-56 season.

But the N.B.A. disapproved the Baltimore-Washington deal yesterday and as a result was threatened with legal action. No reason was given by President Maurice Podoloff for refusing the Washington bid, the United Press reported, but it was understood that the new syndicate's financial arrangement did not suit the N.B.A. club owners. Subsequently Marvin Edelman, attorney for the group which took the Baltimore Bullets franchise into receivership when it folded last fall, said he would ask for a court injunction against the league. The injunction would keep the N.B.A. from continuing with its schedule-making plans for the next season and also would prevent league teams from negotiating with players drafted last month.

Ricklets to Ricklets.
The Milwaukee club's draft rights help to make its team appear as a most promising young outfit for seasons to come. Milwaukee has rights to All-America Dick Ricklets of Duquesne, Jack Stephens of Notre Dame, Burdette Halderson of Colorado and others.

As it stands now, though, Milwaukee is likely to be an improving N.B.A. team, with Selvy and Bob Pettit, who were standouts as rookies, sure to be better with experience. Chuck Share, Bob Harrison, Chuck Cooper and Bill Calhoun are among the holdovers.

Prospects indicate good height with Share (6-11), Pettit (6-9), Cooper (6-8) and Ricklets and Halderson each 6-7 available for the front line. Bill (Red) Holzman, a City College of New York star in the war years, with a 10-year background in pro ball, will be the coach. He is going into the second season with the club which finished last in the N.B.A. the past season.

Royals Sign St. Francis Here.

NEW YORK, May 12 (UPI)—The Rochester Royals hoped today that the man who made little St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., a college basketball power also could make them champions of the National Basketball Association.

The Royals acquired one of the prize players of the N.B.A. draft yesterday when they signed Maurice Stokes. A 6-foot, 6-inch, 235-pounder, Stokes averaged more than 25 points a game for St. Francis last season and was voted the most valuable player in both the National Invitation Tournament and the East-West All-Star game.

Stokes, who also had been sought by the Harlem Globetrotters, is expected to take over as the Royals' regular center.

Mrs. Furlong Wins.

An 81 score by Mrs. Frank J. Furlong won the blind bogey event at Norwood Hills Country Club. Second place went to Mrs. Earl O'Rourke and Mrs. Robert Lundahl with 84 each. Mrs. George King had a 29 for fewest putts honors.

Other winners: FIRST FLIGHT: low putts—Mrs. L. P. Miller, 25. SECOND FLIGHT: fewest putts—Mrs. A. P. Magoni and Mrs. John Burdett, 25 each. THIRD FLIGHT: Mrs. Miller, 30; Mrs. Harold Allen, 34.

St. Louis Boys Win Bouts in London Show

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—St. Louisans Tommy Reynolds and Don Eddington held up their end of the bargain very well, but the United States Golden Gloves boxers lost their team match to England here last night, 5 bouts to 4. One of the U.S. defeats was, by default, caused by an eye injury that prevented Johnny Gehan of Grand Rapids from boxing.

Reynolds scored a first-round knockout over his flyweight opponent, Derek Lloyd. His two-flashed attack floored Lloyd twice and the referee stepped in to declare the St. Louisan winner.

Eddington, a bantamweight, fought brilliantly in outpointing Johnny Cuthbert. At one stage, the Americans had a 4-2 lead but the English lads fought back bravely to win. A crowd of 12,000 packed the Wembley arena for the show.

HEAVYWEIGHT—Edgar Cates, Karshaw, N.C., outpointed Denis Rowe. WELTERWEIGHT—Nicky Gargano, England, outpointed Joe Durando, Lyndhurst.

A Man's Store Exclusively

This is The Green Dragon, the most famous Tavern in Boston during Colonial times. Paul Revere, John Hancock and Sam Adams were among its distinguished clientele and years later Daniel Webster described it as "The Headquarters of the Revolution."

The TAVERN— America's traditional symbol of hospitality

Every Colonial town had its tavern. Traders and landowners gathered at its bar to exchange news. Political discussions filled the air, aromatic with good tobacco and good drink. The story of America's early taverns is a chapter in the story of America itself.

Today there are thousands of taverns all over America. In them a man can still dine leisurely, or quickly. He can chat, or just listen. And in them he can enjoy the finest whiskies the world has ever known.

Seagram's 7 Crown is one of these whiskies. A Colonial bartender could not have poured it... because a Colonial distiller could not have produced it. It is a product of progress. By combining modern scientific method with the art of distilling The House of Seagram has brought 7 Crown to a perfection that has won more confidence than any other whiskey in history. That is why wherever you enter a tavern in the U.S.A. you'll find people enjoying it and respecting it.

May is National Tavern Month... a good time to get to know the friendly and truly American atmosphere of your nearby tavern.

Bears Close At Bradley

Washington University's baseball team doesn't have a chance to match last year's victory total of 19 in its remaining regular schedule, but the Bears do have an opportunity to finish with a flourish.

They go against Bradley University at Peoria tomorrow and Saturday in an effort to extend their winning streak of 16, and a couple of victories over the Braves would be an impressive way to close the regular season. Bradley has a 14 and 3 record, and even though it is out of contention in the Missouri Valley Conference race, its overall record is good. Bradley is even stronger outside of conference play because it is using freshmen in non-league games.

Coach Irv Utz's Bears missed a chance to add to their victory string yesterday when rain caused cancellation of a game with Evansville (Ind.) College. Evansville arrived here from a 5-1 victory over Southern Illinois U. just before afternoon showers prevented play at Liggett Field.

Utz then made plans to go against Bradley with his top pitching star, Freshman Allan Wasserman in the first game Friday, and scheduled Mel O'Bannon for Saturday. Wasserman has a 6-0 record, O'Bannon 3-2.

The Bear coach said he figured Bradley would be the toughest opponent Washington has had since beating Illinois early in the season. The Hilltoppers lost their first three games this year, including two to Illinois. A year ago Washington won 19 straight, including two over Bradley, after dropping the first two games of that season.

Long Shots Big Shots In the Rain

Another whopping daily double payoff featured Fairmount Park's Wednesday night racing program as Some Charge, winner of the first race, and Jackie's Idol, victor by more than a length in the second, refunded $521.80 for $2. It was the third big double in as many nights.

On Monday the winning daily double combination netted backers $606.40 while Tuesday the lucky daily double purchasers were handed packages of $488. Some Charge paid $23.80 to win and Jackie's Idol returned $64 on a $2 straight win duet. Eighteen persons held winning tickets on the double.

Longshots continued to romp home on the heavy track as the third race pacemaker, Craigie D., returned $25.40, $9.00 and $5.40 on $2 across-the-board wagers. The 3-year-old chestnut filly finished driving in the five and one-half furlong race to nip Texas Darkie by a neck.

A $30 winning tag was on Happy Tune, M. M. Gettler's 6-year-old gelding, fourth race victor to the winner's circle. Happy Tune finished ahead of Foxy Gert by four lengths.

It was not until the fifth that a favorite won and then Mink Branch paid $4.40 for a winning effort. Long shot betters had their way again in the sixth when Halbel, a 6-year-old mare, captured the $1300, six-furlong sprint by a length, returning $23.

Ronald Delpidio, New Orleans jockey who was aboard Some Charge, recently was separated from the United States Army after serving three years. This was his first victory since leaving the service.

Light rain fell during the chilly evening at 3918 fans wagered $1,920.

Nine horses have been named for tonight's featured sixth race, in which Paul Capitano's 6-year-old class Casey's Hope will shoulder top weight of 116 pounds.

Short Waves

A plastic surgeon will fly from southern California Sunday to check the nose of ROCKY MARCIANO on the eve of his heavyweight title fight with DON COCKELL of England.

Cuban Sports Commissioner ROBERTO FERNANDEZ flew to New York to try to arrange a return match between Cuba's NINO VALDES and ARCHIE MOORE. Moore outpointed Valdes in a Nevada bout last week.

EDDIE SOUTHERN, Dallas high school senior who twice last week lowered the national interscholastic record for the 440-yard dash, is really a hurdler at heart and hopes to win a berth on the next United States Olympic team in the 400-meter hurdles.

His times for the 440 sprint were 47.2 and 47.4 seconds.

Dead at Baltimore was BROTHER BENJAMIN, 79, the man who helped start Babe Ruth on his baseball career.

He was Ruth's earliest baseball coach and adviser. JAROSLAV DROBNY of Egypt, 1954 Wimbledon tennis champion, said an X-ray confirmed he had appendicitis but doctors told him an operation can be postponed until after the summer tennis season.

He plans to defend his All-England title June 20-July 2. ROBERT HICKEY of the University of Illinois was named to the second team All-American Intercollegiate rifle squad, picked by coaches and officials of the National Rifle Association.

A's to Get Treat Of Steaks From K.C. KANSAS CITY, May 12 (AP)—A Kansas City baseball fan, Athletics, has sent a present ahead of the team to Boston. The A's, whirlwinds at home, won their first game on the road yesterday. After they dropped Tuesday night's game, 11-1, to Baltimore, Eddie Williams decided they not only needed some hometown support but also some Kansas City steaks.

So Williams sent 40 steaks, packed in dry ice, on a plane to Boston, where the A's open a three-game series today. After the game—win, lose or draw—the A's can settle down to a big feed—rare, well or medium.

PRESS MEETING

vaccine, Sir... would you give us your views as to where the responsibility lies in this situation? Is there a government responsibility?"

The President—"Well, there is certainly a Government responsibility to take leadership in this thing and see the thing goes ahead as fast as it possibly can. Now, every conference I have had has been that the firms have co-operated perfectly. They have no—the firms making this—they have no complaint whatsoever."

"The entire amount of this product is contracted for by the Foundation. There will be no other orders filled of any kind until that contract is completely fulfilled."

"I believe it is either until all children from five to nine are vaccinated, or until a given date some time in the future, whichever is earlier, I think."

"I would say this: by some time later this week, during the week, I will have the final report of all the agreements, the recommendations of the advisory board and the secretary of H.E.W. By Monday or Tuesday I ought to be in shape to determine if there is any more action of any kind that I am expected to take."

Reston—"The question that is being asked, certainly the question that our mail reflects, is why many of these things that are now being done were not done before all the hoop-la about the original announcement in April."

The President—"I think it was merely because of two things, the great pressure to bring this out as quickly as they believed, had any reason to believe, it was a useful and effective product, and therefore that some of the exhaustive tests through which such a product normally goes, probably they tried to short-cut a little bit, I don't know. The report you show, I am not a scientist, as you well know."

Smith—"Mr. President, you used a phrase two questions back on that, 'They probably tried to short-cut a little bit.' To whom are you referring, sir?"

The President—"I mean that the scientists in putting this out probably thought that they had used all of the regular methods, but probably didn't use some of the more exhaustive ones that they may think now should be double-checked."

"I don't—look, I am speculating on that particular point. I say I haven't got my report, and I am not making any statement that is to be taken as authoritative on that point, but they have stopped the vaccinations while they take a double check on something. Now, what that is, I am not sure."

Has Confidence in Vaccine. Martin Agronsky, American Broadcasting Co.—"Mr. President, considerable misgivings seem to have arisen as to the efficacy of the Salk polio vaccine in a medical sense. Could you, from your knowledge and your conversations with the experts on this, tell us whether the United States Government still regards the Salk polio vaccine as able to do what everyone originally thought it would do, that is prevent polio with 80 to 90 per cent of those who are injected with the vaccine?"

The President—"I believe it absolutely. I can't say what the Government—that's a lot of people. I know what I believe. I believe these experts. They are very competent and I believe it can do it."

"Now, there have been, I think, something like 52 cases of polio out of more than 5,000,000 injections. Now, they want to find out merely whether these 52 cases had any relationship at all to the fact that they were injected, and they are trying to be doubly safe, and I applaud their caution in this matter. But I believe it just implicitly that this will, within a measurable time, really eliminate polio in this country."

Agronsky—"Mr. President, it is not the medical theory that is in question here at all, it is merely the manner that the vaccine is being manufactured."

The President—"Well, that is what I think."

Robert G. Spivack, New York Post—"Last week you told us that no child would be denied the vaccine because of inability to pay and afterwards there seemed to be a little confusion about just what sort of plan of operation you had in mind."

"As I understood, the Federal Government, if necessary, would buy up all the Salk vaccine, but could you tell us how indigence would be determined, and also whether it would be administered free of charge?"

The President—"Well, of course, I can't tell you all the details of how we would do it, but I will tell you this:

"The second I find out that any child in the United States is denied this by reason of lack of money to pay for it, I am going to move as hard as I can, and I will certainly make someone listen to me very earnestly before there is any defeat on that one."

William M. Blair, New York Times—"Mr. President, over the weekend the Surgeon General and the United States changed his position on going ahead with the polio Salk vaccine. Was that purely a medical decision or was that a decision of policy within the Administration?"

The President—"Well, I don't understand any such question. I have discussed that two or three times this morning."

"That was the doctor's opinion and his decision. The Government would know no more about the factors in this than this body would. Would you know what I do with such technical things? I wouldn't."

"The doctors have to decide what to do in such a case. They decided it wasn't fair to go ahead until they checked more. That's all there was to it."

Soviet Marshal Sokolovsky Sends
His Best Wishes to Eisenhower

Chief of Staff of Russian Armed Forces
Voices Message at Banquet for Nine
Ex-G.I.s in Moscow for Reunion.

MOSCOW, May 12 (UP)—Soviet Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, chief of staff of Soviet armed forces, today sent "friendly greetings and best wishes" to President Eisenhower.

The occasion was a gala reception and banquet given for the American and Russian veterans of the meeting at the Elbe river in World War II. Sokolovsky said he and Mr. Eisenhower spent six months on the "Control Council" (Allied Control Council in Berlin after the end of the war).

A few days ago Mr. Eisenhower disclosed that he was exchanging "personal" letters with Russian Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Sokolovsky was head of the Russian delegation on the Allied Control Council for Germany in 1948. He walked out of a meeting in Berlin March 20, 1948, after accusing the West of undermining four-power control of Germany and trying to make the Control Council position difficult. The walk-out was one of the first moves signaling the start of the cold war.

Sokolovsky, who also is first deputy minister of defense under Zhukov, gave today's reception in honor of the nine American veterans of the Elbe meeting who came here in response to a Russian invitation. Soviet army officers who were members of the committee which arranged the veterans' trip from the United States, Russian veterans of the Elbe meeting and Soviet and foreign newspapermen attended the reception.

It was a lavish display of Russian hospitality, complete with vodka, caviar and other delicacies including steaks.

Americans Retain Views. Joseph Polowsky of Chicago, spokesman for the nine Americans, told reporters last night the visit to Moscow had not altered the group's "right of center" political leanings. He said the nine "fully support the United States Government's foreign policy," including West German rearmament.

Polowsky made the comment after a rally with Soviet veterans in the central house of the Soviet army. At the rally Russian Col. A. S. Zhakov assailed the "remilitarization of West Germany."

Reporters noted that Polowsky and his colleagues, who were on the stage during the meeting, frequently applauded the Russians' speeches. Asked later if he and his companions understood what they were applauding, Polowsky said they were depending on an interpreter.

"I did not applaud criticism of West German rearmament, which I fully support," Polowsky said. "I did not applaud any criticism of the United States Government, which I fully support."

"We haven't discussed politics here at all and wouldn't bring up the matter if the Russians didn't do it first. I and my colleagues here are all right of center in our political leanings."

During last night's ceremonies, Polowsky invited the Russian veterans to visit Washington. He assured them "the same warm hospitality we received here."

JUDGES SAY CONVICT WAS BRAINWASHED

Man Sentenced 14 Years Ago
Granted New Trial on Murder Charge.

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—A federal court has ordered a new trial for a state prison lifer, saying New York City police committed "psychological brutality" in obtaining a confession from him in a murder case.

Santo Camanito, 41 years old, behind bars since 1942, was convicted with two other men in Brooklyn of the holdup-murder of a Coney Island merchant. All three got life terms.

Camanito testified at his trial that the police coerced a confession from him.

The United States Court of Appeals granted him a writ of habeas corpus yesterday on the ground that he had been "unconstitutionally victimized by officialdom."

The court's opinion, written by Judge Jerome N. Frank, said:

"The police interrogated Camanito almost continuously for 27 hours with but a brief interval for rest in a cell so badly equipped as to make sleep virtually impossible for a man harried by the questioning."

"During this long period the police, in effect, kidnapped him. They kept him incommunicado, refusing to allow his lawyer, his family and his friends to consult with him."

The appeals courts said detectives posed as witnesses to accuse Camanito as a murderer.

"The confessions obtained by these loathsome means were no more evidence than if they had been forged," the opinion continued.

Judge Frank also wrote: "It has no significance that in this case we must assume there was no physical brutality, for psychological torture may be far more cruel, far more symptomatic of sadism. Many a man who can endure beatings would yield to fatigue."

PRESIDENT DELAYS DECISION ON RISE IN BICYCLE TARIFFS

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch
Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 12—President Eisenhower has postponed a decision on the tough question of higher tariffs on foreign bicycles until after his reciprocal trade bill clears Congress.

Ignoring a deadline of this Saturday for a decision on a Tariff Commission recommendation for higher tariffs, the President yesterday sent the case back to the commission for more information and evaluation. He asked that the commission report again by July 15.

The bicycle "escape clause" case is probably the most important the President has had to consider since the Swiss watch case. His impending decision was being awaited in Congress, particularly in light of the fact that some changes in the "escape clause" were written into the Senate version of the trade bill.

House and Senate conferees on the bill will meet next week. The House version of the bill was almost exactly as the Administration submitted it, but the Senate added several restrictive amendments.

Building for the future, always build Inco Nickel into your plans. In power boats, for example, plan Inco-made Monel into gas tanks, water tanks, shafts. Fastenings, too. It's corrosion-resisting!

Where corrosion can mean explosion—Properly fabricated, corrosion-resisting Monel tanks don't leak. Monel gas tanks mean safety to power boat owners and builders.

With Inco Nickel in them—metals perform better, longer. An Inco Nickel Alloy, Monel is easy to weld tight. One reason Monel gas tanks meet Yacht Safety Bureau recommendations.

PLAN INCO NICKEL
INTO YOUR FUTURE

Stop fire at sea before it starts...

Plan Inco Nickel
into power boat gas tanks!

At sea, in the wrong place (the bilge, for example), half a cupful of gasoline can sink a boat.

So when you're building or buying a power boat, make sure you get well-made gas tanks that won't leak. Tanks of Monel, the long-lasting Inco Nickel Alloy!

It's corrosion that causes gasoline leakage and creates a fire hazard.

But Inco-made Monel resists corrosion: it stands up to salt water, salt air, gasoline, even brackish bilge water. So you rule out leaks, stop fire at sea before it starts, when you put in Monel gas tanks.

Solves your sludge problem, too!

That's another advantage of this famous Inco Nickel Alloy. It helps prevent the formation of sludge that "gums up" fuel lines. Sludge that can leave you be-calmed or, worse yet, wallowing in heavy seas.

So if you're a power boat owner or hope to be one—if you're a boat builder or designer—plan Inco Nickel into your gas tanks. Your water tanks. Into your fastenings, your fittings. Into your shaft—where the extra toughness and ruggedness of this corrosion-resisting Inco Nickel Alloy can save you many a costly lay-up over the years.

MICROPHONES PUT IN HOMES AT ISSUE

California Decision Against Listening Devices Stirs Dispute.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—Police officials and civil liberties supporters were at odds today over a California Supreme Court decision that will probably lead to a legislative fight over secret "listening devices" installed in private homes.

The legal tangle started here with a verdict against an alleged bookmaker, with prosecuting officials introducing in evidence a recording of conversation in the suspect's house. Police entered the suspect's house to install the recording device when no one was at home.

The conviction was appealed on the allegation that the evidence was illegally obtained, and should not have been admissible in court. In reversing the conviction, the California Supreme Court held that admissible evidence must be obtained legally, and said concealed microphones in homes violate the Fourth Amendment of the United States Constitution.

The amendment guarantees the rights of citizens to be "secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures."

The decision set off a continuing controversy, with high commendation by such groups as the American Civil Liberties Union branch here and other liberal organizations and individuals. But Police Chief William J. Parker of Los Angeles criticized the ruling and asked the State Legislature to clarify the law.

Parker, in a letter to Assemblyman H. Allen Smith, recommended that an assembly interim committee be named to study the court's decision.

"If this decision stands," wrote Parker, "the police officer will find himself in a sea of confusion without discernible rules whereby to gauge his conduct in obtaining evidence that may be legally introduced in criminal proceedings."

He said it is "imperative" that the Legislature exercise its right to spell out the types of searches of homes that are deemed reasonable.

One of the most influential newspapers in northern California, the Sacramento Bee, said the court's view squares with the philosophy of the United States Supreme Court and that of the judiciary of a growing number of states.

"Police officials are going to bemoan the court's decision on the ground it will make much more difficult their task of apprehending criminals," said the newspaper. "That may be true. But the Constitution is not written to make easy the work of policemen."

Strawberries in Spotlight Now

Excellent Time to Freeze or Preserve Berries as Well as Enjoy Them in Luscious Desserts.

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

Of course the weather could throw us a curve, so don't hold it against us if we should happen to be wrong, but as of this moment we are going out on a limb and make the prediction that this coming weekend may well be as good a time as any to freeze strawberries, or turn them into some of that jam that tastes so wonderful with hot biscuits on a winter's morning.

Strawberries are coming in from Arkansas and Tennessee, with California berries expected momentarily, in addition to our own home-grown ones — which means that shipments probably are as heavy as they will be this season and there isn't much point in gambling any longer on the chance of getting cheaper berries. Also, many of the southern berries are of the Blakemore variety, excellent for freezing and preserving.

While you are in the fruit department, check on fresh pineapples. They are of good quality, and prices are down to moderate. Avocados also get the "go" sign on both quality and price. Incidentally, they combine nicely with grapefruit segments (and grapefruit is still mildly fine) in a green salad.

Valencia oranges are coming in from both Arizona and Florida, but pricewise you may find your best buys in Florida oranges, which are at their peak of maturity and juice content. There are enough lemons to meet increased demands, and limes are available but not cheap.

Cantaloupes and watermelons are becoming more plentiful, and don't forget that good home-grown rhubarb.

New arrival: California prickly pears.

SPEAKING of homegrown items, the list continues to grow. Mint is now on it; watercress, chives and leeks are more abundant.

Of course you will want some of the delicious asparagus now in the market, and don't pass by the homegrown greens which are literally sparkling with freshness.

Leaf lettuce is plentiful and at its best right now—nice and tender, before the heat and bugs take their toll. Green onions and radishes are ready to lend zest to the salad bowl, but cucumbers have worked up a bit in price.

Don't look for any real bargains in tomatoes right now, but this is just a temporary condition.

You will find some excellent buys in peppers, so you may wish to stuff some for the main dish of one weekend meal.

Check celery and corn—both rate high on the "good buys" list this week. Incidentally, some celery cabbage from Florida is here to lend variety to your menu.

Homegrown cauliflower is on the market, but the western flower is of far better quality and larger heads.

Broccoli is fine and attractive pricewise, and don't fail to enjoy those wonderful California carrots—the flavor is something special. Speaking of California, the fresh peas from there are not augmented by some Crowder peas.

If you are bargain hunting, you can find budget buys in dry onions—so how about a big bowl of onion soup?

Here is a tip on potatoes: lead a hand-to-mouth existence as far as they are concerned right now. The old potatoes don't keep too well at this time of year, and the tender skins of the new ones do not make them adaptable to long storage, so buy only in small amounts.

WARM weather may have changed your living habits, and consequently your marketing habits. If you spend your weekends at a clubhouse, for instance, you might buy a large ham, 16 pounds or up, and have your meat man cut it in half, reserving the center slices for barbecuing and taking the rest out to the club.

Warm weather also might remind you that it is time to get out the pressure cooker for preparing thrifty beef chunks and stew meat. Veal breast and chops are good buys, along with pork shoulder steaks, ribs and roasts, pork sausage, canned hams, Beltsville turkeys and, of course, that sliced bacon we told you about last week.

NEW in St. Louis: A whole orchard-full of frozen juice which combines the luscious goodness of apples, apricots, bananas, grapefruit, lemons, limes, oranges and peaches.

This city is one of the first to have this refreshing new beverage that will be welcome from breakfast to midnight. Its unusual flavor is quite as welcome as a before-dinner or evening snack as it is at the breakfast table.

Or try mixing one-half can of the frozen juice with a quart of vanilla ice cream and one-half teaspoon rum extract; blend thoroughly and freeze in refrigerator tray until firm.

Who Could Resist These Shortcakes?

It would take a strong character, indeed, to resist these tempting Strawberry Pecan Shortcakes, topped with whipped cream. The nut meats are baked right in the dough. Recipes for other equally delectable strawberry desserts are given below.

EVEN if you steadfastly pass up desserts in favor of a slender waistline, you are something more than human if you can resist the delectable shortcakes, pies and whipped-cream topped tarts which mark that happy period known as "the strawberry season." Admirable though your calorie counting may be, this is one time when it seems in order to relax and live a little.

These scarlet beauties are with us such a relatively short time that it seems a shame not to make the most of them while they are here.

A truly elegant dessert is the luscious strawberry shortcake. One of the easiest of all baked desserts to make, it is a gala climax to any meal.

Shortcakes, of course, are both richer and sweeter than the typical biscuit because the recipe calls for a higher proportion of shortening to the flour and a little sugar. Try adding chopped nut meats, such as pecans, to the dough for a flavor that combines well with the fresh fruit filling. It's a nice touch to brush the tops of the shortcakes either before or after baking with melted shortening for extra flavor and tenderness. You also may want to brush up cakes with milk for a quick browning.

Strawberry Pecan Shortcakes.
One-third cup shortening.
Two cups sifted flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
Three tablespoons sugar.
One-half cup broken pecan meats.
One-half cup milk.
One egg, beaten.

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut shortening into flour mixture until it is the consistency of cornmeal and small peas. Stir in pecans. Combine milk and egg. Stir the liquid into the dry ingredients.

Turn the dough onto a lightly floured board. Knead gently two or three times. Roll dough one-third inch thick. Cut into three-inch scalloped rounds with a floured cutter.

Place two rounds together on baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 15 minutes. Serve with sweetened strawberries and whipped cream between and on top of biscuits.

(Note: did you ever try adding a few drops of red food coloring to the whipped cream or meringue used with strawberry desserts? The delicate pink topping makes them even more irresistible.)

One of the world's most elegant and easily prepared desserts is the classic "Peach Melba," created originally by the great French chef Escoffier for opera diva Madame Melba. Big golden peach halves are placed on vanilla ice cream and topped with a red raspberry puree, but strawberries often are substituted for the raspberries.

Peach Strawberry Melba.
Approximately three cups strawberries.
Three tablespoons sugar.
One (No. 2½) can cling peach halves.
One quart ice cream.
Mint leaves.
Rinse and hull berries; reserve a few for garnish. Slice remaining berries and sprinkle each layer with sugar. Let stand in refrigerator about one hour to dissolve sugar and form juice.

Chill peaches in their syrup; drain just before serving. Place a large scoop ice cream in each serving dish; top with a peach half. Cover ice cream with sliced berries. Sprinkle each serving with whole berry and mint sprig.

Don't let the strawberry season slip by without trying this quick-trick dessert. The "crust" is made of ladyfingers. The filling is a packaged pudding flavored with sherry, spread over a layer of sugared strawberries.

Strawberry Pudding Pie.
One package vanilla pudding powder.
One and one-half cups milk.
One-fourth cup sherry wine.
One dozen ladyfingers, split.
Two cups halved or sliced strawberries.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One cup heavy cream, whipped.

Additional whole strawberries for garnishing pie.
Prepare vanilla pudding according to directions on package, using the one and one-half cups milk as the liquid. Remove from heat. Stir in wine. Let cool at room temperature, stirring two or three times.

Line the bottom and sides of a nine-inch pie plate with split ladyfingers, arranging them split side up. Mix the halved or sliced strawberries with the sugar; spread berries evenly over bottom of the ladyfingers "crust."

Spread cooled pudding evenly over berries. Chill pie several hours. Just before serving, spread whipped cream over the top and garnish with whole strawberries. Yield: one nine-inch pie.

Here is a pie that lives up to its name. It's light as a feather, with a tender pink color and delicate flavor.

Pink Cloud Pie
One baked pastry shell.
Four egg whites.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
One-half cup sugar.
Cool pie shell. Beat egg whites with lemon juice until stiff. Add sugar gradually, and beat well after each addition. Spread in pastry shell, spreading slightly higher around edges. Bake at 325 degrees until light brown. Cool. Just before serving, prepare the filling:

Three-fourths cup crushed and drained strawberries.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Two egg whites.
Three-fourths cup sugar.

Grease bottom of ice cube tray if it tends to stick to refrigerator

PRETTY DESSERTS

MADE FROM A MIX

THE house is all slicked up for spring. It's time to have a party—the kind that takes little time to plan and prepare for because you'll be spending lots of time outdoors these warm spring days.

Whether the occasion calls for dessert after a complete dinner, or simple refreshments with coffee, here are three conversation pieces to dazzle your guests. They look fancy, but are designed for days when time is short.

Orange cake mix is the base for each. It's party fare in itself. You prepare and bake the cake as directed on the package, in the shapes shown in the picture. By starting this easy way, you'll have extra minutes to spend on fillings and frostings.

Baked Alaska—that dessert of mystery and beauty—is sure to create a flurry when you bring it on. This version is "Orange Alaska." Serve it in the evening so it can be the whole show.

To make it, first bake the cake in two eight-inch layers. Reserve one; frost the other or serve with fruit sauce. Next, mold a quart of vanilla ice cream into a round shape in a foil-lined, eight-inch round layer pan. (The picture shows you how it should look.) Store the ice cream in the freezer or freezing compartment of your refrigerator so it will be very firm when you're ready for it.

Just before serving, make the meringue by beating five egg whites until they stand in peaks; add two-thirds cup sugar, a tablespoon at a time, and continue beating until mixture stands in heavy, shiny peaks.

Place the layer of cake on a wooden cutting board or cookie sheet (a strip of paper underneath makes it easy to transfer dessert to serving plate), unroll ice cream on top, and frost completely with meringue. Be sure to seal the meringue carefully to the edges because this keeps the ice cream firm while it "bakes."

Place cake in a very hot oven (450 degrees) about five minutes. Slide onto a dessert plate, and serve immediately, slicing it at the table—it'll fascinate your guests. This recipe will serve 10 to 12.

Double-tier cake is frosted with a luscious mixture of vanilla pudding and whipped cream, made according to the recipe below. Prepare it in advance and store in the refrigerator until serving time.

Cupcakes combine cake and frosting, making into an operation, and provide an especially convenient-to-serve dessert for a children's party.

The crusty topping—a mixture of one teaspoon grated lemon rind and one-fourth cup granulated sugar—is sprinkled over the batter before baking. At serving time, cut a cone from the top, fill the hole with sweetened whipped cream heaped high, and set the cone back at a rakish angle. One cup of cream, whipped, will be enough to fill 24 cupcakes.

Creamy Vanilla Filling.
Prepare one package vanilla pudding mix as directed on package, using one and one-half cups milk. Remove from heat; cool five minutes, stirring constantly. Cover and chill.

Four Varieties of Cookies Made From One Basic Mix

Cookies, four different kinds, are easily prepared from one basic mix. Take your pick—chocolate, spice, oatmeal and orange. Bake 'em all at once, or bake a few at a time. That's the advantage of stirring up the basic mix and storing it in your refrigerator. Then you can have freshly baked cookies on the spur of the moment.

You can't beat the flavor of these "made from scratch" beauties. All are so delicious, that you'll have a hard time deciding which is your favorite. Variety of flavor comes from sweet chewy raisins, spice, chocolate, grated orange and walnuts.

Four-In-One Cookie.
Basic Mix: Five cups sifted all-purpose flour.
Two teaspoons salt.
Three cups brown sugar (packed).
Two cups (1 pound) butter or margarine.

Chocolate Diamonds.
One (1-ounce) square unsweetened chocolate.
One-half cup light or dark raisins.

Two cups basic mix.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-fourth teaspoon soda.
One beaten egg.

Orange Raisin Drops.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One-half cup light or dark raisins.

Two and one-fourth cups basic mix.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
Two teaspoons grated orange rind.
One teaspoon grated lemon rind.

One beaten egg.
One-half cup light or dark raisins.
One and one-half cups basic mix.

One-half cup quick-cooking oats.
One-fourth teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon ginger.

One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.
One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg.
Two tablespoons molasses.
Three tablespoons milk.

Victorian Spice Cookies.
One-half cup light or dark raisins.

Two cups basic mix.
One-fourth teaspoon soda.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.

One-fourth teaspoon allspice.
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half cup chopped walnuts.

One beaten egg.
Basic Mix: Sift flour with salt. Add sugar and butter, and cut in with pastry blender until particles are very small. Store tightly covered in refrigerator.

Chocolate Diamonds: Melt chocolate over hot water. Rinse, drain and chop raisins. Combine mix, sugar, soda and raisins. Stir in egg, vanilla and chocolate; blend thoroughly. Chill in freezing compartment of refrigerator 20 minutes. Shape into balls and flatten, or roll on lightly floured board about one-eighth-inch thick. Cut into diamonds with sharp knife or pastry wheel, and place on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) eight to 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Make about two and one-half to three dozen.

Old English Oatmeal Crisps: Rinse and drain raisins. Combine with all remaining ingredients and blend well. Shape into small balls and place on greased baking sheet about two inches apart. Flatten with bottom of glass dipped in sugar. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 minutes. Makes about one and one-half dozen.

Orange Raisin Drops: Rinse and drain raisins. Blend with all remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 10 minutes. Makes about two dozen.

Victorian Spice Cookies: Rinse and drain raisins. Combine with basic mix, soda, spices and walnuts. Stir in egg. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 10 minutes. Makes about two dozen.

DRESSING MIX ADDS FLAVOR TO THIS SHRIMP SALAD

Each season salads play a more important role in our menus—as appetizers, as accompaniments to the meat course, as the main dish of luncheons or suppers, and as the star of the buffet table.

And what is a salad without a good dressing? New on the market are salad dressing mixes packed in envelopes, needing only the addition of vinegar.

Shrimp Whirl Salad.
One package salad dressing mix.

Vinegar, water, oil.
Water cress or lettuce.
One slice peeled ripe tomato.

Four whole shrimp, split lengthwise.
Two thin slices avocado.
One strip pimiento.

One-half teaspoon capers.
Combine salad dressing, mix vinegar, water and oil as directed on the package or bottle. Arrange water cress or lettuce on plate. Place tomato slice on top. Arrange shrimp, radiating from center like spokes of a wheel. Garnish with avocado slices and pimiento. Sprinkle with capers. Serve with the dressing. Yield: one serving.

EASY SUPPER DISH

When the day has been a scramble of spring chores, it's time for the easiest of supper dishes—poached eggs on Parmesan toast.

Make plenty of toast, butter and generously sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Top each slice of Parmesan toast with a poached egg, or make it two eggs for Dad and the boys. Served with a big salad, the supper is complete.

FISH STICKS SCALLOPINE VARIATION OF ITALIAN DISH

Want to vary the way you serve popular fish sticks? Here is an easy recipe that follows the Italian Scallopina idea.

Fish Sticks Scallopina.
One package frozen fish sticks.
Two medium onions.
Four green peppers.

One-third cup butter or margarine.
One-fourth cup sherry wine.

Separate fish sticks. Cut onions into rings and peppers into eighths. Melt butter in a large frying pan. Add onion rings and pepper and cook until tender but still crisp, about five minutes.

Add sherry and fish sticks. Cover pan and cook about three to five minutes, or until fish sticks are heated through.

Note: two tablespoons water and two tablespoons lemon juice may be substituted for sherry.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILL TO LET C.P.A.'S SKIP APPRENTICESHIP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, May 12—

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly yesterday signed a bill which will permit college graduates, who majored in accountancy, to take examinations to become certified public accountants immediately on graduation, instead of having to serve a three-year period of apprenticeship.

If they passed the examination, they then would have to work as accountants for two years before obtaining their certificates.

STEEL UNION PLANS TALKS WITH 6 FIRMS

Substantial Wage Increase Sought in Simultaneous Negotiations.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 12 (AP)—CIO steel workers mapped their strategy today for a fight to secure a "substantial wage increase" in simultaneous negotiations with six major steel producers.

The 170-member United Steel Workers wage policy committee approved the "substantial" boost demand of USW President David J. McDonald yesterday. McDonald declined to disclose the amount. Steel workers now average $2.33 an hour.

The union has about 600,000 members in basic steel plants, and as many more in steel fabricating firms. For the first time, talks will be held with six major steel firms concurrently. The USW plans to open bargaining sessions with U. S. Steel Corp. on June 7. McDonald said five other companies will begin negotiations in Pittsburgh immediately after the Big Steel talks are under way.

Until now, the union has negotiated first with U. S. Steel, the world's largest producer. Talks with the other big companies were kept on a stand-by basis. The settlement with Big Steel usually set the pattern for the other producers.

This year, talks will be held with Bethlehem Steel Corp., Republic Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., Inland Steel Co., and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., in addition to United States Steel.

McDonald said the simultaneous bargaining sessions were arranged at his request. The union and steel companies are to discuss wages only. A two-year contract, signed last year, permits re-opening of discussions only on hourly wages this year. If no agreement is reached by June 30, the union will be free to strike.

McDonald said he hopes to conclude talks with the six mafor producers "well in advance" of the deadline. Observers feel the union will settle for about a 12½ cent an hour increase and that there will be no strike.

Talks with steel fabricators will follow those with the makers of basic steel. The steel business is booming this year. Several steel executives have said any increase in wages would be offset by an increase in steel prices. Basic carbon steel now sells for about $125 a ton. A rise in steel prices probably would result in higher prices for automobiles, home appliances, and thousands of other items.

PRESIDENT NAMES JUDGE, SOME IN G.O.P. OBJECT

NEW YORK, May 12—President Eisenhower yesterday nominated, over the objections of many down-state Republican leaders, William B. Herlands, former state commissioner of investigation, to be a United States District Judge for the southern district of New York.

The White House said that Herlands, originally sponsored by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, had been approved for the nomination by Senator Irving M. Ives (Rep., New York), but it was learned that he had faced considerable opposition from midstate leaders, Representative Dean P. Taylor, Republican national committeeman from New York, had backed county court

CORNERSTONE FOR ADDITION TO DEACONESS HOSPITAL LAID

The cornerstone for a $2,200,000 addition to Deaconess Hospital, 6150 Oakland avenue, was laid yesterday by representatives of the hospital's department.

The new construction will provide another wing with 165 beds and a memorial chapel. This will be a 60-per-cent increase in the hospital's bed capacity. Only the mentally and chronically diseased will be treated in the new wing.

Plans call for construction to be completed in 1956.

Judge John M. Cashin of Ulster county for the post.

The Herlands nomination was expected to add tinder to the discontent among some Republican political leaders over federal disposition of patronage.

WEST, MALIK MEET ON DISARMING PLAN

Get Together in London to Consider Russian Peace Proposals.

LONDON, May 12 (UP)—Western diplomats meet today with Soviet Ambassador Jakob Malik to decide whether Russia's new disarmament proposals might provide a base for ending the cold war.

British State Under Secretary Anthony Nutting said yesterday the Soviet proposals gave the United Nations disarmament subcommittee talks here "a new lease on life."

The Soviet proposals appeared to agree with Western ideas on reducing standing armies. But the West wanted to look for any jokers and find out just how the Soviets planned to control and eliminate nuclear weapons.

The reaction to the Soviet proposal was the same throughout the free world.

At United Nations headquarters in New York, diplomats said it appeared that Russia was trying to regain the diplomatic initiative and said the concessions appeared real but probably were loaded with "gimmicks" that could nullify their value.

Western diplomats said the Soviet proposal for control of atomic weapons still appeared to fall short of the minimum safety requirements.

By the Associated Press.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Allied commander in Europe, said that to accept the Soviet proposal, including abolition of the A-bomb, would work to the disadvantage of the west.

Atomic weapons, he told the City Livery Club of London, are the Western powers' only means of evening the balance in conventional arms now favoring the Communists.

Gruenther said the West was against war — "not against any particular weapon of war."

"We are in favor of a disarmament program which will be safe and secure, but not in favor of one which will jeopardize the present unbalance."

"We still are not strong enough to defend Europe against being overrun if there should be an over-all attack against us. When the German contribution is effective three or four years from now, we will be able to prevent the overrunning of Europe."

"If war should unfortunately break out now, the enemy would be defeated. I am not using the term that we should win because I am sure that we agree that in the third world war you involve no winner."

EXPRESSES AMAZEMENT AT AMERICAN GENEROSITY

A European finds it astonishing that Americans are able to give such large donations to universities, museums and charities. Jacobus Van Zwijndrecht, deputy burgomaster for education and fine arts at The Hague, Netherlands, declared here yesterday.

Van Zwijndrecht, accompanied by his wife, is making a two-month tour of the United States under State Department auspices. He said that in the Netherlands most funds for museums and other institutions come from Government sources.

Mrs. Van Zwijndrecht said the modernity of American kitchens had impressed her during the American tour thus far. The two were to leave today for Topeka, Kan.

7 NATIONS AGREE ON LAST POINT TO EUROPEANIZE SAAR

PARIS, May 12 (AP)—Seven West European countries agreed last night on the last disputed point in plans for Europeanizing the Saar. They would not now disclose their decision.

The ministers said in a statement they wanted to give the Saar a European status—and had approved portions of a French-German agreement on the subject. The coal-rich Saar was German before World War II and now is virtually autonomous though tied to France economically.

The question was taken up at the foreign ministers' council of the new Western European Union. The council is composed of France, West Germany, Britain, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg.

The disputed point was whether the neutral high commission to be appointed for the Saar will have power to veto laws passed by the Saar government. West Germany had said it should have such authority. France and the pro-French Saar government said he should not.

KEFAUVER, LONG ASK BELL TO ARBITRATE

Union Agrees to Submit Dispute — Strike Now 60 Days Old.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Two United States Senators have joined union leaders in calling on the Southern Bell Telephone Co. to agree to arbitration in its dispute with striking workers.

Senator Kefauver (Dem., Tennessee), told the Senate yesterday that he had sent identical messages to the company and to the CIO Communications Workers of America, urging arbitration.

He said president J. A. Beirne of the CWA replied that the union would agree to submit unsettled issues to impartial arbitrators recommended by the Federal Mediation Service.

Kefauver added that he had not heard from the telephone company but hoped to have word soon.

Senator Long (Dem., Louisiana), supported Kefauver's stand. "This strike has gone on too long," Long told the Senate. "It should be and could be settled." If the company "would negotiate in good faith, the strike would have been settled," he added. The strike began 60 days ago.

Southern Bell Vice President F. M. Malone repeated today that the company did not believe arbitration would be in the public interest.

Last night petitions were circulated by the CWA at Chattanooga, Tenn., to ask Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee to urge Southern Bell to submit to arbitration.

President Eisenhower also suggested at his press conference yesterday that the telephone strike issues be submitted to arbitration. Union leaders have made repeated calls for arbitration but

Southern Bell turned down with the statement that it was a "calculated attempt to gain from an arbitrator what the union had not been able to justify through collective bargaining."

Strike violence broke out twice yesterday at Pensacola, Fla. Cecil Bragg, a striking telephone worker, was shot and wounded in a disturbance in front of the telephone exchange.

A few hours later, Angus Arant, a non-striking telephone employe, was beaten by three men in front of a residence to which he had been sent to remove a phone.

Neither was seriously injured. Southern Bell obtained a permanent court injunction against

STEVENSON SAYS HE WILL EXTEND VISIT IN AFRICA

ACCRA, Gold Coast, May 12 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, United States Democratic party leader who has been on a month-long safari through Africa, said today he planned to extend his visit a few days to inspect the Gold Coast's new development projects.

Stevenson had planned to catch a plane home tonight. He told newsmen the Gold Coast government had persuaded him to stay on a little longer to inspect new industrial schemes. Authorities here hope Stevenson can interest United States business men in investing capital in Africa's industrial development. Stevenson has made stopovers in Uganda, North Rhodesia's copper belt, the Congo, and the South African city of Johannesburg. He said he had found Africa full of surprises.

"My impression of Africa now is changed completely for the better," he said. "Really Africa is not what I thought."

Stevenson said the Gold Coast offered great opportunity and challenge in its new era of approaching independence.

WORLD FOOD EXPERTS URGE CONSERVATION OF FISH IN SEA

ROME, May 12 (AP)—Food experts from 45 nations have recommended that their governments study the world's fish resources and undertake international measures of conservation.

Ending a three-week meeting sponsored by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, the delegates adopted a resolution urging "international agreements assuring an effective defense of the resources of the sea."

A Latin-American proposal to allow coastal nations to enforce fishing conservation measures on the high seas was voted down. Peru, Chile and Ecuador claim their national sovereignty extends 200 miles to sea.

BRICKER SAYS HE WILL AGREE TO DELAY ON PLAN

He Will Go Along if Senate Decides to Defer Action on Amendment Until Next Year.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Senator Bricker (Rep., Ohio), said today it would be all right with him if Senate leaders decide to defer action until early next year on his controversial move to limit the treaty power.

"I would rather get it over with at this session," he said in an interview, "but if that is their decision, it's all right with me."

He added, however, he would want to be sure that his proposed constitutional amendment would be brought up early in next year's Senate session.

Senate Democratic leaders have not said what they would do about calling up Bricker's amendment and a greatly revised substitute proposed by Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, were defeated.

The Eisenhower Administration's opposition to the amendment was repeated by Secretary of State Dulles and Attorney General Brownell in recent testimony before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

The subcommittee ended its public hearings last yesterday, although Chairman Kefauver (Dem., Tennessee), said the record will be kept open for another week for filing of statements.

President Eisenhower recently said he would be perfectly willing to accept an amendment saying that any treaty or other international agreement in conflict with the Constitution shall be of no force or effect.

But he said he would go no further, as the Bricker amendment does. It proposes that any treaty or agreement could be nullified by the Senate only through the enactment of legislation in the absence of such an agreement.

Crux of Controversy.

This is the crux of the controversy, with proponents arguing it is needed to prevent the treaty power from being used to write domestic law and with opponents contending it would deprive the United States of authority to deal as an equal with other nations on many matters.

At the conclusion of the subcommittee's hearings, Senator Dirksen (Rep., Illinois), urged an early meeting to act on Bricker's amendment.

Dirksen, a supporter of the amendment, said he does not think it is necessary for the subcommittee to wait for the testimony taken in the hearings to be printed. Estimates were this would take four to six weeks.

Kefauver said he will try to arrange for a meeting of the subcommittee next week. He has emphasized that although personally opposed to the amendment, he is not in favor of bottling it up in committee.

4 Former FBI Agents Plan Library on Totalitarianism

New 'Foundation for American Research' Will Compile Material on Individuals, Groups Accused of Extremism.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Four former FBI agents today organized a project of compiling all available published material dealing with individuals and groups alleged to have subversive or totalitarian purposes.

They said the compilation would become "a free public library" in Washington.

An announcement of the plan, to be carried out under the name, "Foundation for American Research," was made by Stanley J. Tracy, a native of Ogden, Utah, who retired last year as assistant FBI director in charge of identifications.

Tracy said "there is a lot of published material on totalitarianism and there are some private libraries on the subject in parts of the country, but we want to bring the whole thing together into one free public library."

Tracy said the thought was that the organization would be supported by public donations. He said he and his associates had no idea yet how much money would be needed nor exactly how it would be raised.

No Evaluation.

"There would be no interpretation or evaluation of the material," Tracy said. "It will operate just like the Library of Congress. Anyone can come in and read the material."

Tracy said the officers of the organization would not be permitted to do any investigating nor would they testify voluntarily before congressional committees.

"It will be purely a private organization," Tracy said. "It has no connection with the Government."

Asked what criteria would be used to decide what would be considered subversive or totalitarian, Tracy said: "We consider any movement or groups inimical to the best interest of the United States to fall into that definition."

"We also would include groups declared to be totalitarian by competent authorities such as the States or the Attorney General."

"In general, persons or groups accused of Nazism, Fascism or Communism would be involved."

Joining Tracy in organizing the foundation are D. Milton Ladd, who formerly headed the FBI's internal security program; and Aaron W. Jacobson and Daniel L. O'Connor, both former special FBI agents.

Tracy said the organization would make no effort to decide whether the material placed in the library was accurate or not.

He said it would be up to the individuals studying the files to make their own decisions as to the accuracy of the material.

"It'll be just like any other library," he said.

"No secret or confidential documents will be included in the library," he added. "We will handle only matters of record—only published documents."

FBI officials declined comment on the organization, saying they could not make public statements about private groups.

RAIL FREIGHT WORKER PAY RISE AGREED ON

Increases for 2000 Switch Foremen Provided for in Another Pact.

CHICAGO, May 12 (AP)—The railroad men and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen agreed yesterday upon pay increases for some 63,000 operating workers in rail freight service.

Another pact between representatives of the western railroads and the Switchmen's Union of North America provides a 25-cent-a-day boost for about 2000 railroad switch foremen.

The agreement with the trainmen sets up a graduated rate of pay for road conductors and brakemen based on the number of cars in a freight train. Current rates of pay will be scaled upward, effective June 16, for train crews working on road freight trains of 81 or more cars.

Increases on longer freight trains range as follows: 81 to 105 cars, 45 cents a day additional; 106-125 cars, 85 cents a day additional; 126-145 cars, $1.10; 146-165 cars, $1.30 plus 20 cents additional a day for each additional block of 20 cars or less.

Road freight conductors now average $130 a week and road freight brakemen $104.50.

About 44,000 road freight conductors and road freight brakemen are involved in the agreement.

In addition, the agreement gives 21,000 yard conductors a 25-cent-a-day boost in the pay differential between yard conductors and yard brakemen. The present differential is 85 cents a day. This portion of the agreement is effective June 1.

Spokesmen for the railroads and the union said negotiations will continue on the union's request for a pay increase for yard workers on the five-day week.

The agreement with the switchmen, also effective June 1, calls for a 25 cents boost in the daily differential between switch foremen and yard helpers. The current differential is 85 cents. Negotiations between the switchmen and the western lines on the union's demand for higher pay for yard workers on the five-day week also are continuing.

FOUR BOYS BURN TO DEATH IN BLAZE IN APARTMENT

LOS ANGELES, May 12 (AP)—Four small boys were burned to death last night by a fire that swept through their second story apartment.

Investigators said they believed the blaze was started by a candle, being used in the small apartment which had been without electricity for two months because of the family's shortage of funds.

The boys' 10-year-old half sister, Margie Davenport, who had been caring for the children while the parents attended a movie, was seriously burned on the hands. She was rescued from the apartment by a neighbor, Wilbur Hamilton, who climbed a tree and kicked out a window. Efforts to rescue the boys failed.

The four boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Franklin, were identified as Leroy Jr., 4, Billy Ray, 3, Lewis Lee, 2, and Michael, 4 months.

NEW DEVICES TRAIN DOCTORS IN HEART DISEASE SOUNDS

Practicing physicians can improve their ability to interpret heart sounds with the stethoscope through training with modern electronic devices for recording these sounds, Dr. J. Scott Butterworth, associate professor of medicine at New York University Post-Graduate Medical School, said here last night.

Speaking at a dinner meeting at Hotel Sheraton, Dr. Butterworth addressed 35 physicians who are attending a two-day cardiac auscultation course at Firmin Desloge Hospital. The course employs the hospital's cardiophone, an electronic device developed by Dr. Butterworth, in training participants to recognize heart malfunctions by sound.

The cardiophone is an instrument that permits a group to hear heart sounds through stethoscopic attachments, while at the same time they watch the sound waves projected on an oscilloscopic screen. Dr. James G. Janney, director of the division of cardiology at St. Louis University School of Medicine, has charge of the course, which ends today.

CAPTURED AFTER ROBBERY OKLAHOMA BANK OF $17,351

HOOKER, Okla., May 12 (UP)—Otis Roland Woodring, 30-year-old former convict from Plainview, Tex., held up the First National Bank of Hooker yesterday and escaped with $17,351.

Three hours after robbing the bank and shutting seven employees in a vault, Woodring ran into a roadblock in Dodge City, Kan., and was seized by Sheriff O. L. Barngrover and his deputies.

Barngrover said Woodring confessed after C. E. Wilson, president of the bank, identified him. Barngrover said Woodring told him he robbed the bank "on the spur of the moment." Barngrover found a total of $17,351 and a revolver on Woodring.

$3,000,000 IN NARCOTICS REPORTED SEIZED IN EGYPT

CAIRO, May 12 (AP)—The Egyptian Frontier Corps today reported the seizure of an estimated $3,000,000 worth of hashish and opium from a desert caravan east of Suez.

An official of the corps said it was the Egyptian Government's biggest narcotic haul of the century.

The official said frontier guards surrounded the Cairo-bound caravan last night and arrested three persons and confiscated the 2½-ton cargo.

RADIOACTIVE COBALT CHIPS FOR MEDICINE

AEC Has Given Hospitals Material Equivalent to 2,000,000 Lbs. of Uranium.

Radioactive material equivalent to 2,000,000 pounds of uranium has been shipped to hospitals throughout the country by the Atomic Energy Commission since 1946, Hubert N. Alyea, professor of chemistry at Princeton University, reported here last night.

Addressing a banquet at the convention of the refining division of the American Petroleum Institute at Hotel Jefferson, Prof. Alyea said cobalt chips costing $10,000 each for medical use are equal to $25,000,000 worth of uranium.

In the electric power field, the AEC is building generating plants at least five different designs, he said, adding that electric power from a nuclear reactor may cost as little as seven mills per kilowatt hour within five years.

To avoid total destruction in an atomic war, Alyea urged complete demilitarization of every nation but maintenance of a standing army. He opposed destroying our nuclear weapons.

The centennial anniversary of the analysis by Prof. Benjamin Stillman Jr. of Yale University, which is credited with having sparked the development of the American atomic industry, was observed by the presentation of a memorial plaque to Yale Prof. Barnett F. Dodge, president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

The Stillman report, in 1855, dispelled doubts that so-called "rock oil" had led to the drilling of the first commercial oil well in 1859.

Better performing and more economical automobiles were foreseen by A. L. Lyman, California Research Corp., who issued a paper on the changing demands on oil refineries. Lyman said changes in demands will result in increased energy requirements and in quality and formulation. The net result, Lyman said, would be higher performance.

Two Receive Awards

Two petroleum chemists received the institute's annual certificate of appreciation awards at the dinner. They are E. L. Baldeschwieler, retired laboratory chief of Esso Research and Engineering Co., Linden, N.J., and A. E. Miller, assistant to the vice president in the research and development department at Sinclair Refining Co., New York.

Baldeschwieler, Swiss-born analytical chemist, was commended for leading "his profession toward a broader role in the operations of the petroleum industry." The citation declared that "his keen perception, broad knowledge and thorough comprehension place him in the forefront of the committee on analytical research."

Miller's citation praised him for his "dogged devotion and stubborn persistence" in bringing many projects "to fruition when others had given up in dismay. He is a member of the committee on petroleum products."

ANTI-TRUST SUIT IS FILED AGAINST LINEN SUPPLY FIRM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 12 (UP)—A civil anti-trust suit was filed in United States District Court today charging the American Linen Supply Co. of Chicago and two principal officers with violating the Sherman and Clayton acts.

Frank G. Steiner, president of the linen supply company, and Jonas H. Mayer, vice president, were named in the suit.

The defendants are accused of using unfair trade practices to strain customers from purchasing collateral materials from competitors. The Justice Department said the company was the largest manufacturer of cloth and paper towel dispensing cabinets in the United States. The complaint said the company distributes these cabinets through linen supply companies and paper jobbers throughout the country.

The complaint said the defendants require these companies to agree to purchase their total requirements of paper towels from defendants, and (2) to exact written contracts from their customers requiring them to purchase all of their paper towel requirements from the jobber installing the cabinets.

SAFE CONTAINING JEWELS WORTH $25,000 IS STOLEN

DETROIT, May 12 (UP)—Thieves ransacked the suburban home of Alfred Loewenstein Sr. and carried off a wall safe containing between $25,000 and $40,000 in jewels, state police said today.

Loewenstein is a member of a wealthy wholesale meat family in Detroit.

Police said the thieves pried a six by 10-inch cylinder safe from the wall of the home and carried it off. The safe contained a diamond collar necklace, a diamond cocktail ring, a set of diamond earrings, an aquamarine pin and a ring set with cabochon rubies.

Mrs. Loewenstein told police she discovered the theft when she returned home late yesterday. She said she had been gone since morning. The servants had been given the day off, she said.

M'Kay Is Accused of 'Give-Away' In Repealing Power Line Rule

House Committee Witness Says Secretary Dropped Requirement U.S. Could Use Wires Over Public Lands.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The action of Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay in "repealing" a regulation intended to protect low-cost distribution of federal power to co-operatives and similar marketing agencies came under fire yesterday as a "give-away."

The regulation, dropped last August by the Interior Department without publicity, provided that private utilities could obtain permits to build transmission lines across public lands, if they granted the Government the right to transmit federally-generated power over any unused capacity of the lines upon payment of an equitable share of the operation and maintenance costs.

Under McKay's action the department will no longer require such transmission privilege in granting rights-of-way easements over public land.

Blow at 'Low-Cost Power.'
Testifying before the House Government Operations Committee, which is investigating the matter, Walton Seymour, former director of the division of power in the Interior Department under the Truman Administration, said yesterday that McKay's action means the Interior Department "has given up a right which was worth a great deal to the Government and the preferred customers of its low-cost power output."

"Given up or given away?" Seymour was asked by Representative Robert E. Jones (Dem., Ala.).

"Given away," Seymour replied.

"The public is going to be hurt," Seymour continued, "because the department gave up a valuable right which, if held, would have been reflected in lower costs. Now the consumer is going to have to pay higher costs for power, if he is able to get it."

Seymour said that the joint use of transmission lines by private power companies and the Government was "economical and in the public interest." The McKay order, he said, means that the federal marketing agencies probably will have to build transmission lines of their own, paralleling those of the private companies, which will mean additional expense to the taxpayers and probably higher costs for federal power to Rural Electrical Administration co-ops, municipalities and other public bodies which are preferred customers for federal power.

Names Utility.
Asked by Jones if he knew who had requested the Interior Department to "abandon these rights," Seymour replied:

"I saw a photostatic copy of correspondence indicating the change was made at the request of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. This was one of the companies the Interior Department earlier had been unable to reach an agreement with to transmit public power over its facilities." The regulation was written in 1948, Seymour said, to implement public power laws dating back to 1905 which direct the Secretary of the Interior to guard the public's interest in the matter of power distribution. These laws clearly reflected the intent of Congress in the power field, Seymour continued, and they have not been repealed.

Elimination of the regulation

"seems to be in the direction that the Government is no longer leaning over backwards to see that co-ops and public bodies will get the low cost power they were guaranteed by law," he said.

Members of the committee indicated that the inquiry into the McKay action in this instance is only the beginning of an examination of Interior's policy toward low-cost marketing of power, not only for ordinary consumption but for irrigation, flood control and development of natural resources.

MARRIAGE CULMINATES 53-YEAR-OLD ROMANCE

HOLLYWOOD, May 12 (AP)—Tom Kilshaw and Polly Shuttlesworth Chapin—whose romance began 53 years ago—were married in the Hollywood Lutheran Church yesterday. They were childhood sweethearts in England but lost track of one another in 1907 when Kilshaw went to Canada.

Last Christmas a friend in the couple's home town of Kendal, Westmoreland, England, sent Kilshaw a card with the address of his onetime sweetheart, who by then was a widow living in Palo Alto, Calif.

The plane carrying the card crashed, and Kilshaw almost did not get it. Finally it came—waterstained and battered. Kilshaw went to Palo Alto and soon the romance was on again.

The bridegroom is a livestock auctioneer. He and the new Mrs. Kilshaw are both 68.

GRAHAM BACK IN LONDON, READY FOR NEW CRUSADE

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Billy Graham came back yesterday to London, one of his favorite preaching grounds, saying he was in great form and ready for another evangelistic crusade.

The American evangelist arrived from Glasgow where he conducted a six-week campaign. A large group of English churchmen met him at London's Euston station.

Graham will open a seven-day campaign Saturday at Wembley Stadium where he scored a triumph last year at the end of a previous London crusade.

Adm. Strauss in Madrid. MADRID, May 12 (AP)—Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, and his wife arrived by plane today from Paris. They are to leave Monday for Lisbon on the way home. Strauss has been touring western Europe for three weeks.

Possum Trot Farm

A Pleasant Journey,
But on the Wrong Day

By Leonard Hall

MAY is racing along like a jack rabbit. Our pace in pursuit of it reminds us rather of the short-legged beagle hound than of the stream-lined whippet. At the end of April came the "watershed clinic" sponsored by Friends of the Land. Here we found ourselves moderating the panel discussion at the end of the meeting as substitute for our good friend Louis Bromfield, who didn't make it home in time from Norway. This seemed something like promising the customers caviar and serving them catfish. Nevertheless, we acquired a great deal of valuable information that day about water supplies, water tables, irrigation, watershed conservancy districts as opposed to "high dams" and other subjects of interest and importance to tomorrow's food picture. In addition to Dr. Jon Forman and Ollie Fink of the national Friends of the Land, the meeting attracted visitors from out-state Illinois and Missouri.

WE WERE HARDLY HOME long enough following this meeting to get the spring manure hauling under way where we were off again for a travel talk in St. Louis and to attend the annual dinner of the Roosevelt High School Journalistic Society, Quill and Scroll, which publishes the highly credible weekly newspaper "The Rough Rider." The organization seemed to us unusually well sponsored and directed, and the 40 or so students who make up the membership are an intelligent and attractive group of youngsters; an opinion we're sure is not influenced by the fact that they'd honored us, a year or so ago, by naming their chapter after us.

Our next adventure could only have happened to someone as chronically and historically absent-minded as a writer. Whenever the affairs of the farm permit, we enjoy attending the meetings of the Missouri Writers Guild and especially the joint meeting which this year holds annually with the Missouri School of Journalism during journalism week at Columbia. This year we decided we couldn't go and then, as occasionally happens, lost the program of the meeting in our files. Then Bob Herford, the guild president, called to say that we'd received one of the society's annual awards and must be on hand at luncheon to receive congratulations.

THERE WAS SOME of the usual backing and filling over the phone as to dates for the affair. The upshot of this was that I and I arose at dawn one morning, a full hour earlier than usual, and donned our best bibs and tuckers and drove the 165 miles up to the university. Promptly at noon we reported in to the Students Union, only to find that we were just 24 hours late for the luncheon. Nor was this the worst of it. When we came back to Possum Trot late that night, we found on the dining room table a handsome mahogany shield with an engraved brass plaque announcing our award; and a letter signed by Jean Bell Mosely of Cape Girardeau, new president of the Writers Guild. Vic and Gladys Russell of Dexter and other writing friends from southeast Missouri. On the way home from the meeting they'd stopped at Possum Trot for a special presentation ceremony, only to find us away and the house empty. Just how to make our apologies for all this, we don't quite know and perhaps it would be best not even to try.

AS LUCK WOULD HAVE IT, this day ended well and we felt amply repaid for our long drive up to Boone and Callaway counties. We put in a long-distance call for Crump Lane Farm, some 40 miles away in Callaway, and found the Van Dykes at home and told them to wait lunch for us. An hour later we turned down their prairie road along the hedge of multiflora rose and soon were enjoying tossed salad of home grown lettuce and a fine, well-cured Callaway county ham, than which there is none better, on the screened porch of their beautiful old log cabin. Afterward we drove out over the broad, rolling pastures to look at the small-grain and grass seedings done in established seed with the "grassland drill," a grass farmer's tool that we're going to have to add to our equipment at Possum Trot one of these days.

As often happens when the afternoon is pleasant, we stayed longer than we should have. Then we followed a different route home, coming down to cross the Missouri at Hermann and on through Owensville to Cuba and Steelville. Dusk and a tremendous hatch of insects caught us as we drove eastward across Highway 8 to Potosi. Here we stopped for gasoline and to have the windshield cleaned. Later we were glad enough to come rolling in to Possum Trot as the light in the house to welcome us and Mike and Tiger met us at the front gate. Veronica came "meowing" out of the darkness to ask for supper and from the barnyard came the soft, steady cadence of Peggy's cow bell. Indoors we found the message from our friends of the Writers Guild and recalled, for the first time in several hours, that we'd really left the farm on a wild goose chase.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

SOME DATE PROBLEMS are caused just because somebody talked too much.

A little thing like too much chatter about a boy can cause shyness, embarrassment, painful teasing — and ruin a fine date-duet before it even begins.

A girl writes about how it happened to her:

"I have started liking a boy in a higher grade. He doesn't know me to say 'Hello,' and my friends have told him so many times that I like him, that I'm beginning to think he believes I'm chasing him, but I'm really not. When we had our school dance, he didn't dance with me, but acted as if he liked me. How can I get acquainted with him?"

Answer — There are some things that should be private and not talked about even with your "best" friends. Your latest dream-date is one of those things. Chatter about him too much, and your "best friends" will tell the world about it. His friends will tease him and he'll avoid you to avoid being embarrassed.

It sounds as though you've told too many people that you like this boy, making him shy and afraid to show an interest in you.

So now you'll have to avoid any appearance of chasing him and try to get acquainted by including him in a group... perhaps a party, a picnic, or a shindig at your home, club or school where there are other boys and girls and you can appear casual about it, as if he were just one of the crowd.

After this, when you like a boy, things will go more smoothly, if you don't broadcast it!

A New Slice for the Old Tomato

There Are Numerous Excellent Variations to Try—Suggestions Offered

By Hoyt Alden

THE tomato was once called the love apple, and was considered poisonous. I think they are still considered poisonous by a large segment of the feminine population, except under certain conditions. Those conditions are that the tomato be either sliced or stewed. Cook them any other way and they are more deadly than a jigger of potassium cyanide.

That's the only way I can account for the fact that it's all but impossible in most American homes to find tomatoes served anyway but sliced and stewed. The Little Woman isn't taking any chances with those love apples.

Not that there's anything wrong with a plate of real cold sliced tomatoes garnished with parsley and Bermuda onion rings and sprinkled with a little oil and vinegar, especially on a hot day. It can be wonderful. As for stewed tomatoes — I guess there's nothing wrong with stewed tomatoes. Maybe it's just me. Someone must like them, or there never would have been such a thing as stewed tomatoes.

But the point is that while the tomato may not be as versatile as, say, the potato or the egg, it still lends itself to a lot of excellent variations, which is just another way of saying that there are a lot of things you can do to a tomato besides slice and stew. And most of them are superior.

Of course they are a little more trouble, but good things always are, like the following variation of stuffed and baked tomatoes:

Select 16 big, ripe tomatoes, as uniform and perfect as possible. Cut off a lid at the stem end and scoop out most of the pulp which you are going to save. Then salt and pepper the tomatoes on the inside and place them upside down on a platter to drain.

Chop three tablespoons of parsley and a teaspoon of garlic. Chop the garlic very fine. Cut 10 slices of white bread into little cubes and pour a cup of consomme over them. Then add a can of anchovy fillets to the bread cubes and then work the bread and anchovies through a coarse sieve.

Put about eight tablespoons of olive oil into an iron skillet and when it's very hot put the tomatoes in, cut side down but not touching each other, and let them cook for a couple of minutes. Turn them over and let them cook a minute on the other side. Then carefully remove them and place them in a couple of well buttered baking dishes.

Now put six tablespoons of olive oil in a frying pan and fry six tablespoons of chopped onion until they start to brown. Then add the tomato pulp, then the garlic and parsley. Season it with salt and pepper and let it cook three minutes. Take it off the fire and the puree of bread and anchovies. Mix it all well and stuff the tomatoes. Sprinkle a lot of toasted bread crumbs over them. Put them in a hot oven and bake them until they're browned on top. Then sprinkle them with chopped parsley and serve them while they're hot. That's something you can do with tomatoes.

Fried tomatoes, like fried eggplant, seem to have a limited following. But the following includes me, and I'm right near the head of the parade. Particularly when they're fixed this way.

Slice the tomatoes in three-quarter inch slices. Sprinkle the slices on both sides with salt and pepper and a very light pinch of sugar. Dip each piece, both sides, in flour.

Put a lot of butter and bacon drippings in equal parts in a heavy skillet and don't skimp. Fry the tomatoes quickly on one side, turn them carefully and fry the other side, put them in a hot place while you fry the rest. When they're all done, pour a cup of cream in the pan, stir it around good, season it to taste, pour it over the tomatoes and serve them up.

There are a lot of ways to broil tomatoes, the simplest and one of the best being just to stick them under the broiler. But if you want to dress them up a little, try this:

Get large firm tomatoes and cut them in half crosswise. Trim a little off each end to give a flat base. Salt and pepper them and let them stand a few minutes.

Then put them in a greased shallow pan and sprinkle them with bread crumbs and put a teaspoon or so of melted butter on each one over the bread crumbs and then put them under the broiler at 375 degrees.

When the tomatoes start to wrinkle and the crumbs are brown, take them out and cover each tomato with brown sugar, about a teaspoon to each tomato half. Pour a little more melted butter over the sugar and put them under the broiler until the sugar melts. They're mighty good around a roast. Mighty good.

And for a summer time salad, you can't beat this: Mix a fourth cup of finely chopped parsley, a fourth cup of chopped green onions and a little thyme and salt and pepper. Add this to five tablespoons of oil and two tablespoons of wine vinegar. Now peel and cut up a half dozen firm, ripe cold tomatoes. Put them in a salad bowl, pour on the dressing mixture and stir no more than necessary to get the tomatoes well marinated.

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

Safety for the Home Handyman. A FEW weeks back there was a report in the papers on the thousands of people who were hurt last year because of part time plumbers, carpenters, painters, masons and general handymen.

Now while we believe in fixing things yourself, we don't want anyone to end up in a hospital or at the doctor's just because he tried to save a few dollars or get a little relaxation out of doing odd jobs about the house.

We've been fooling around with ladders, saws, hammers and power tools for a good many years now and what we've been hurt there has always been just one reason—we stopped thinking of what we were doing and started to think about something else.

If you start hammering a nail and start thinking about something else besides that hammer and that nail, there is a fair chance that you will hit your thumb with the hammer. If you are using a saw or chisel and forget what you are doing, you are darn likely to cut yourself.

There is one good way to avoid injury on any sort of job and that's to think safety every minute. If you are too tired for this sort of concentration — do something else like sitting down and not think at all.

Too many of us try working on jobs in the evening after a hard day's work on jobs that require us to think safety and we are just too tired to do so. Jobs like this should be left to the weekends when we are fresh and rested up. Too many of us try to do everything in one day and end up by getting over-tired and over-strained. It's not worth it.

We feel darn sure that anyone smart enough to do odd jobs about the house is smart enough not to get hurt if they are mentally alert and are able to concentrate on what they are doing and on safety.

Sprinkle sliced fresh pears with lemon juice and arrange them in alternate layers of sliced oranges in a pretty glass bowl. Sprinkle each layer lightly with sugar. Top with moist shredded coconut. It's a delicious dessert patterned after the famous Southern concoction called Ambrosia.

Let's Explore Your Mind

1. OLDER PEOPLE ARE BETTER DEPARTMENT STORE SALESPERSONS THAN YOUNGER PEOPLE. TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

Answer to Question 1. In most positions, yes, according to Thomas Desmond in Journal of Living. One leading department store manager said, "My older saleswomen have more repeat sales, fewer returns of items than do younger women."

Ohio State students under psychologist Pressey found older men and women in department stores earned more, had higher ratings by supervisors, received more promotions, and had far less absenteeism. Employers are just discovering this gold mine.

Answer to Question 2. Very often. This is one of the strange contradictions in human nature. One standard test of personality is the question: "Do you often feel lonely in a crowd?" A yes answer indicates you are afraid of others—feel "left out" while others are gay. So, a crowd sets up barriers and increases your loneliness.

Answer to Question 3. Teacher Marion V. Brown, after teaching a class of brilliant children for two years in Brooklyn schools, says a better word than gifted would be blessed—children blessed with better health, happier homes, better coordinated nervous systems than average children. Instead of being frail and likely to "burn out," nearly all gifted children have better all around minds, dispositions, behavior, and sociability than average, especially if they have happy homes.

Right to Be Different

By Angelo Patri

MANY a child's life has been made miserable and many a parent has been alienated from his child because he tried to make him something he was not and could not be. Everybody has the right to be different. As no two people ever were born alike it must follow that one differs from another. That difference is precious to the individual to whom it belongs. It is what makes him a person. It is impossible to eradicate it and nobody ought to attempt it. Any such effort becomes an attack on the personality of the child and that is forbidden by nature.

A mother looks at her daughter who is playing baseball with the boys and anger rises within her. Why should her daughter be a tomboy and her neighbor's heart's love be a dainty lady? She'll stop this nonsense once and for all and her daughter will dress and act as a well brought up child should or she'll know the reason why.

A FATHER LOOKS at his son buried deep in study and groans. All his life he has wanted a son who would be a star on the baseball field and here he has a professional man emerging. He is fine-boned, light in weight, intelligent and studious and without the slightest interest in baseball. Dad's been "cheated" and though he tries not to let his son feel his disappointment it goes deep. And son knows it.

No child has ever grown up without giving his father and mother many a troubled if not a frightened hour. For their comfort let it be said that most of what they feared did not come to pass. The children have a way of growing through changing phases and though watchful care is always needed, seldom is there real cause for anxiety or disappointment.

THE LITTLE GIRL who at age 10 plays baseball and hates dresses will grow through that phase before long. She will lose the idea sooner if not pressed to do so. Meanwhile, she will have gained a sturdy body which will stand her in good stead. And she will know a great deal about boys and their ways and will view both in wholesome fashion. I've seen many a tomboy grow into a fine young woman.

If fathers and mothers were wise they would not set a pattern for the life of a child but watch him develop the pattern that was set in him at the very beginning and nurture and guide his growth in the direction that seemed to suit his peculiar gifts. It is not the career a son or daughter follows but his way of life that matters.

Everybody has the right to his difference as long as it does not hurt others.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

BE brief, was George Bernard Shaw's unflinching advice to aspiring writers. I was walking down the Embankment in London with him one day when a young writer held out his hand and announced, "My name is Rothschild, Mr. Shaw." Shaw, without so much as breaking his stride, answered, "Goodbye, Mr. Rothschild."

"That"—he told me a moment later—"is brevity." Brevity is not always so simple to attain. The eloquent Woodrow Wilson once remarked that it would take him two weeks to prepare a 10-minute speech, one week for a speech of an hour. Asked how long he would need to prepare a two-hour speech, he replied, "That I can do—right now."

OVERHEARD in the coffee shop of a downtown skyscraper: "I better be getting back to my desk or I'll be late for quitting time."

Small Prep School With Big Ideas

Academic Work Is Hard, but Students Grade Teachers And They in Turn Have Full Say at Thomas Jefferson

By John Keasler

THOMAS JEFFERSON School out near Kirkwood is a small prep school with some big ideas. Chief among these is the idea that education should be operated by—of all people—educators. The entire operation, matter of fact, could well turn the hidebound-type headmaster of folklore a pale green in alarm. Why? Well, the students can, and do, grade the teachers. They have a vote in school matters. The teachers are empowered to fire the headmaster, or to raise their own salaries.

The headmaster doesn't mind—it's his idea. How is it all working out? "After nine years, I believe I can safely say we're doing rather well," said Robin McCoy, the headmaster, a man addicted to the reserved language of his profession even in the face of some rather startling news released this week.

Of the school's graduating class of 10 students this year, five will receive scholarships to Harvard; three of these will be the coveted Harvard National Scholarship. If anybody can beat that academically, McCoy doesn't know about it.

Of course, this startlingly high record is due in part to the fact that Thomas Jefferson gets some smart students to start with—or, rather, goes out after them. That, in fact, is one of the two main goals of the school: "To find the best possible students and give them the best possible education."

The long-range goal of Thomas Jefferson, as expressed by McCoy, is to set an example: to show that democracy, with its tool of the vote, will work in education. Putting this into practice, as has been done at Jefferson, makes for a picture which is, to say the least, unusual.

The faculty runs the school. No ifs or buts. They run it, on the basis of the simple majority vote. The teachers are the trustees. No school board, irritated alumnus or other factor looms in the background. The teacher-trustees, including McCoy, have one vote each and those votes are the sole authority.

In 1946 when the school was founded, some were appalled at the idea of teachers handling cold business affairs, and being their own bosses. Teachers were supposed to be vague types; every body knew that. Whoever heard of a faculty actually handling all affairs of a school, from big-picture administration to hiring a new cook?

McCoy had. He came blithely out of the East, where he Harvard's hallowed halls, and put his ideas into practice. Here's how it happened that Thomas Jefferson School, on Lindbergh three miles south of Kirkwood, was founded.

McCoy, the son of a Pawhuska (Okla.) lawyer, studied at Cambridge University after his graduation from Harvard, then taught in this country, and went back to Harvard for graduate work.

The idea bugging around in his mind was that the organization of authority in education is handled wrong, by and large. That authority, he felt, should be in the hands of educators. Lawyers and other professional men handle their own affairs. Why shouldn't educators handle theirs? That's the way it worked at Cambridge and Oxford, he knew, and those institutions seemed to be doing pretty well.

"Why should the authority in education be handled by people who don't teach and hope to goodness they never have to teach?" he asked. He was articulate about his ideas. He found backing.

MONEY to found the school came from members of the Charles E. Merrill family. (Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Beane.) McCoy chose St. Louis as the best place to start the school. A 1924-built mansion on 42 acres of shady, grassy grounds is the site. Charles E. Merrill Jr., a faculty member at Harvard, is a faculty member; one of the original teachers at the school.

In the beginning McCoy found himself with four students, five teachers and plans for six tennis courts. Enrollment now is 40, just about capacity because enrollment is kept purposefully small. The faculty numbers seven. (The courts have been bolstered with a new gym.)

Now 41 years old, McCoy, a tall, quiet-spoken man, has perhaps the most versatile headmaster's office in existence. Informally furnished (piano, hi-fi, contour chair, red telephone and modernistic paintings), it is headquarters for trustee meetings; nucleus for all school affairs and, in addition, McCoy, a bachelor, sleeps there on a sofa bed.

The trustee meetings are a weekly affair. Originally, McCoy, as headmaster, had two votes but this was changed by his own motion.

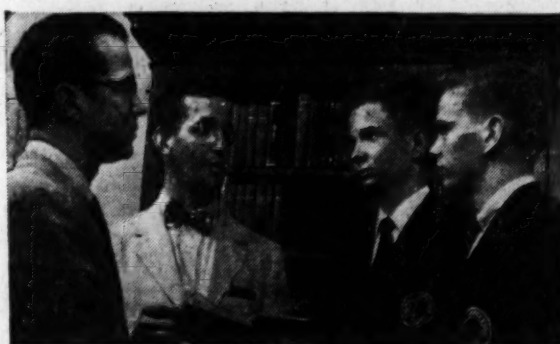

Now he has one vote like everybody else. All matters pertaining to school are settled at the trustee meetings, from the largest expenditure of money to—recently—scholarship discussion of the type of hall carpet to buy. (Nylon, because it wears well.) No ghost of final authority hangs over the teachers; as trustees they ARE the authority.

If a majority of them voted to fire McCoy he would be fired. New faculty members are usually proposed by McCoy who is authorized to take trips to search out a new man when required. However, the new man is allowed no vote the first year to prevent any possibility of a headmaster packing the staff for votes.

The pay scale is high—an average $5900. It operates on the automatic increase principle. Here's the scale: A.B. no experience starts $4000. Up $350 a year to $5000. Up $300 a year to $6000. Up $250 a year to $7000. Each year of graduate study or business experience adds $100 to the starting pay and each year of teaching experience adds $150 to the starting pay.

ROBIN MCCOY, THOMAS JEFFERSON'S HEADMASTER. . . ONE OF THE SCHOOL'S MAIN GOALS IS "TO FIND THE BEST POSSIBLE STUDENTS AND GIVE THEM THE BEST POSSIBLE EDUCATION." RESULT: OF THE 10 STUDENTS GRADUATING THIS YEAR FIVE WILL RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS TO HARVARD.

The teacher-trustees recently have voted on everything from a new dishwashing machine (yes) to major administrative matters. McCoy said it works fine and feels it is far superior to any autocratic system.

"THE system of teachers operating the place they teach is bound to be more efficient," he said. "Democracy, it seems to me, is successful essentially because it is the most efficient form of communication in government. The person at the top cannot successfully resist valid and good information."

What kind of a school is it? The physical layout is attractive; the campus gives an impression of cool greenness, lofty trees, with the inevitable prep school station wagon parked in the shade. Boys' rooms are bright, cheerful, hung with frequently-changed paintings.

The school is non-sectarian, non-military, incorporated not-for-profit and the academic standards hinge on hard work. The students get a minimum of six hours after-class work. If the six hours requires eight hours, that's too bad.

Thomas Jefferson seeks out smart students, then loads them down. Some 85 per cent of the enrollment is taking or has taken Greek. Classes may contain only five or six students in any given subject. High standards must be maintained by all.

It Can Be Done
The Way to Squelch Bores
By Mary Margaret McBride

THE successful female decorator was being rude and descending to a friend who knew her when, and he was growing restive under the treatment.

Finally, after an especially tactless remark, he looked at her coldly and said softly but distinctly, "Haven't you put on quite a lot of weight lately?"

The effect was electrifying. The woman's mouth fell open, she flushed scarlet and actually began muttering something about a diet.

ALL MY LIFE I've been on the lookout for something to say that would gently insult a bore and at the same time be definitely the last word. I think now I've found it.

Under intolerable provocation I've felt tempted at times to use that famous squelch attributed to John Drew, the famous actor, confronted with one of those unspeakable creatures who catch you in a crowd and ask coyly, "You don't remember me, do you?" "No," replied Drew coldly, "but say something wonderful now so that I'll never forget you."

Comedian Groucho Marx's mocking response to the same plaint was, "I NEVER forget a face, but I'll make an exception in your case."

Sometimes, however, a shaft is so subtle it misses its mark. I've always enjoyed the story, probably apocryphal, about Beatrice Lillie, who listened patiently while a sharp-tongued actress criticized their mutual friend and colleague for being conceited.

"Oh, I don't know," Miss Lillie murmured, "I think you should try to put yourself in the other fellow's shoes. She has a lot to be conceited about. And YOU have so much to be MODEST about!" (The listener never got it.)

I LIKE, TOO, poet Carl Sandburg's retort discursive when playwright repudiated him for nodding off in his aisle seat at the opening of a new production.

"I wanted your opinion of the play," the author said. "Sleep," replied Sandburg, "is an opinion."

VIEW OF SHADED THOMAS JEFFERSON PREP SCHOOL, ON LINDBERGH THREE MILES SOUTH OF KIRKWOOD.

term exams, they also get examined; graded. Students, on unsigned blanks, turn in their comments on each teacher, four times a year. Most of these are complimentary; some aren't. ("Duller this year than last." "Too preoccupied.")

All of these comments are shown to all faculty members, to prevent any chance of a headmaster using specific comments selectively as a weapon against any single teacher.

AND that's the system employed by a small school on Lindbergh. McCoy's hope is to see the system spread.

He said in his opinion education faces three alternatives: the status quo with what he feels are strong autocratic overtones; strong unionism among educators, or injection of more democracy into education.

"Democracy will work in schools as well as in the nation," he said. "After all, schools are supposed to teach democracy. Too many teachers can only give it lip service. They can explain free speech, but are not allowed to practice it."

In brief, he said, give educators the authority to educate; let them handle the controls.

Thomas Jefferson is proud of the fact—under the system outlined by McCoy—that it doesn't spend much money on buildings and the like; gets bright and cheerful effects through a maximum of adaption and ideas, and a minimum of cash outlay.

"We hold the world's record for the amount of money NOT spent on buildings," McCoy said proudly. "We prefer to invest what money we have in the only permanent investment in the world—people." successful argument was the time would be better spent preparing for college.

The six-member student council may call meetings with the trustees on any matter other than major school administration problems. If the boys can swing even one teacher over to their side they win. This has happened. It has also happened that the teachers, no mean debaters themselves, have split the council down the middle.

"We prefer to err in the direction of giving students too much freedom rather than not enough," McCoy said.

A very real democracy exists in these meetings. The students are promised "congressional immunity." One irate student once, without reprisal, shouted at the faculty: "I wish you men would quit being McCoy's rubber stamps!"

Right now, student politicking is underway to do away with the prescribed dinner dress of coat and tie for Friday night meals. McCoy views this with mild alarm. The boys think they can swing it. A rumormongering of Bermuda shorts appeared ill-fated.

Discussion Of Two Key Trade Bills

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK

ONE constantly sees in the newspapers the suggestion that we ought to increase our trade and decrease aid to foreign countries. But, almost invariably when the crucial time comes not just to talk but to put this feeling into action, practically nobody wants to reduce a tariff that has favored his particular industry.

I received a plea the other day from the Citizens Conference on International Economic Union asking the support of two key bills that are now before the Congress. These bills, HR 1 and HR 5550, would carry out the President's foreign trade program. HR 1 is the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1955. It would continue the reciprocal trade agreements program until 1958, it would continue the President's power to negotiate for the reduction of foreign barriers to American goods, and it would allow him to make moderate reductions in some American tariffs in return for these foreign reductions.

THIS DOES not seem a great deal of power to grant to the President. It is true that any reductions in tariffs probably means that the industries involved have to make some changes. Either they do not make quite such high profits or they must make savings that would make it possible for their profits to continue at the same level.

In some extreme cases it may be possible for some business to vary their production or even to change it. This should, however, only be necessary in cases where obviously an industry is not actually suited to our country's conditions and we can better be served by imports from abroad.

This is rare, indeed, but if it does occur then the Government probably should be prepared to help the industries readjust to new conditions.

HR 5550 gives the President authority to make the United States a member of the Organization for Trade Co-operation, known as OTC. This organization's main purpose is to provide the machinery to make effective the General Agreements on Tariffs and Trades, known as GATT.

Thirty-four nations are signatories to this agreement. In signing they agreed to follow the code it contains and not to impose unreasonable barriers to the products of their neighbors. Therefore, the Reciprocal Trade Agreement covered in HR 1 and the Free World Trade Code have become linked together and it is essential to pass HR 1 or we could not remain as members of GATT. That would mean that we were practically inviting trade warfare among the world's free nations. Since we do not want warfare but do want co-operation, HR 5550 is essential.

The President can then make us a member of the organization for trade co-operation. This group will administer the 34-nation agreement, which covers 80 per cent of world trade and which has succeeded in maintaining a tariff truce since 1947 and in reducing barriers to trade.

Open Shrimp Snacks
Ingredients: One-half pound soft or semi-soft medium shrimp or sharp cheddar cheese, one-half cup (one-fourth pound) butter or margarine, one pound shrimp (cooked and deveined), one-fourth cup minced onion or 2 tablespoons finely grated onion (pulp and juice), one-half teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-fourth cup lemon juice, six frankfurter rolls, a little extra soft butter or margarine.
Method: Have cheese (if it is the soft type) and butter at room temperature. If cheese is semi-soft, coarsely grate it—there should be two cups lightly packed. Reserve six shrimp for a garnish and chop remaining shrimp mixture with sharp knife. Stir cheese, butter, onion, Worcestershire, lemon juice and paprika together. Stir in chopped shrimp. Split frankfurter rolls lengthwise and spread with shrimp mixture so edges are covered. Cut the six reserved shrimp in half lengthwise and garnish each snack with a half; spread a little soft butter over each shrimp half. Place open sandwiches on aluminum foil on broiling pan about three inches from high heat until bubbly and speckled with brown—three to five minutes. Watch closely so as not to burn. Remove snacks carefully from foil with wide spatula. Makes 12 snacks.

A Good Idea
It's a good idea not to repeat two fruit flavors in a dinner menu. If you are serving fruit as a first course, or as an accompaniment to the main course, you'll find coffee- or chocolate-flavored desserts make a fine ending to the meal.

Discount

A DISCOUNT is a sum of money offered for payment in cash, or for payment within a limited period, such as 30 days.
But when a purchase was made the purchaser may have reflected he would take his time in paying. He may have figured the seller did not expect to be paid immediately and would be perfectly happy to get his money in several months' time. He may even have reached the satisfactory conclusion that the seller doesn't care when he is paid.
With the question of payment postponed he need have no concern over maintaining a plentiful supply of cash with which to indulge himself and his family in pleasant extravagances. Therefore, the prospect is altogether delightful. That is, until he learns that a discount is involved and that if he pays at once or within 30 days he will enjoy a reduction of as much as 5 per cent. Ignore the discount and he might as well throw that much money into the gutter.
But where is the ready cash to come from? It must come from the money with which he had hoped to indulge himself and his family. Instead of enjoying extravagances they will have to economize more than ever.
A man may console himself with the thought of what he is saving. But not the members of his family. All the discount means to them is that they will have to continue to see their friends enjoying things which as usual, they cannot afford. They may well ask what use there is in saving money if they must live as though they were in dire poverty. So the discount, instead of bringing joy breeds discontent in the house-hold. Discounts may be good business, but they are not time, pay when you please, too.

Classical Records

By Thomas B. Sherman

ANGEL Records has executed another stroke of enterprise in signing up the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra—a unique and interesting musical organization—for recordings. The first releases include two Mahler symphonies, No. 1 and No. 9, with Paul Kletzki as conductor, which are played with impressive sound and discipline. The wood and brass are not quite as good as the strings but the ensemble is such as to place the orchestra among the world's best. Kletzki's requirements in the two Mahler symphonies are somewhat restricted emotionally in comparison with the full blown and earnest interpretations of Mahler specialists. Each of the symphonies is on a 12-inch long playing disc.

Best Sellers

RACHMANINOFF, Symphony No. 3, played by the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy conducting. (Columbia, one 12-inch LP.)

MENOTTI, The opera "The Saint of Bleeker Street" with Broadway cast and Thomas Schnippers conducting. (RCA-Victor, two 12-inch LPs in album.)

Mengelberg, Walter and other symphonies is on a 12-inch long playing disc.

CONCERTO: David Oistrakh and the Stockholm Festival Orchestra with Sixten Ehrling conducting have produced a superior acoustical recording of the Beethoven Violin Concerto. (Angel, one 12-inch LP.) Oistrakh's mastery of his instrument is once more abundantly in evidence and it is far from being a cold or detached performance. His tonal warmth, however, is more suitable for music whose values are nearer the surface than in this instance. He misses the big line in the first movement, too, by making too many changes of tempo and by failing to broaden the phrasing at critical moments. The orchestral part is soundly played but in rather a disengaged spirit.

Alexander Brailowsky joins forces with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Charles Munch in robust, incisive, aggressive performances of the Saint-Saens Piano Concerto No. 4 and the Chopin Piano Concerto No. 2. The prevailing style is better for Saint-Saens than Chopin; the latter being too assertive and not sufficiently relaxed. Sound reproduction is first rate. (RCA-Victor, one 12-inch LP.)

CHORAL DRAMA: Debussy's "Le Martyr de Saint Sebastien" is given a tonally rich, discriminatingly valued performance under the baton of Ernest Ansermet. This is a beautiful work in which sensuous harmonic resources and chromatic melody are used with illuminating effect to build up a mystical atmosphere. Forces involved are L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, the Union Chorale de la Tour-de-Pellis, Susan Danco, soprano, Nancy Wough, contralto and Lise de Gontmollin, contralto. Susan Danco's sensitive inflection makes her solos particularly appealing. (London, one 12-inch LP.)

CHAMBER WORKS: The Haydn String Quartets in G Major, Opus 76 No. 1 and D Minor, Opus 76 No. 2 are played with mature understanding and crisp execution by the Konzerthaus Quartet of Vienna. Sound reproduction is excellent. (Westminster, one 12-inch LP.) Not so well known to record audiences is the Netherlands String Quartet but its performances of two wonderful Mozart Quartets—the D Major (K.499) and the B Flat (K.589)—should win it a respectful hearing in the future. Its depth and resonance of tone are noteworthy; and its execution shows an admirable concern for grace and ease. (Epic, one 12-inch LP.)

PIANO: Robert Casadesu plays the Debussy Preludes (Book One) with appropriate attention to soft textures and rhythmic pliability. He preserves the line, too. The reproduction, however, has missed some of the more delicate gradations. On the reverse side Casadesu and his wife Gaby demonstrate admirable team work in Debussy's Six Epigraphes Antiques and the same composer's "En Blanc et Noir." As in the preludes these works are shapely as well as tonally agreeable. (Columbia, one 12-inch LP.)

Shashlik Recipe

By Edith M. Barber

"SHOULD lamb or beef be used in the preparation of Shashlik?" asks a reader. Lamb is generally used, but cubes of beef are sometimes prepared in the same fashion. If you must be authentic, you will, of course, use lamb.

There was also a request for a repetition of the method for preparing Shashlik, both in a broiler or in an electric roaster with which many households are now equipped. It is necessary to have long skewers upon which the meat is impaled. Sometimes other ingredients such as pieces of bacon, slices of onion and mushroom caps are alternated with the meat.

The rotisserie will, of course, do its own turning, but if the broiler is used the skewers must be turned occasionally. Just before serving, after arranging the meat on the platter, brandy may be poured rather liberally over the meat and ignited.

In fancy restaurants, the flaming skewers are carried in separately, but this is not practical for home service. The brandy gives a final touch of flavor to the meat.

Shashlik.
Two pounds solid lamb, four small onions, finely chopped, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon thyme, olive oil, cognac brandy. Have lamb cut into two-inch square cubes. Add onions, salt and thyme to olive oil, enough to cover lamb. Marinate lamb cubes in this dressing several hours or overnight. Arrange cubes on skewers and grill in broiler or on electric rotisserie until crisp on outside. Turn skewers often if using broiler. Place skewered shashlik on hot platter and drench with cognac brandy. Ignite cognac and serve flaming. Yield: Four servings.

Beef Kabobs.
Use Shashlik recipe, substituting solid beef, sirloin or top round, for the lamb. Add one clove garlic to dressing before marinating meat. Arrange alternate pieces of beef, thick onions slices and mushroom caps on skewers. Baste several times with dressing during cooking.

Wire Insulation.
When replacing plugs or cords on appliances such as toasters, irons and other heating devices, be sure not to remove any more of the insulation than is absolutely necessary and be sure that the asbestos insulation around the wires extends into the plug. If the insulation tends to unravel, tie it up with thread or coat it with shellac or lacquer.

Creole Shrimp Hint.
Want to stretch that Creole Shrimp? Add cooked snap beans to it.

My Neighbor Says

Cut plain white cake, baked in a sheet pan, in strips. Frost top and sides of cake strips with this frosting. Cream one and a half cups confectioners' sugar with a couple of tablespoons of butter or margarine; blend in a tablespoon of lemon juice and two tablespoons of orange juice. A little grated orange rind may also be added if desired.

A No. 303 can of fruit or vegetables is one whose net weight is 16 or 17 ounces. There will be about two cups of the fruit or vegetable in the can. Some meat products and ready-to-serve soups also come packed in these No. 303 cans.

Cook artichokes in salted water until tender. Drain well, cut each in half and remove chokes. Serve as a first course with mayonnaise to which lemon juice and Bahama-type mustard has been added.

Television Notes and Gossip

COMEDY HOUR on NBC-TV next season may see Martin and Lewis to buck Ed Sullivan every Sunday night. For Dean and Jerry "live" shows to do, just about four times as many as they have ever done in one season before.

Stars who like fantastic fees are happy over the news that the "Arthur Murray Party" will return to the air late in June as a replacement in the Milton Berle-Bob Hope-Martha Raye Hour. The Murray program has a reputation for handing out big checks for guest appearances.

When Martha Raye at the end of her television programs says "Good night, my sisters," she's addressing nuns who helped save her life in the St. Francis Hospital in Miami Beach. Incidentally, Martha was christened Maggie Theresa O'Reed when she was born in Butte, Mont.

Television writers Ed Simmons and Norman Lear got a royalty check recently for a song they wrote several years ago for comedian Jerry Lewis. The check was for $132, royalty on the sale of 12 copies of the song, titled "Strictly For the Birds."

Wally Cox is expected to let "Mr. Peepers" fade away. He will try out a variety format. On May 22 he'll do some straight acting on Theater Hour, carried by KWK-TV.

CHAPTER 19

THE light from an ornamental lamp on the boardwalk danced on the ceiling of the trailer over Jonie's bed. The night wind rustled through the venetian blinds, causing the patterns of brilliance to change constantly.

Jonie stared at them wide-eyed. She hadn't slept a wink all night. All the way from the Gay Cat Cafe, she had argued with Tom, trying to get some more information out of him. All she got was double-talk and promises. He was playing it cagey, Jonie knew.

After they had parked the car, she said goodnight at the trailer door. "Don't worry," he assured her. "I'll be right here in the convertible alongside the trailer all night."

Jonie had protested, but she felt much safer in the trailer alone, knowing that Tom would be nearby. She was still jumpy after her meeting with the stranger.

She looked at her wrist watch. It was 4 a.m. It was useless to try to sleep. She sprang from bed, put on a robe and slippers, and washed her face in cold water. Then she brushed her hair, and walked quietly to the win-

"Tom," she called.

"What is it?"

"Come inside. I'm going to make coffee. I can't sleep."

She heard him get out of the car and close the door. A moment later he opened the trailer and closed the venetian blinds. She closed all the venetian blinds before turning on the lights.

"You might as well lie down there in the living room while I make the coffee," she said.

"You must be dead tired," he replied.

"I'd go to sleep in five minutes if I read something until the coffee's brewed."

Later, as they sat at the dining table, with coffee and sweet rolls between them, Jonie said:

"Tom, you haven't been very frank with me. I don't know what's going on. But there has been something seriously wrong since I didn't tell you. When he said 'tomorrow night' does that mean anything to you?"

Tom turned to her. "I'll say it does. What else did he say?"

"Nothing. Just that."

Tom was thoughtful for a moment.

"Now I've been fair with you and told you all I know. Tell me what you meant when you said someone was being double-crossed."

TOM stared at her for a mo-

"You mean I'm to lie to her, or let her assume something is true that isn't, if necessary?"

"Yes. Anything to give her peace of mind until she recovers from this condition, at least temporarily."

"I understand," Jonie said. "I'll do as you wish."

Dr. West took her to Martha's room. "Just five minutes, Mrs. Hallam. Then you must go to sleep," he warned.

He left the room. Martha mo-

The .13 of an inch rainfall in St. Louis in the last 24 hours boosted the total so far this year to 10.33 inches, compared to the normal 13.48 inches and 7.43 inches a year ago to date. Rain was heaviest in the central and west central parts of the state with 2.36 inches recorded at Butler and 1.65 inches at Kansas City. A hail and thunderstorm hit Columbia last night.

Rain also extended into Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, and minor tornadoes were reported near Pittsburgh, caused property damage but no injuries. Meanwhile, record rainfall prevailed in the southeast. Pensacola, Fla., had 98 days of rain in 1934. Savannah, Ga., 97, and Charleston, S.C., 96.

ALMOST everyone has one or two favorite musical instruments. These may be flutes, harps, trombones or whatnot. My own favorites are the piano and the violin.

If I had to choose between those two, I would be puzzled. Since the violin is the instrument I have heard has come from the piano. The violin, however, gives sweet music which seems beyond compare. When played by a master like Fritz Kreisler, his instrument seems to the open side. In such a case the shell may have acted as a sound box.

It also is possible that a gourd was cut open, and strings were stretched over the opening. Such a gourd can increase the volume of sound when a string is plucked or bowed in a bow.

The original bow probably was of the kind used to shoot arrows. Pictures of the past suggest this was the case. At present the violin bow is made with man's long hairs stretched from end

WORK HAS BEEN DONE to learn the history of the violin, but the early story is lost in large part. In regard to the origin, we hardly can do more than guess.

A violin is a sound box with strings stretched lengthwise over the upper part; it is played with a bow.

That is a sketchy way to describing the instrument. To be more exact, let me say that the violin is the treble member of the viol group. Above the box, at the center, is an upright piece called the bridge, and the strings are stretched tightly over this. At either side of the bridge is a sound hole, an opening to let sound waves pass in and out.

She waited for a moment, breathing with some difficulty. "What did the man say?" she asked.

"He said midnight, tomorrow night. That means tonight," Jonie told her.

"That soon," her aunt exclaimed. "You must tell Pedro. You must tell him as soon as possible. Promise me that you will."

"I'll tell him, Aunt Martha. Anything you wish, I'll do."

"Good. You're a good girl. Jonie. I don't know what I'd do without you. Come closer."

Jonie leaned down over her aunt.

"Don't tell anyone but Pedro. No one else must know the time," her aunt warned in a whisper.
